CAPT. SCOTT AND CREW PERISHED MONTENEGRINS LOST 2500 AND THE THREE MURDERERS PUT TO DEATH

Were Overwhelmed by Blizzard on Return Journey From the South Pole

TURKS 4000 IN BATTLE

Joseph Garfalo, Geo. Bishop and Donato Cardello Executed at Sing Sing Prison Today

OMARU, N. Z., Feb. 10.—Captain Robert F. Scott and his party were overwhelmed by a blizzard on their return journey from the South pole. The entire party perished. They reached the South pole on the 18th of January, 1912.

Terra Nova Sailed June 1, 1910. LONDON, Feb. 10.—The Terra Nova sailed on June 1, 1910, for New Zealand and the South pole and a few days later at Cardiff, took on board Captain Robert F. Scott, R. N.

The expedition consisted of 28 officers and scientists in addition to a crew of 23 picked men from the royal navy.

The other members of the party were:

Lieut. E. R. G. Evans, R. N., second in command of the proposed western party; Dr. E. A. Wilson, chief of scientific staff; zoologist and artist; Lieut. W. A. Campbell, R. N., leader of the eastern party; Lieut. H. L. Pennell, R. N., magnetic and meteorological work; Lieut. H. E. Prentice, R. N., of the western party; Lieut. H. H. Bowers, royal Indian marine; Engineer Lieut. W. E. Riley, R. N., Surgeon G. M. Levick, R. N., doctor and zoologist; Surgeon F. L. Atkinson, R. N., doctor, bacteriologist, parasitologist, F. R. Drake, R. N., secretary, C. H. Meares in charge of the ponies and dogs for the western party; Captain Oates, Inniskilling dragoons, in charge of ponies and dogs; D. C. Dr. Simpson, physicist of the western party; T. G. Taylor, a geologist; B. V. Nelson, biologist of the western party; D. G. Little, biologist, a cherry gardener, assistant zoologist of the western party; H. G. Pentling, photographer of the western party; B. C. Day, motor engineer of the western party; W. G. Thompson, geologist of the western party; C. S. Wright, chemist of the western party; Roastwater, feather in charge of sleighing outfit; Roastwater, a cheatham on the Terra

Nova; H. Williams, second engineer of the Terra Nova; W. Lashley, assistant motor engineer, western party; Chief Steward W. A. Archer of the Terra Nova.

Reports were current at the time the Terra Nova sailed for the Antarctic in December, 1912, to bring back the Scott party that some of the members of the relief expedition had expressed grave doubts as to whether Captain Scott and his fellow explorers would ever return. No reason was given for these doubts, which were freely bruited abroad.

Mrs. Scott left London five weeks ago for New Zealand, expecting to meet her husband there. The last direct word received from Captain Scott himself was brought by the commander of the Terra Nova from the southern ice region when she returned to Akaroa, in Banks peninsula, New Zealand, on March 31, 1912. The brief message was in Captain Scott's own handwriting and said:

"I am remaining in the Antarctic for another winter in order to continue and to complete my work."

The members of the expedition had a very arduous task in putting their stores on shore and the work took a week. They, however, were able to make themselves very comfortable there in portable houses which they carried with them and they at once started their scientific observations. Provisions for a three years' stay had been taken on board the Terra Nova and these were placed on shore. Captain Scott had with him 20 Siberian ponies, 30 dogs and two motor sleds to be used alternately for transport between the landing place and the pole. It was arranged to cover ten miles on an average day and it is apparent that this scheme was carried out up to the point when they reached on Jan. 18 the South pole, from which they were fated never to return.

Bardayoli Hill at Scutari Captured by Montenegrins—Attack on Tarabosch in Progress

CETTINJE, Montenegro, Feb. 10.—The capture of Bardanjoli hill at Scutari by the Montenegrins cost the victors 2500 men in killed and wounded. The Turks left nearly 4000 men killed and wounded on the field of battle. This heavy price paid by both victors and the defenders at Bardanjoli was made known in messages received here today from the front. A Montenegrin attack on the heights of Tarabosch which dominate Scutari on the west has been going on for three days.

TURKISH DEAD AND WOUNDED WERE LIVING OVER BATTLEFIELD

SOFTIA, Bulgaria, Feb. 10.—The rout on Saturday of the Turkish army at Buljar, at the neck of the peninsula of Gallipoli is said here to have been completed. They are reported to have suffered enormous losses. The field of battle was littered with flags abandoned, field guns and machine guns and rifles dropped in their flight by the panic stricken Ottoman troops. The Turkish dead and wounded were lying everywhere. Twenty officers were among the dead. The Bulgarian losses are given out as five officers and 412 men wounded while two officers were killed. The Bulgarians war office says: "The number of men killed among the Bulgarians is not yet known but it appears to have been significant."

TURKISH FORTRESS CAPTURED AFTER SEVERAL HOURS OF HARD FIGHTING

PODGORITZA, Montenegro, Feb. 10.—The Montenegrin army besieging the Turkish fortress of Scutari carried the great Bardanjoli hill by assault this morning after several hours of severe fighting. The infantrymen on several occasions came into such close quarters that hand to hand fighting was general along the line. Bardanjoli hill dominates Scutari from the eastern side and the Montenegrins are mounting siege guns on the heights to bombard the city. Fighting has gone on since early morning all around the city, the Turkish defenders disputing the ground against the besiegers with fierce determination and courage.

TURKISH CRUISER RE-APPEARED AT CONSTANTINOPLE TODAY

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 10.—The Turkish cruiser Hamidieh, which evaded the Greek fleet in the Aegean sea some weeks ago and passed through the Suez canal reappeared here today, having arrived from the Red sea at midnight. She proceeded immediately toward the Aegean sea with all her lights out.

PLAYFUL WITH KNIFE AND AXE

Louis Gantle Made Things Lively at Home—Long Session in Police Court Today

Among the most important cases which were brought before Judge Wright in the police court this morning was that of Louis Gantle, charged with drunkenness and assault. The story of an affair which was staged at the man's home, as gained by the court through the medium of an interpreter, was quite a sensation. The mother-in-law and father-in-law of the prisoner were present and the former was the first to offer testimony on the witness stand. She said that when the man had demanded his wife's pay envelope on last Saturday night, she interfered, he picked up an axe and expressed his intention of making a general cleanup of the premises. Her husband, she said, then came to her assistance and the son-in-law then picked up a knife to use on the father of his prisoner. Continued on page ten

ON WILD GOOSE CHASE Y.M.C.I. WEEKLY SESSION

Doctors Called Out in Middle of the Night Held at Headquarters Yesterday Morning

A number of doctors, perhaps 30 in all, were called out of bed a few nights ago and summoned to different parts of the city to attend to persons alleged to be in a dying condition. It is stated that at least twelve of the doctors responded to the calls received by them only to find that they had been called out of their cosy beds for no purpose. Most of the calls took the doctors to the outskirts of the city and they are pursuing a rigid investigation.

It was stated this forenoon that the bogus calls had been traced to the office of a local physician and before proceeding in the regular way the doctors who were made the butt of the alleged joke will send an alienist to examine the "joker" and will probably have him sent to Danvers rather than to the police station. "I think we have located the right office," said one of the doctors this forenoon, "and we intend to pursue our inquiry. It does not seem possible that a man in his proper senses or right mind would do such a trick, and if he is insane he ought to be sent away."

GRAND OPENING

Music and Souvenirs at Crown Confectionery Co., in Merrimack Square Tonight—Parlors Open at 7

The Crown Confectionery Co., of Boston, New Bedford and Lowell, will open its elaborate ice cream and soda parlors in Merrimack Square this evening at 7 o'clock. Music will be furnished by an orchestra and dainty souvenirs will be distributed. The company makes a specialty of high class candies, ices and temperance drinks.

The regular weekly meeting of the Young Men's Catholic Institute was held yesterday morning at 11 o'clock with President James Gilligan in the chair. At the opening, the names of John J. Berry and D. R. O'Brien were proposed for membership in the club. The committee on the Night-before-least social and dance reported, through its chairman, Mr. O'Neill, that the affair had been one of record success and as a result the fund in the treasury was considerably augmented. A vote of thanks was extended to the officers and members of the various committees who labored for the success of the event.

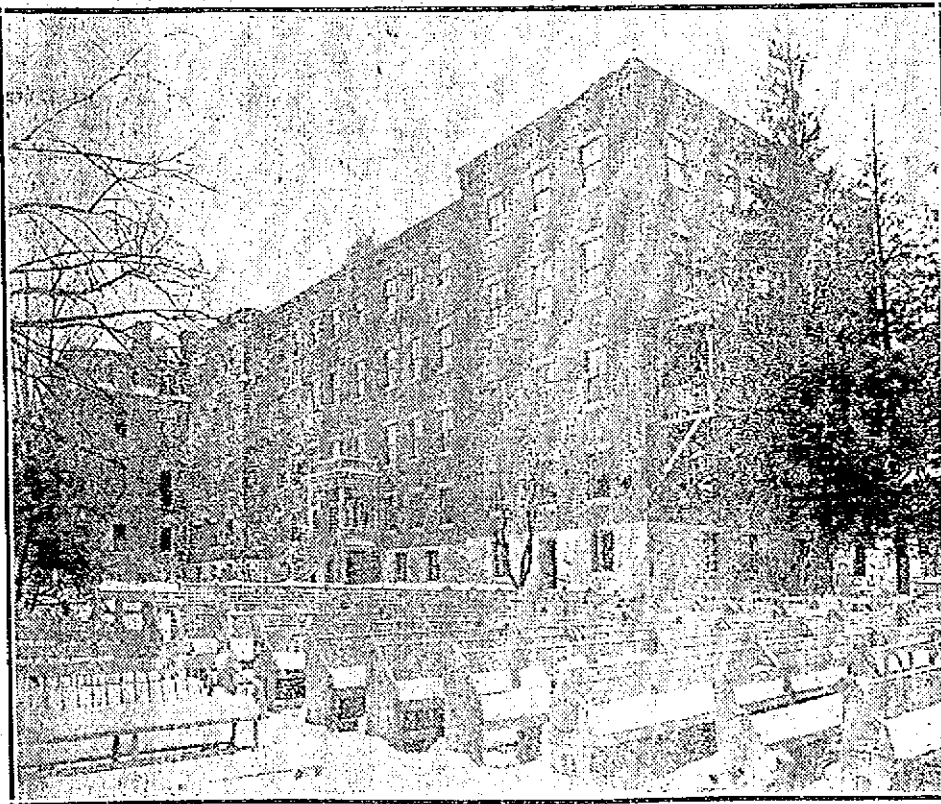

Mr. Clark read the report of the committee on tournaments with other societies and he brought out the fact that the Father Mathew Temperance Institute of North Billerica will send a bowling team to compete with the Y. M. C. I. team on next Thursday evening. A lively contest is expected. This tournament committee is also getting in touch with other organizations for games of cards, pool, billiards and bowling and already they have arranged quite a schedule. More than usual interest is manifest in these competitions by the members.

The matter of parading on March 17 was left in charge of another committee who will submit their report at the meeting on next Sunday.

Optim Cases Postponed

NEW BEDFORD, Feb. 10.—The cases of Edward G. Whitney, charged with being engaged in the traffic of opium and of Henry White, charged with conspiring in the illicit transportation of opium, were postponed until Tuesday morning and neither defendant was arraigned today before U. S. Commissioner Goodspeed. The federal inspectors, who made the arrests were unable to be in attendance at a hearing today and asked postponement.

NEW FRENCH AMERICAN ORPHANAGE NOW COMPLETED AND EQUIPMENT BEST IN NEW ENGLAND

VIEW OF THE NEW ADDITION TO THE FRENCH AMERICAN ORPHANAGE

The addition to the French American orphanage in Pawtucket street was to be opened today, but on account of the building not being quite finished, this was postponed until next Monday. On Tuesday, a week from today, the first mass will be celebrated in the cozy little chapel of the institution, the celebrant to be the pastor of the parish. The blessing of the new edifice will not take place until after Easter, and Cardinal O'Connell of the diocese, it is presumed that he has been invited to officiate at this ceremony, but it is not certain that he will be able to come. With the opening of the new addition a home will be provided for 300 children, 150 boys and as many girls, which will mean about double the number taken care of at the present time. The new building, the little French speaking orphanage of this city, will have one of the finest homes in the country. The edifice is a most modern one and is equipped with all the latest improvements.

The new structure consists of a building 148x60 feet, four stories and basement, and an oil three stories high, 12x78 feet, and is constructed of brick. The estimated cost of the building as filed at the office of public buildings at city hall was $30,000, but with the few changes that were made in the interior

The kitchen is about the best equipped in the city and practically the best in the state. All cooking apparatus was supplied by the Lowell Gas Light Corp. and is the best on the market. It consists of a four-section polish

DELAY TRIAL OF R. R. PRESIDENTS

Tentative Pleas of Not Guilty to Indictments Made Pleas of Record Today

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—The tentative pleas of "not guilty" to indictments charging them with violation of the criminal clause of the Sherman anti-trust law were made this pleas of record today by counsel for Charles F. Mellen, president of the New Haven road and Elison J. Chamberlin, president of the Grand Trunk railroad of Canada. No date for their trial was set.

Judge Mayer, in the federal court, who heard the pleas, set down for argument on Thursday next a motion made by counsel for Chamberlin for the appointment of a commission to take the testimony in England of Alfred Smithers chairman of the Grand Trunk board and other English directors of the road. Affidavits were submitted setting forth that the abandonment of the Southern New England extension by the Grand Trunk was not the result of a monopoly agreement, as the government charges, but simply part of a general policy of retrenchment ordered by Smithers and his fellow directors. To support this contention the testimony of the English directors is sought. Smithers was indicted at the same time as Messrs.

Mellen and Chamberlin. Counsel for the government, it is understood, will not oppose the motion. If granted, it will delay the trial for many weeks.

FIRST AID LESSONS TO POLICE

Very Amusing Demonstration
Given by Physicians at the Police Station

In the guard room at the police station, Sunday afternoon, City Physician Dr. A. Tighe gave the second in a series of five talks on "First Aid." The doctor's talk was very interesting and his hints very valuable. The guard room was filled with policemen and officers and every man was interested. It is quite customary in these advanced and enlightened days to attach some sort of entertainment to the main event and yesterday's affair was no exception, but it was a little in advance of the ordinary entertainment inasmuch as "every little movement had a meaning all its own" and a lesson was taught with every motion that produced a laugh.

After Dr. Tighe had finished with his address there was given a practical demonstration of forcing artificial respiration for the purpose of bringing out, in real action, certain points contained in the address. In this Dr. Tighe was assisted by Drs. Matthews, McManis, John H. Donovan, William P. Lawler, James J. McAdams, Fitzroy H. Pillsbury, Leonard H. Hennessey and George C. Caisse. The men were grouped in squads and each man, in turn, worked over another and when we say "worked" we mean just what we say, or, as the lawyers say "we use the term advisedly."

It is impossible to describe what took place in that guard room at the police station. For a valuable lesson it was the nearest thing to moving pictures or vaudeville that ever happened.

You will read in Dr. Tighe's address that when a fellow is headed for another world with his lungs full of water, the only way to stop him is to push the water out and put air in instead. That isn't the easiest thing to do, and it is not an extremely difficult one if you don't know how. The doctors showed the policemen how to do it.

The guard room floor was strewn with strips of canvas and there were two beer barrels that looked a bit suspicious. If the men's lungs had been filled with beer, it would have been squeezed out in a minute and without the aid of scientific demonstration. It is an important part in play and in order that they would be equal to the occasion they had been relieved of their dizziness.

On each strip of canvas on the guard room floor a husky policeman stretched himself flat on his back, and over him was another husky working as though the under man was about to cross the great divide. The man on top was following a doctor's instructions all the time, and of course men are always a bit awkward on a strange job. The motions that the man on top had to go through with, consisted of pushing the man's arms out, and beyond his head, making them meet, and then bringing them back across his chest. When the arms were crossed on the chest, the man on top was told to bear down and sink of them both down with a vengeance. It seemed, in some cases, as if the man on top had fallen upon an unexpected opportunity to "get square" and sometimes the under man looked as if he would kill the man on top, but he was going through a semi-official stunt and he couldn't afford to let his feelings get the better of him.

The policemen who have not as yet acquired an aldermanic stomach got by all right, but the very rotund fellows had a tough time of it. The fellow whom John Hickox worked over looked the picture of despair. He knew that if John ever lost his balance it would be all off with him and he gave one great big Jack Johnson sigh of relief when John had finished.

The doctors tried to arrange it so as not to get too much together, but it so happened that Dr. Caisse was selected to play top man with Sgt. William Groux. Both of these officers are well known and it probably is not necessary to tell of their physical proportions, but suffice it to say that if either one of these gentlemen is called upon to do the "first aid" act for the other the fellow with his mouth full of water will sail along to some quiet harbor beyond the great bay. The waist line is too great to permit of the motions called for in the "first aid" act. Yesterday they tumbled back and forth, but when the lieutenant attempted to push the sergeant's hands out and beyond his head a couple of afternoon met and prevented it. They furnished one of the big laughs of the afternoon.

The barrel rolling process is an old one, but there is system to it just the same. The doctors' demonstrations on the barrels, too, and one of the officers who was called upon for a rolling had just done away with a big corn beef and cabbage dinner. He didn't remain after having experienced the barrel rolling process, but if ever he drowned it would be in as good a split as the barrels possessed.

The afternoon was both instructive and entertaining, and while the Sunday afternoon lectures and instructions may interfere with home plans the men are all very interested and more than glad to attend the meetings.

DR. TIGHE'S ADDRESS
Dr. Tighe said:
Dr. Superintendent and Members of the Police Department of Lowell:
It was our intention at the beginning of this second conference, to renew our talk of two weeks ago on the subject of first aid. Lowell has given such a complete abstract of that discussion that I would refer to a perusal of their columns for the details of the circumstances which were unable to be present.

The signs of death and asphyxia constitute the subject matter for this, our second discourse. By death, we mean a total permanent cessation of all vital functions. The main signs of death are six in number.

First, the entire and continuous cessation of the heart action.
Second, the entire and continuous cessation of respiration.
Third, the coldness of the body.
Fourth, rigor mortis.
Fifth, changes in the eyes.
Sixth, changes in the skin.

The mere cessation of circulation and respiration is not in itself incompatible with life, but these functions have to be speedily re-established or death will result. You may determine whether or not the heart action has ceased, by placing your ear over the middle of the front of the chest on the left side. If everything is all right, there is no sound, but if the heart has ceased to beat and there is a cessation of circulation, the ability to feel the pulse at the chest is indicative of the continuity of the circulation, but conversely the absence of the radial pulse does not mean that the circulation has stopped. Respiration or breathing has ceased when you cannot detect any movements of the chest or abdomen. If you place a mirror over the mouth of the patient, if there is moisture from the breath deposited on its surface, such a person is breathing. This test necessitates the possession of a mirror, and as you may not always have your victory bag with you, it is better to detect the presence or absence of breathing by an observation of the movement or lack of movement of the chest or abdomen. Several facts enter into the process of asphyxia, and in connection with the cooling of the body, in the first instance, bodies covered with a lot of fat do not cool so rapidly as those which are emaciated. The bodies of the very young or very old cool more rapidly than the bodies of persons in the prime of life. The body heat after death is circumscribable to do with the cooling of the body, or warm, the body cools less rapidly than if cold. A body covered with heat clothing in a warm room will cool less rapidly than one which is naked or exposed to the open air in cold weather.

Rigor mortis means the rigidity of

No Appetite

I could not eat anything, had no strength, no appetite, plimies and sores came out, then I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and my skin cleared up, my appetite returned, strength came back, and I was soon enjoying the best of health. Three hearty meals find me equal to them every day. I work hard and sleep well. Wm. Sample, Christopher, Ill.

It is by purifying the blood, strengthening the nerves and building up the system that Hood's Sarsaparilla restores the appetite and makes sleep sound and refreshing in so many cases.

Get it today in the usual liquid form or in the tablets called Sarsalabs.

The muscles. That comes on from three to ten hours after death, producing a stiffness of the limbs and joints. Shortly after death, the eyes lose lustre and prominence. The globe gradually collapses. An exception to this is in cases where the eyes have been forced toward the head. The eyes under such circumstances may preserve some brilliancy and prominence for some time after the occurrence of death. This is seen in asphyxia and after poisoning with carbonic acid or hydrocyanic acid and exudate of potassium. The pupils dilate at the time of death and do not respond to light. This latter is very important in distinguishing death from certain forms of catalepsy or trances in which the pupils do move upon being exposed to strong light.

After death, the skin becomes pallid and waxy looking, due to the absence of circulation. In some parts it becomes covered by small discolorations. These, in brief, constitute the signs by which you will recognize death. The cessation of circulation and of respiration ordinarily are sufficient signs of the presence of death. It is much better for you, however, to determine the presence of all six signs before coming to the conclusion that death is present.

Symptoms of Asphyxia
Asphyxia is a condition in which the blood is either non-aerated or imperfectly aerated from the lack of a proper supply of fresh air, by reason of which the function of respiration is arrested. This condition of asphyxia may be brought about by several means, e. g., by a ligature around the throat, as in hanging and strangling; by water occupying the place of air in the air passages, as in drowning; by mechanical pressure on the throat as in throttling; by blocking of the upper air passages with some mechanical impediment to the entry of air, as in suffocation; or, finally, by the inhalation of illuminating gas, which forms a rather stable compound with certain elements of the blood, which prevents the same from taking up a sufficient amount of oxygen from the air to continue existence. This latter is really a physico-chemical problem which we but mention by way of being complete. Note that we have considered asphyxia in its general relations. Let us pass a discussion of the specific ways in which asphyxia is brought about. This leads us to the subject matter of hanging, which we may define by saying that it is a mode of death caused by the partial or entire suspension of the body by the neck, the constriction force being the weight or partial weight of the body. It is not necessary that the body should be entirely clear of the ground or other means of support. In legal hanging, with which we have no concern, but which we mention in passing, the neck of the culprit is, frequently broken, which acts as a contributory cause of death. There is still another instance in which hanging is not entirely due to asphyxia—that is, when the constricting force of the cord or rope is not great or if its pressure is exerted high up on the neck above the larynx, a small amount of air may still be able to reach the lungs, but in such cases there is a compression of the vessels of the neck, causing an arrest of the circulation in the brain, which in turn causes death.

To Restore Respiration
Drowning is another common form of asphyxia with which you, as a policeman, will have more or less contact. As we have already mentioned, death from drowning is due to water occupying the place in the lungs that should be occupied by air. Bearing this in mind, after the patient has been

PATRIOTIC SOCIETIES ATTEND LINCOLN DAY SERVICE

At Kirk Street Church—Story of the Great Emancipator From the Forest to the White House

Large delegations from patriotic societies attended a Lincoln day service at the Kirk Street church, Sunday evening. The service was held under the auspices of the Brotherhood of the church and the following patriotic societies were represented: General R. P. Butler Post 41; James A. Garfield Post 120; Ladd and Whitney Post 185, G. A. R.; General Banks circle, No. 26; Ladd and Whitney circle, No. 27; Betsey Ross circle, No. 21; Ladies of the G. A. R.; James A. Garfield

No. 73; Sons of Veterans; Daughters of Veterans; Spanish War Veterans; Sons of the American Revolution; Molly Varnum chapter, Lydia Darrah chapter, Old Bay State chapter, D. A. R.; Company K, Sixth Massachusetts regiment; Lowell Mechanics' Hospital; Lowell City Guards; Putnam Guards; the hosts of the Brotherhood.

A bust of Lincoln was placed in front of the pulpit and flags decorated the organ and chancel rail. The pastor, Rev. C. A. Lincoln, conducted the service and introduced the speaker, Rev. Willard Scott, D. D. of Brookline, who paid eloquent tribute to the memory of Abraham Lincoln.

"Fifty-two years ago this month of February," said the speaker, "on a snowy day, the great Lincoln whom we commemorate, standing on the rear platform of a coach—the man sometimes called an atheist and even an anarchist—with sad and wistful face looked into the eyes of a few that gathered to bid him farewell as he passed from the making of a great life, to the making of a country; and he asked their prayers that he might be sustained in what he declared to be a greater task than had rested on any man since the time of Washington. Two days afterwards, in Sehe-necady, a company of loyal abolitionists, together with sight-seers and those whose interests of varying sorts brought them together, stood on the then decadent old street and watched the incoming of a simple train of cars. On the back platform, the saddest man I ever saw looked out simply upon that company. I do not remember what he said, but the eyes of a child are still into which the seed falls and always bears fruit. These eyes looked upon him—the great, tall, ungainly, ead but towering man.

"There is something peculiarly outstanding in the recognition of the great Lincoln now taking place; for after 40 years of contemplation more or less intense, and after 10 years of controversy and strife, congress has at last passed by a unanimous vote, the recommendation of a memorial to Lincoln. To determine what it was that he was the task of the hour; and this morning's papers announce it.

"It is not in my power fittingly to eulogize so great a life. A humbler task is mine,—to indicate something from the simple story of his beginning and his progress, how this man was chosen for the exalted service he so consummately wrought."

Dr. Scott told the story of the wild Kentucky surroundings, the frontier life of the family of Thomas Lincoln, youngest son of a family to whom the English law of entail had given nothing but a name and the right to go where he pleased. The Lincoln cabin, he said, was not unlike that which Booker Washington has described, which had a hole where the chimney could come in, and a cat-hole, for what reason he never could tell. Yet that shiftless, driven man was descended from the Puritans who had fought in the time of Charles the First. Nancy Hanks, the wife of Tom Lincoln, was of the race that fought Caesar when he banded in Great Britain—a tigress of English blood, the woman who named her first girl Sarah, the princess, and her first boy, Abraham, "father of a multitude." It was ever back to her that Lincoln turned. Said he: "All that I am or hope to be, I owe to my ancestor."

The educational advantages in Kentucky were very meagre. The nearest school was taught by an itinerant preacher who undertook to teach "everything but writing."

The story of the removal of the family into Indiana—a free state—and the death of Nancy Hanks, was very graphically told. Then followed several stories of Abraham's boyhood, when at the age of 12 years, he walked 12 miles to get a copy of the laws of the state of Indiana, and committed them to memory. Then, bearing that the great Preacheridge was to conduct a case for murder, he walked 12 miles barefooted, and making his way to the platform, told the great Breckinridge that he had made the best speech he ever heard.

The well known story was told of his visit to New Orleans, when he saw a negro slave sold at auction and with clenched fists said: "If I ever have a chance to hit that institution I will hit it hard, by the eternal God." Having said that," said the speaker, "he went

If You Wanted to Keep a Loaf of Bread—You Wouldn't Cut it in Slices.

The moisture of the bread would evaporate, leaving it dry and hard.

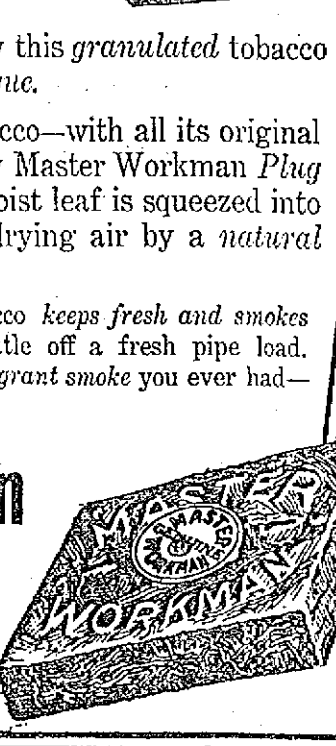

It's the same with Tobacco, some manufacturers chop the "plug" into slices, flakes or crumbs. Naturally this granulated tobacco gets dry—that's why it bites your tongue.

If you want to smoke real tobacco—with all its original flavor, sweetness and fragrance—buy Master Workman Plug Tobacco. All the goodness of the moist leaf is squeezed into the plug and protected from the drying air by a natural leaf wrapper.

That's why Master Workman Tobacco keeps fresh and smokes cool. It can't bite your tongue. Just whittle off a fresh pipe load. You'll find it the coolest, sweetest, most fragrant smoke you ever had—Buy a plug today.

back home and took up the old drudgery,—like another Jesus of Nazareth."

At one time he was a clerk in a store, and sold tea, coffee and calico; and nights he read the Louisville Journal, and studied grammar, because he wanted to know how to talk as the editor of that paper wrote. "The store failed. Why should it not fail? A man who is reading the Louisville Journal and thinking about what is going on at Washington, cannot succeed."

At the age of 24 he was reduced to the necessity of splitting, splitting in order to reach chairs, and he could not pay his board. It occurred to him to study law, and he borrowed a copy of the laws of Illinois and took it out to the cornfield. About that time there came along one of the plums of political life. He was appointed a postmaster. There was no postoffice. All the mail that he handled, he carried in his hat. Later, another plum came; he was offered the position of surveyor in the county. He was a whig and the county was democratic. His board bill was due, and his notes were not paid. What would a man with a grafting tendency do, in such a situation? Lincoln took the position with the understanding that he should be free.

There were several charming stories told of Lincoln's experiences as a lawyer in Springfield; of the characteristic manner in which he handled cases. Then came the story of his marriage to Mary Todd.

Referring to the question of his religion, the speaker said: "He was a man who could not take even his religion without a demonstration. He was accustomed to bound every argument by north, by south, by east and by west. Christian or not, he had the spirit of Christ,—he had the charm and grace of sacredness."

An incident of his campaign for congress, against Peter Cartwright, was told by the speaker. In contrast with the methods of the present-day politicians, his friends had raised a fund of $200 for his campaign, and at its close he returned $182.25.

The exciting days when the question of the extension of slavery was hotly discussed, were described with much dramatic force. Then the speaker closed with the story of the stamped,

200 SLAIN IN MEXICAN REVOLT

Gen. Diaz Freed by Mutineers—
Gen. Reyes Killed—Streets
Strewn With Bodies

TWO YEARS OF CIVIL WAR IN MEXICO

November, 1910—Francisco Madero heads rebellion against rule of Porfirio Diaz, Mexico's "iron dictator" for years.

April, 1911—Madero's revolution so successful Diaz resigns and flees unexpectedly to Europe. Francisco de La Bana, vice-president, takes office under provisional appointment.

November, 1911—Madero elected by national vote, took office as president of Mexico.

December, 1911—Gen. Pascual Orozco, Madero's lieutenant, revolts. Leads insurrection in northern Mexico.

February, 1912—Vasquez Revolutionists under Gen. Geronimo Termino rout government forces at Juarez and proclaim Termino president.

March, 1912—Uprising at Jimenez under Generals Salzar and Blanquet.

May, 1912—Rebel forces under Emilio Gomez establish provisional government at Juarez, after driving out government troops.

June, 1912—Gen. Orozco leads insurrectos in Chihuahua.

July, 1912—Yaqui uprising under rebel leaders, Generals Giuseppe Garibaldi and Emilio Campa.

September, 1912—Gen. Sanchez heads uprising at Ozuanga.

October and November, 1912—Widespread Yaqui uprisings in provinces of Serrera and Chihuahua.

December, 1912—Zapatistas fighting government troops within 25 miles of Mexico City. Yaqui uprisings continue.

February 9, 1913—Revolt of army in Mexico City. 200 slain. Released Gen. Diaz from prison; march under his banner and capture Mexican capital.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 10.—The army rose in revolt in Mexico City yesterday, took possession of the public buildings, shot down federal adherents in the streets, released Gen. Felix Diaz, the leader of the Vera Cruz revolt, from prison and, falling into line under his banner, practically captured the Mexican capital.

Francisco Madero, president of the republic, and the members of his cabinet took refuge in the national palace, where they were besieged, but with some loyal troops at their back, succeeded in defending the palace from the assaults of the revolutionists.

Madero's family has taken refuge in the Japanese legation, and last night the president made a fight, desperate in its effort, against what appears to be enormous odds, for retention of his power.

Gen. Diaz, who is the nephew of the deposed president, Porfirio Diaz, is now at the head of a majority of the capital troops, including most of the artillery, and is in possession of the arsenal in the city and the powder works nearby.

Madero is relying on the loyalty of Gen. Blanquet, who has been summoned from Toluca, 40 miles distant; but Blanquet has only a thousand men under his command, and the rebels are confident of defeating him, should he refuse to join in the movement of revolt.

Four Bloody Clashes

The day was marked by four separate engagements, the most sanguinary of which took place in front of the national palace, but the most important was that which terminated in the formal surrender of the troops in the artillery barracks.

It is believed that not less than 200 persons were killed in the fighting. Among the number was Gen. Bernardino Reyes, a strong adherent of Porfirio Diaz, and an ex-secretary of war. The mutinous troops were led by the students of the military school in a suburb. They marched to the prison to which Gen. Felix Diaz had been transferred for safe-keeping and released him.

Gen. Reyes was also freed from Santiago military prison, there being no resistance in either quarter.

To the army of the mutineers quickly came portulons of the first cavalry, 24th cavalry and 29th Infantry. Gen. Manuel Mondragon, retired, was in command, but gave way to Gens. Diaz and Reyes.

At 8.30 o'clock the first encounter with the loyal troops occurred in front of the national palace, and Gen. Reyes, whose long record as an army officer was broken little more than a year ago by a farcical revolt, was dead. He was killed instantly by a bullet through the head.

Many fell in this engagement, and among the scores of bodies which strewn the streets were those of minor officers, women and boys of the lower classes and members of the great crowd of spectators which had gathered at the firing of the first shot.

Gen. Lauro Villar, post commander of the capital, who remained loyal, was among those slightly wounded.

The minister of war, Gen. Garcia Pena, received a minor injury of the head. At the first call to arms President Madero took command of a force of approximately 1000, consisting of loyal ed police, Chapultepec cadets and a small detachment of volunteers. He appeared at the head of this force a mile from the national palace riding a big gray horse. By his side rode Gen. Huerta, hero of the campaign against Orozco and one of the generals whom the public generally had suspected of being disloyal.

Madero Avoids Bullets

Several blocks from the palace one of Madero's aides attempted to dismount the president, and, placing his hand on the horse's bridge, half turned the animal from the line. Madero protested vigorously and continued to lead the advance until the shooting began, when Gen. Huerta succeeded in persuading him to enter a building in a side street.

This building, by a coincidence, was the same in which Gen. Reyes took refuge during his campaign for the presidency, 18 months ago, against a mob of Madero supporters who attempted to stone him.

The revolt, in its unexpectedness, was such as to stupefy the populace, the lower elements apparently not knowing for whom to cheer. This is particularly given as the reason for the lack of pillaging and looting.

The attack on the national palace found the government not altogether unprepared. In the interim between the release of Gen. Diaz and Gen. Reyes from prison, Gustavo Madero, brother of the president, and Gov. Garcia of the federal district learned of the plans of the rebels. The minister of war and Gen. Villar made hasty preparations to guard the palace against attack.

Riding at the head of their troops, Gens. Diaz and Reyes approached from the east into the Zocalo, the big square in front of the palace. Gen. Reyes appeared for the first time in many months in the uniform of a general, but Diaz was clothed in the ordinary

Challenge Starts Firing

A halt of the mutinous forces was made when Gen. Villar, appearing at the door of the palace, raised his hand and challenged them. His answer was an order on the part of the rebels to begin firing.

Quickly the invading forces assumed positions around the square, which soon was clouded with the smoke from their rifles. Immediately from the palace came an answering fire. The defenders of the palace were using rifles and machine guns.

From the west could be seen advancing the force headed by President Madero. As it approached the rebels retired into a side street.

Thirty minutes later street fighting began in the neighborhood, but lasted only a short time. Neither side appeared ready to press its advantage, but just before noon Gen. Diaz led his command, numbering 1000, on a wide detour, in an effort to reach the arsenal.

When the fighting in the Zocalo ceased, ambulances of the Red and White Cross engaged in the work of picking up the dead and succoring the wounded. The Plaza, an area of four city blocks, was strewn with the bodies of men and horses. Within the palace there were few victims, but Col. Morelos, one of the most loyal of Madero's adherents, was killed.

Stories of Mutiny

Gen. Gregorio Ruiz, a retired officer; two captains and three lieutenants were executed in the patio of the national palace. It is officially reported that this was by order of the government, but another story is that they were killed by a detachment of their own men because they opposed their joining in the revolt. Added to this is the report that these mutinous troops were overpowered and disarmed.

The Red and White Cross ambulances carried the wounded to provisional hospitals, where investigation showed there were almost as many victims among civilians as among the soldiers. Outside of the fighting between the two opposing sides there was little disorder and last night the streets were patrolled by the rebel troops.

During the day only one mob assembled. It attacked the building of El Pais, the only independent morning newspaper printed in Spanish. The building was partially burned.

Gen. Mondragon, who led the mutineers in their first attacks, was at one time prominently identified with the artillery corps. The first rising occurred among the soldiers of the artillery branch of the army. It was they, led by students, who fired the fusillade at the prisoner guards and liberated the two rebel leaders.

Diaz succeeded in capturing the arsenal after a strong resistance by the federals. A large number of rurales and mounted police then went over to his cause. Later an artillery company from Toluca with a dozen field guns rode into the arsenal grounds shouting for Diaz.

It is reported that revolutionary movements have begun in other places, and the Zapatistas are said to be fighting a short distance south of the capital.

SPOKE ABOUT LINCOLN

Sermon by Rev. E. H. Newcomb

Rev. Edward H. Newcomb, pastor of the First Congregational church of this city, delivered a most interesting sermon last evening, taking for his subject, "Lincoln, the Man Who Loved His Enemies." The sermon was a feature of the observance of the birthday of Lincoln and a large congregation was present to appreciate it.

It was on the quality by which the great Lincoln is said to have loved even those who were his enemies that the preacher laid particular emphasis. In part his address was the following:

There have been no teachings in hundreds of years so great as those of Jesus Christ. There were wise men before his time and there have been many since, yet none of them has reached to his magnificent height. His teachings were deep, yet they were simple. In the 5th chapter, 44th verse of the gospel of St. Matthew we find the words "Love your enemies."

"Sometimes we find it very hard to do this yet you know that it is not impossible. Christ set the example. And in Abraham Lincoln we have a Christ-like man. In order that we may appreciate just what it means by loving our enemies we may accept the designation which the gospels put on it. Such enemies are those who curse, hate, spitefully use and persecute you. Our enemies are not always bad or vicious men, but they are those who have a grudge against us."

Rev. Mr. Newcomb spoke at considerable length, dealing with the great principles by which the martyred president was guided in the great struggle for the emancipation of the slaves and the preservation of the Union. Lincoln was compared to Washington Dwight L. Moody.

the beggar, who had a crippled hand. "Gwan on, I'm broke myself," replied Willis.

The fellow drew a revolver and, holding it in both hands, fired a shot into Willis' abdomen. The slayer made his escape. Willis died before an ambulance could reach the scene.

SHOT TO DEATH FOR DIME

Man Refused to Hand

10 Cents to Beggar

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—Crime has assumed a condition in Chicago where a man can be shot to death for 10 cents or the refusal to hand it to a beggar.

Edward Willis of 319 Green street was walking home at 1 o'clock yesterday morning when he was asked by a beggar for 10 cents. This occurred on Green and Jackson Boulevard. Four men standing across the street heard the conversation and witnessed the tragedy. "Give me 10 cents for a bed," said

MR. CITIZEN

In the great industrial game you are the greatest factor.

In the problem of railroad development you are the one most concerned.

The Massachusetts team is incomplete without your active cooperation.

IT'S UP TO YOU

Public opinion is your opinion.

It is on the sound judgment you possess that the efforts of the Boston & Maine Railroad must stand or fall.

Your interests are best served by construction, not destruction.

BACK UP YOUR JUDGMENT

For Massachusetts to win in the contest for industrial leadership her forces must be united.

The Boston & Maine is giving Massachusetts a steadily improving service.

Do your part by supporting the policy of the road and success is certain.

Physician to the Baths, Carlsbad, Austria

In his recently published book, "Health Through Rational Diet," from the press of the F. A. Davis Co., Philadelphia, says:

As a breakfast food another variety of the healthful cereals which are much used in would be advantageous. Grape-Nuts, in which America would be advantageous. Grape-Nuts, in which the floury substance has been dextrinized by long baking and thus rendered digestible and easy of assimilation, is eaten with cream and would be a useful addition to our usual breakfast.

The recommendation of this eminent European authority to the wealthiest health seekers in the world (those who frequent the famous baths of Carlsbad) is especially interesting to Americans.

Grape-Nuts

is sold at grocers almost everywhere in America for 15c the pkg.

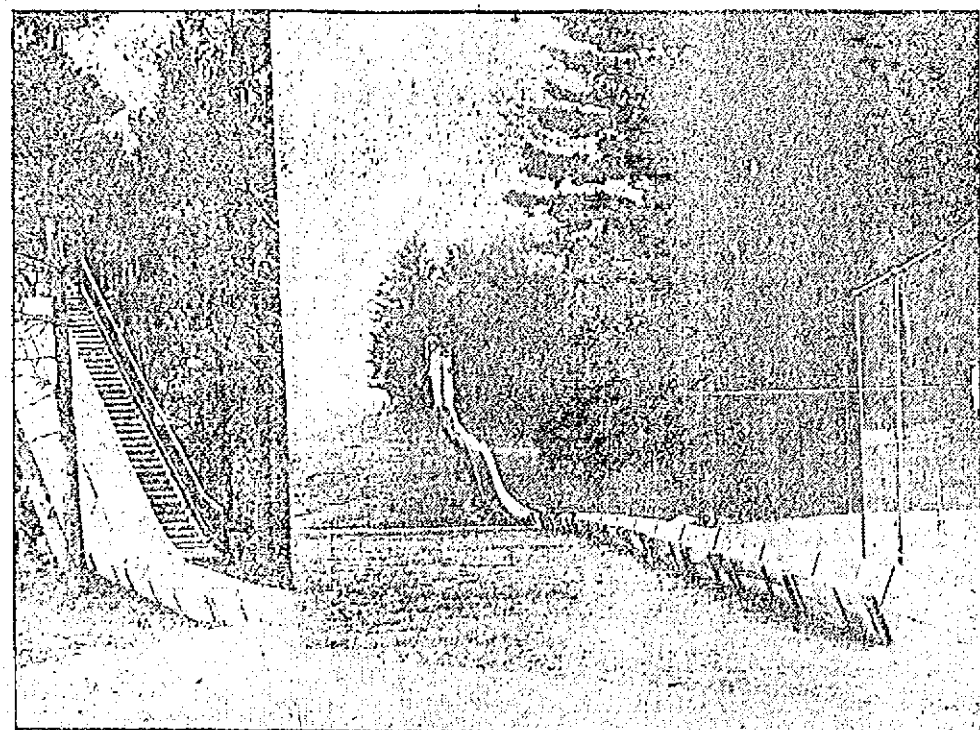

While Grape-Nuts may be a "health luxury" in Europe, this sturdy health-giving food is within the reach of practically every American at trifling cost.

In thousands of families Grape-Nuts and cream is the regular breakfast dish of wide-awake, go-ahead people.

Rich in the brain-making, body-building elements of prime wheat and malted barley, this food has won for itself at home and abroad the title of "The King of Breakfast Foods."

"THERE'S A REASON"

THE VESPER COUNTRY CLUB TOBOGGAN NOW IN GOOD CONDITION—WINTER CARNIVAL PLANNED

A dinner was served at the Vesper Country club Saturday night for the members and their guests, at which 110 plates were laid. The club's usual exquisite taste in such matters was carried out at this affair and the dinner was entertained during the report by the Boston local members and Bangor guests. Their selections were numerous and brought forth much favorable comment from the guests and members. Mr. Charles H. Pettus gave a number of very clever impersonations in his own peculiar and intangible style. It was a very jolly party which wound its way homeward across the swinging bridge at a late hour.

Winter Carnival
The Vesper Country club's winter carnival is an event of the near future if the present weather conditions pro-

vail. The backward and uncertain weather, thus far, has delayed the carnival up to now, and the members are so afraid of being disappointed by the loss of what show we have that plans are now being made for the big annual mid-winter event. Next Wednesday has been announced as the date, but in case of bad weather, an indefinite postponement will be made. The toboggan slide and skating rink have been put in the finest condition, and although there is hardly enough snow for snow shoeing, skating is considered feasible on Tynga Island. The toboggan slide is undoubtedly the most popular of the out-door amusements at the Vesper country club. Both the drop and slide are unequalled in this vicinity for speed and safety, the two main requisites. The slides to the slide are high enough to prevent the toboggan from skipping over the edge, a fault which has caused so much injury on various other toboggan slides. The drop, if anything, is better protected than the slide and is built in the most approved style of the experts of Canada, the home of this exhilarating sport. The weather now is cold enough to assure a freezing water, which is poured over both drop and slide to decrease the friction between the toboggans and the slide. The illumination of the toboggan slide in the evening is very brilliant, high power electric lights being strung out at various points along the route followed by the sleds. After the outdoor sports dinner will be served at the club house for all those participating in the carnival. After dinner dancing and what will be the program for the evening.

removed from the medium in which he was submerged, after you have torn away from the throat anything of a constricting nature, as a collar, the first thing to do is to place the tongue in to remove the water from the lungs. You may accomplish this in one of two ways. If the subject be a boy or girl or an adult of slight build, lift him or her measuring their whole length with face downward upon the ground. Place one foot on either side of the body on the line with the advanced grasp him or her around the middle in such a way that your hands may slip then lift the patient well up against your thighs, allowing the head and limbs to hang down, shake the body up and down several times. This position and movement will force the water out of the lungs. If the subject be a woman, open the water at the back in the mid-line and with your knee cut through the corset lacing, bend the body from around the neck and let no sense of false modesty deter you. Remember that the prime instinct of man is the preservation of the self, or if he be his own that of his fellow. Now turn your patient upon his or her back, perform artificial respiration and keep it up and when you begin to breathe it up some more, bearing in mind that the movements continued some times over a period of two hours have finally been rewarded.

Strangulation
Strangulation is that form of death from asphyxia in which the air passage is completely cut off by the pressure produced by a cord or band of some kind around the neck, without suspension of pressure with the hands. Death results usually from the combined effect of asphyxia and the arrest of the circulation in the brain caused by the compression of the large blood vessels in the neck.

In some countries this is the method by which criminals are executed. The garrote, a steel wire, is twisted by a screw causes death upon this principle of strangulation. In Turkey and some of the eastern countries, strangulation by the bow string is the common method of execution. In strangulation there is a rapid and instantaneous arrest of the circulation, which makes it impossible for even the strongest to help themselves. A handkerchief, a ribbon, a piece of twine or a strip of cloth will suffice. You all remember the Maffie case, even if you were a short time ago. Death in this case was caused by strangulation. If you had been on the roadside it might not have occurred, for you would have torn the cloth from around the neck and upper chest in the process of your observation as to whether anything was wrong. In this process you would have discovered and cut the constricting cord and performed artificial respiration. In this process you would result in death, due not to asphyxia but to compression of the great vessels of the neck which arrest the circulation. In this case a skillful criminal may do this in such a way as to leave no marks. Such a case has recently been before the criminal court in New York.

Suffocation is that form of death from asphyxia in which air is prevented from entering the lungs, not by constriction, nor by strangulation, but by some mechanical device which may operate in one of three following ways: First, externally, by blocking the mouth or nostrils. This is commonly called smothering. It is frequently used to destroy newborn children. Overlying is caused by some part of the person of the parent covering the mouth or nostrils of the babe so as to produce suffocation. An infant may be easily suffocated by the bed clothes accidentally covering its mouth and nostrils. Second, internally, by blocking the throat, larynx and trachea. Third, by mechanical pressure on the chest, such as occurs in great crowds of people. Your contact will be principally with the third type. A person out into an open air space just as soon as you can do artificial respiration.

Death by illuminating gas is really not a death from asphyxia, but also a direct poisoning. Carbon monoxide, a gas which is a constituent of the gas, as the blood of the normal person carries which are necessary to the economy of the body and takes up in their stead the oxygen of the air, is done in accordance with the physical law of the interchange of gases into which law we will not go. When a person inhales illuminating gas, however, the carbon monoxide of the gas combines to form a rather stable compound with the blood, which combination is with difficulty broken up. The blood, therefore, does not readily change this gas for oxygen. The consequence of this is that when a person continues to breathe the illuminating gas, death ensues as a result of the inability of the blood to carry off the waste of the body, the inability of the tissue to get the necessary oxygen and the direct poisoning influence of the noxious gas. If you find a person suffering from illuminating gas poisoning, get him or her into another room as fast as you can, open the windows wide the windows. Direct some one to shut off the gas and open the windows on the room in which the gas is and shut the door. If the patient is unconscious and the breathing is slow or has stopped, do artificial respiration and as soon as the patient regains consciousness give him or her a drink of whiskey or hot strong coffee.

High Cost of Living
WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The high cost of living, judging from figures issued today by the department of agriculture, apparently is solving itself as the result of lower prices for agricultural products. The department announces that on Feb. 1 the prices paid for staple crops averaged nearly 20 per cent. lower than on the same date last year, six per cent. lower than in 1911 and nearly 10 per cent. below those paid in February, 1910. This decline was made in spite of the fact that the prices increased 1.5 per cent. between the first of the year and the first of the present month.

Corn, wheat, potatoes, eggs, together with a number of other commodities are lower, although chickens are commanding a somewhat higher price than this time last year. The increase extends to all meats, each kind commanding higher prices. The prices of staple vegetables, however, have fallen.

FIREMEN SAVED CORPSES

Men Invaded Dissecting Room of University

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—A number of firemen are today recovering from shock sustained from the blaze in the laboratory of George Washington university medical school yesterday in attempting to save a number of persons reported overcome by the smoke on an upper floor. The firemen fought their way through the flames and the dense smoke and were rescuing the supposed victims when it was discovered they were careless and that the firemen had invaded the dissecting room of the institution. The damage to the university buildings was small.

MATRIMONIAL

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the rectory of the Immaculate Conception church, Feb. 4th, when Mr. Thomas Neville and Miss Patricia Talbot, two popular young people of this city, were united in marriage by the Rev. Fr. Tignor. The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Edmund Moran, while the bridesmaid was Miss Eileen Neville. A reception was held at the home of the bride, 222 East Merrimack street and supper was served to a large number of guests. Mr. and Mrs. Neville were the recipients of many beautiful and costly gifts. Mr. Tignor's orchestra furnished music during the evening.

Burkes Held Meeting

The Burkes held their regular meeting Sunday afternoon at their rooms in the Union Bank building. President Mahoney called the meeting to order at 3 p. m. and considerable business was transacted. Four applications were received and the following new members were initiated: William Ryne, Philip Timoney, James O'Dea, William McGuckey, George Groves, John Dean and Patrick McCuskey. The tournament committee reported that a contest would be held Feb. 20 1913, with the Y. M. C. I. The Burkes have never been defeated in a like contest and almost every organization in Lowell has acknowledged defeat at the Burkes' hands.

The dance committee reported that all arrangements had been completed for the coming party. The members have had their photographs taken and have made a large group photo which will be exhibited in one of the down stairs in a few days.

Vice-President James H. Farrell was unanimously elected to represent the society as aid to the chief marshal of the St. Patrick's day parade.

MEET SATURDAY NIGHT

Evening Star Rebekah Lodge held an interesting session—Costume Party Planned for Feb. 22

Evening Star Rebekah lodge, held a meeting Saturday night and Sister Eliza G. Spaulding was the presiding officer. Arrangements were made for the holding of a food sale in March. At the close of the business session a novel conundrum social was held and the prize winners were the following: Miss Ida Samuels, first; and Miss Florence Powell, second. At the next meeting, the festive will be a colonial costume party, for the date of the meeting is also Washington's birthday. Some tableaux will be presented and each member is expected to attend in costume.

THE SO-CALLED PARISIAN FRENCH BREAKS A GOLD, OPENS NOSTRILS.

Interesting Article From the Pen of Andre A. Cote—Some of the Teachers Criticized

The following interesting paper on "Parisian French" from the pen of Andre A. Cote of Pittsburg, secretary general of the French American Volunteer Brigade of New England, was read at a recent meeting of the board of directors of the brigade, and was the cause of much comment. The same was sent to this paper for publication.

Sometime ago a local paper printed an interview with a certain French artist directly from Paris, and the writer gave a comparison of the so-called "Parisian French" and the French spoken in Canada and this country. The writer told of how he could hardly be understood by the Parisian, while he himself had considerable difficulty in conversing with the said artist. In the article written by Mr. Cote are a few interesting facts which go to show that there is no difference between the French spoken in Paris and that spoken in Canada or the United States. The article follows:

To the Editor of The Sun:

I beg the honor of your hospitable columns to treat a question of importance, and that is the question of the French language as spoken in Canada and the United States.

The "French language" as taught in the high schools, not only locally, but all over the United States, wherever it is so, has created an impression among the students and those who come in contact with them that the French spoken in Canada is a language called "Parisian French," a tongue, familiar to them only, and to those who do not know even the elements of French, many students have been placed in a very ridiculous position, on many occasions, when expressing their opinions as they know it. It seems to be their idea that the French they have "heard" about is entirely different from the French as spoken in Canada and in the United States, by the Franco-Americans; that they speak a "patois" or dialect, which they cannot understand, they knowing it as "Parisian French."

I agree with them to a certain point; in that their knowledge of French being extremely limited, they are not able to differentiate from French-Canadian the queer jargon these pupils utter which must be a foreign language never imported from France. French-Canadians understand French when spoken correctly, no matter if the speaker comes from Paris, Marseilles, Algiers, Madagascar, New Orleans, Montreal and even Cochon, China.

The origin of this very false idea seems to have been created by certain teachers and tutors, wanting to impress on the American English speaking people the "extreme exclusiveness" of their language; this to the detriment of their pupils and the amusement of others.

This belief exists, but it should not, being entirely false and ridiculous. The French-Canadians speak French in the same manner their ancestors spoke when they landed on this continent, 300 years ago. They have heroically fought to preserve it as a most precious treasure; they have succeeded. And yet the privilege of Quebec can still be called the Nouvelle France.

To those who pretend to know the language on the ground that they looked over a few books for a year or two, I will say: "Drive away from your mind this false idea. Study French if you should, but study it well enough to master it. It will be a credit to you. A man who masters two languages is worth double." But please leave the Parisian alone.

If French is taught in our public schools under such principles, it is vainly taught. It can be a student's favorite result from his studies if he cannot practice or make use of what he learns? And were he to travel, his poor "Parisian French" would not help him enough to read his "Baedeker."

The following quotations which have appeared in the Fall River News dated Feb. 21, 1911, are from the pen of one of these "connoisseurs" who has studied French in the public schools and from private teachers:

"The Fall River high schools among the subjects on its curriculum presents French. It appears commonly in the second of the course, and runs for the balance of the three years if the pupil desires to follow it so far. Without discussing the number who then let the language drop, it is worth inquiring how many ever make any use of their French. Very few, I dare say, to judge by the exceeding large number of my friends who are carrying around in their brains the elements of several languages, modern and ancient, but all dead as far as any use goes."

"And yet Fall River is, perhaps, the place of the whole country where one would expect to have the greatest use. An immense proportion of the city's population speaks the language. But in the fact that they speak it in the Canadian accent or dialect, lies the failure of our high school French. I do not see just how a school which prepares for colleges and other schools could teach Canadian French or any other accent but the Parisian. And yet it has to be owned that here is great waste. The real idea of education would be to teach every American in Fall River Canadian French as we teach every French child English. There would be a money value to the learners when they had grown up, and there would be an immense satisfaction in being at least as smart as our French friends, who can rattle off both languages in a fashion to make one envious."

"I have repeatedly tried my scholars' French on the local population with utter failure. Should an accomplished speaker of the Canadian language take the time and begin a class, he ought to be met half way by a large number of Americans who wonder from time to time of what mortal use their school French has been, is, or ever will be."

It is a very sad example, one of many, showing the pitiful ignorance of its writer. The boldness of his stupid statements displays perfectly well the broadness of his ignorance. He has tried "his" scholars' French on the local population with utter failure. It is really too bad; but he alone is to be pitied. I wonder what effects his efforts had on the French population of Fall River? Aures habent, et non audient."

A few days after, A. F. Munroe, a learned and well known citizen of that city, wrote the following to the News: To Chat and Comment.

"As an always interested reader of Chat and Comment, will you kindly permit me to make a few observations in respect to an article which appeared in that column on Feb. 21?"

"Admitting the general excellence of your contributions, you are evidently not well informed in respect to what is called the Canadian language, and the Parisian accent. The truth is that there is neither a Canadian language nor a Parisian accent, if by the latter term one means a standard of French found only in Paris. The Canadians speak French and not a patois. Those among them who are educated speak a pure French and with more uniformity than it is spoken in France."

The ignorant Canadians of Canada speak their language as ignorant people everywhere speak their mother tongue, well or badly, according to what their circumstances in life have been, but the most ignorant among them would have no trouble in understanding the most cultured, or even the most pedantic Frenchman, though he were a member of the French academy. If he took care not to speak over their heads, of subjects of which they were ignorant."

In respect to the Parisian accent the term is scarcely understood in France in its true meaning as it is here. "The educated French speak alike everywhere in France, in Belgium and in Canada and as a cultured French gentleman once observed in the way Parisians speak, it is a departure from the usual correct way of speaking French."

Would one go to London for a standard of English pronunciation? If one ought all to learn to speak correctly. "The relation between the so-called Canadian French and the French of France is similar to the relation which exists between the American English and the English spoken in England; but it is to be observed that the United States than it is in Canada, so also, the English spoken in America approaches a little nearer to correct English than does the ordinary speech of Canadians to correct French."

English is spoken with more uniformity in America than it is in England. Our Lanchester friends from England undoubtedly speak English, but one must admit that their English has its peculiarities. The same is true in respect to the language spoken by the uneducated Canadian."

I think that the above statements will be confirmed by every educated Canadian in Fall River."

"I suggest that you, in your capacity of Canadian priest, lawyer and doctor, and I am sure you will see no necessity of teaching the 'Canadian language' in our public schools."

The article from Mr. Munroe is that of an intelligent scholar, a master of the language and who had occasion to speak it. His remarks should be posted in the textbooks of many teachers and would-be scholars. It would be of great benefit to them."

A very amusing incident happened lately: It is worth mentioning: A young French pupil of a high school desiring to take a two-year course of French instead of one year, asked her teacher if she could. She was answered in the negative. So the young pupil told the teacher that her father (who has a very good knowledge of the two languages) would teach her French during her second year at home. The teacher seemed to be horrified. "My dear girl," said she, "that is impossible. I have taught you, and your father, who is a Canadian, cannot teach you that language. The teacher was right. That girl's father did not know "Parisian," but I am sure he can teach French to that same teacher, although he was born in Nova Scotia, and has never been in Paris."

It seems singular that learned persons show such ignorance. How can the French-Canadians speak a "patois" or a Canadian language, when such "patois" is unknown in Canada? But a "patois" is to be found in all the provinces of France, in Bretagne, the Basques-Pyrenees, in L'Auvergne, and the center of France."

Of course a few words, a few expressions, have been adopted to meet with the requirements of the land and climate: these to be sooner or later accepted by the French academy; but as a whole, the language after three centuries is still spoken with great purity: to the surprise and admiration of many visitors and lecturers from Europe."

Ferdinand Brunetiere of the French academy has openly expressed his pleasure to find the remarkable uniformity of the language, as spoken in Canada. He has discovered many expressions still in use from the century of Louis XIV, which are, unfortunately, lost to the Parisians."

Another important fact which seems to be ignored is that the books used in the schools of Canada, and in the parochial schools of United States, for the teaching of French, mostly all come from France, and these books are not printed in "Parisian" or "Canadian," but very plainly in French. The grammar of the French academy is used and it is not a "Parisian"

Pape's Cold Compound Cures Colds and Grippe in a Few Hours—Contains No Quinine

The most severe cold will be broken, and all gripe misery ended after taking a dose of Pape's Cold Compound every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken.

You will distinctly feel all the disagreeable symptoms leaving after the very first dose.

The most miserable headache, dizziness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, running of the nose, sore throat, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness, rheumatism pains and other distressing troubles, Take this wonderful Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is nothing else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Gripe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any drugist can supply—contains no quinine—belongs in every home—accept no substitute. Tastes nice—acts gently.

The works of our writers have been in many cases published and printed in Europe. Some of these works have been crowned by the French academy; the authors of the works have studied in the schools and colleges of Canada. French is taught in our parochial schools by Canadian and European teachers. Ask these teachers to explain to you the difference between the French as taught in the schools of Europe and of Canada. The answer will be, "On both continents French is taught as French should be."

And by the way, the expression "Parisian French" is very indefinite. What is meant? A writer who has visited Paris said, "There are as many Parisian languages in Paris as there are districts."

Is the language of the boulevard? Is it that of Montmartre, of the Quartier Latin, of the Faubourg St. Germain, of the Balançoires, of the Terminus, of the Villette, of La Roquette, of Neuilly, of Montreuil? etc., etc. So a student of "Parisian" has a very large field of exercise. And it is not after a year or six months in Paris, or the memorizing of a few sentences from a guide book, that will give him enough knowledge of the language as to pose as a "connoisseur." If one of these students (I also mean the teachers) doubts the fact, I suggest that he should ask him to call at the reference room of the public library, and ask for a volume of the "Annales de la Societe Royale du Canada," French section. This valuable collection contains essays, poems and literary works of Canadian authors. Let them try their knowledge by reading these articles. If they cannot understand them, they do not know what French is.

What would one of our American English-speaking friends say if he heard a French-Canadian mastering the language well; that he is speaking the "London English"? He would laugh, and with reason. English is English, when well spoken, and so is French. I will close with a quotation from a writer on the same subject:

"Let us say that 'Parisian French' is a myth, which exists in the minds of certain ignorant purveyors who cross the seas every year, and who know about as much about French as the average high school student. French is French when spoken correctly whether the person using the language be an inhabitant of Paris, Marseilles, Brussels, Montreal, Quebec (or even Lowell)."

"We grant that there may be slight differences in the accent or in the pronunciation, and admit that the pronunciation is slightly different to that of the Parisians. What of it? How different in accent is the language used by the average American to that of our British cousin? How different that of the Virginian from that of the Yankee? How would we smile to hear one thoroughbred American carry back with him the English of the British metropolis, and how at (Harvard they would laugh) to hear us speak of the 'Dialect of Wellington.'"

This ridiculous belief, whose cause is only found in ignorance, will, I hope, disappear, resulting in the enlightenment of the students of French, and adding much to their credit. "A chacun le sien." I am, Mr. Editor, Yours very truly,

Andre A. Cote.

MORE WINDOWS SMASHED
Suffragettes Raided West End in London

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Militant suffragettes today raided the West End district known as "clubland." Pieces of brick and hard clay balls were thrown through the windows of the Carlton, the Reform and other political and social clubs in Pall Mall. Windows were broken also at the residences of Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, a relative by marriage of King George.

HEADACHE?—IT'S YOUR LIVER
Too Many People Take Headache Powders When a Liver Tonic is Needed

Try Olive Tablets—the Substitute For Calomel

Anyone who takes Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets the moment he suspects his liver or bowels will never have headache.

There is no necessity, when you take Olive Tablets, of following them up with nasty, sickening, griping salts or castor oil, as you should after taking calomel.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel or any other metallic drugs; they are purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, sugar-coated, easy to take, and never grip or cause weakness.

Thousands of people take one every night before going to bed to prevent disorder of the liver, constipation, bad breath, pimples, headache, etc.

Dr. Edwards, calomel's old enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with liver and bowel troubles.

Try them for a week. Take one on retiring nightly.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own." 10c and 25c per box.

"CASCARETS" FOR A SICK, SOUR STOMACH.

SLUGGISH BOWELS CAUSE GASES, SOURNESS AND FOOD FERMENTATION

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases, that pain in the pit of the stomach, the horrid, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means a disordered stomach, which cannot be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any.

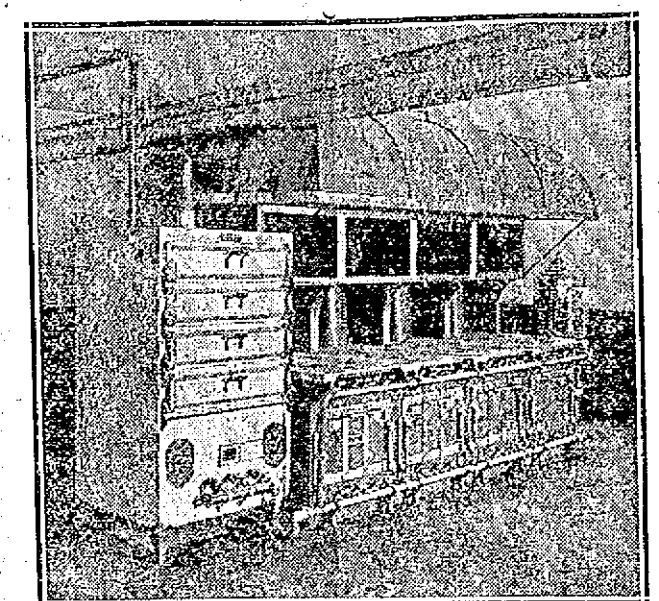

Try Cascarets; they immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach; remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels. Then your stomach (trouble is ended). Cascarets (tonight) will straighten you out by morning. A little box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

steel vulcan gas hotel range with four ovens, 24 1/2 inches wide, 14 1/2 inches high and 36 inches deep. There are four warming closets used for keeping dishes and warm food. There are four sections to the stove and each has a top burner which is regulated to give any degree of heat desired. Those are automatically lighted by a dash pilot. The cooking surface of the stove is one smooth piece of steel and so built that any time in the future more sections may be added by just connecting a strip of metal on the top. The top of the range is adorned with a large hood, which connects with the flue pipe and carries away all odor. The pastor in deciding upon the range best suited to the kitchen ascertained that this particular make is in use in the Bellevue free from odors, coal dust, or other dirt derived from a coal stove. Those who have visited the new orphanage express the opinion that the culinary apparatus, and particularly this model gas range, is the best available. On each side of the kitchen are two large dining rooms, one for boys and the other for girls. All the other floors of the building contain sleeping apartments, bath and toilet, as well as recreation rooms. The ell of the addition contains a large assembly hall built in amphitheatre style and a chapel 35x70 feet with a seating capacity of about 400. The altar is finished in white enamel with beautiful will trimmings. Above the altar is a beautiful life size statue of the Savior, while on each side of the chancel are located costly statues. A large wrought brass chandelier is

A. building, Lowell, and the Tewksbury institute. Next to this range is a 10 gallon coffee urn, heated by gas, while on the other side is a large baking oven with five compartments. This is also heated by gas and can bake 48 loaves of bread in a batch in about 30 minutes. Another important gas apparatus which is soon to be installed in the building is the clothes dryer. This is a sort of a steel rack with 300 lineal feet of racks on which is hung the wet clothes on rainy days. The hot passes from the little gas stove on the outside into the racks, and as many of these racks can be used as are needed. This is a very handy apparatus for it can dry clothes in about 20 minutes. A gas laundry stove which will heat about 30 tons at once has also been installed. The result of this gas apparatus installation means that the kitchen is one of the best in the country, while it is suspended from the centre of the ceiling in the sanctuary. At the rear of the chapel is a gallery containing an organ and benches for the members of the choir. On the top floor of the ell are situated two large class rooms well furnished. On each floor of the main building are recreation rooms, bath, toilet and dormitories, the latter being equipped with neat little iron beds. In these dormitories are some twenty or more marble sinks with hot and cold water. There are also other class rooms in the main building. The building was erected in the rear of the Ayer residence near the grove and is a fine piece of architecture. Work was started some time in April and was hurried along. The general contract was awarded to Contractor J. B. Murin, with the exception of the heating contract which was given Desmarais & Bourret. The plumbing was done by J. J. Mulligan, while the electrical work throughout the edifice was done by Laurier Tremblay.

FUNERAL OF M. J. CONNOR

Was Attended by Many Mourners

The funeral of Michael J. Connor took place this morning from his home, 73 Pleasant street, and was largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends, including several people from out of town, among whom were many members of St. Paul's church, Dorchester, of which a son of deceased, Rev. "All is Well That Ends Well"

Along with dyspepsia comes nervousness, sleeplessness and general ill health. Why? Because a disordered stomach does not permit the food to be assimilated and carried to the blood. On the other hand, the blood is charged with poisons which come from this disordered digestion. In turn, the nerves are not fed on good, red blood and we see those symptoms of nervous breakdown. It is not hard work that does it, but poor stomach work. With poor this blood the body is not protected against the attack of germs of grip-brochitis-consumption. Fortify the body now with

CATHOLIC PARISH NEWS

Mission Opened at the Sacred Heart Church

ST. PETER'S HOLY NAME SOCIETY RE-ELECTED FORMER OFFICERS

Special Services for Lent at All the Churches—Forty Hours' Devotion at St. Patrick's

At all the masses at the various Catholic churches throughout the city yesterday morning, the annual collection for the benefit of the holy see was taken up. The services both morning and evening were largely attended and the sermons at the high masses were most interesting and well as instructive. All of the churches are holding special Lenten services morning and evening, and at some of them, the way of the Cross is held on Sunday afternoons.

With Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I., of the Immaculate Conception church as director, and Rev. John M. O'Brien, O. M. I., of the Tewksbury church assisting, the opening of the two weeks' mission took place at the Sacred Heart church last night and was attended by one of the largest congregations in the history of the parish.

Plans for this mission have been in progress for some time and the effort was spared to make it most successful in every way. Last night the attendance numbered more than 1500, filling the entire auditorium to its entire capacity together with the choir gallery and the sanctuary. Many extra chairs were also pressed into service.

The services themselves were quite impressive and consisted of recitation of the rosary, an instruction on the rosary by Rev. Fr. Sullivan, a sermon on "Salvation," by Rev. Fr. O'Brien, followed by singing and benediction of the blessed sacrament. The addresses of the evening were most instructive. Rev. Fr. Sullivan, in his sermon was brief, yet full of wholesome and beautiful thought. He dwelt on the importance of the rosary as a scriptural devotion, for in its various mysteries, sorrowful, glorious and joyful, it contains a story of the early church, the death of Christ, his agony, and various other important episodes in the worship of the Catholic church. He then spoke of the mysteries separately, explaining each, its meaning and their bearing on our every day life and finally explained the correct manner of reciting the rosary, by meditating on these mysteries and the events of the prayer. By so doing, the faith of the person will be greatly strengthened, he said.

Rev. Fr. O'Brien's sermon created a great impression on the congregation. He spoke on the meaning of salvation as we know it, dwelt on the method of obtaining it, and the cost of the prayer. It offers as contrasted with the punishment which men are forced to undergo if they neglect it. Rev. John P. Flynn, O. M. I., officiated at the benediction of the Blessed Sacrament which followed the discourses.

The first week of the mission is for the women of the parish and instructions will be given at 10 o'clock on Friday and Saturday at the 8 o'clock mass they will receive Holy Communion and the papal benediction will be given by one of the mission fathers.

The second week of the mission will be opened on Sunday night and the services during next week will be the same as this week.

St. Patrick's Church

Announcement was made at all the masses at St. Patrick's church yesterday that of forty-hours' devotion will commence on Thursday morning next at eight o'clock. This service will be fittingly opened with a solemn high mass and will close on Sunday at 11 o'clock with a similar service.

At the high mass yesterday of which Rev. James J. Kerrigan was the celebrant, Rev. Timothy J. Callahan delivered a very instructive and forceful sermon, deriving his topic from a text in the gospel of the day. At all the masses the special collection for the pope was taken up. Special Lenten services are held each evening at half past seven o'clock and thus far have been very largely attended.

St. Peter's

A meeting of the Holy Name society of St. Peter's parish was held last evening in the lower chapel of the church with a very large attendance of the members. President James Cook was in the chair.

The chief business of the session was the annual election of officers of the organization and all of the officers of the previous year were re-elected as follows: President, James W. Cook; vice president, John J. Watson; recording secretary, Bernard D. Ward; financial secretary, John L. McDonough; and treasurer, Rev. John E. Burns. The breakfast committee submitted a report and a report of Secretary Bernard D. Ward of the St. Patrick's day convention committee was also read. It was voted by the members to participate in the procession of Irish Catholic societies on March 23, in observance of St. Patrick's day. A committee of 18 was selected to take charge of the arrangements for the parade, etc., on this occasion, and the following members were appointed: Rev. John P. Burns, chairman, James W. Cook, Bernard D. Ward, Joseph Scallen, Dennis Sheehan, John Sadlier, John King, Richard Lyons, William Campbell, John Conway, Thomas McAnany, John Carey, Michael Heatherman, John Lyness, Cornelius Hinkley and Patrick Higgins. A committee was chosen to look after the sick members and it is composed of the following: J. W. Cook, Bernard D. Ward, James Duff, James

JAMES W. COOK President St. Peter's H. N. S.

Sloane, John King and Eugene McGreevey.

Lenten Mission

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the married women's annual Lenten mission opened at St. Louis church with Rev. P. E. Gauvreau, O. P., of Fall River as preacher. There was a very large congregation of women present, and the exercises opened with the recitation of the rosary by Rev. R. A. Forster, assistant pastor. The reverend gentleman announced that exercises would be held every night this week for married women, and then introduced Rev. Fr. Gauvreau, O. P.

The preacher delivered a forceful sermon on "Sin," and the service closed with the benediction of the blessed sacrament. Rev. R. A. Forster officiating. There will be masses every morning at 7 and 8 o'clock, but instructions will be given in the evening only. Confessions will be heard every afternoon and evening beginning tomorrow evening. Next week the unmarried women will follow their regular Lenten exercises. The other two weeks will be devoted to unmarried and married men.

The married women's retreat at St. Joseph's church opened last night with Rev. Fr. Giguere, O. M. I., as preacher, while at St. Jean Baptiste church Rev. Fr. Francoeur, O. M. I., occupied the pulpit. There was a large congregation in both churches and the exercises will be followed every night this week.

St. Margaret's Church

At a meeting of the Holy Name society of St. Margaret's parish, yesterday, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Frank J. Campbell, vice president, Hugh J. Molloy, financial and recording secretary, George P. Green, treasurer, Rev. Charles J. Galtigan, pastor of the church.

It was also decided at this meeting to hold the whist, social and dance in Highland hall on March 27 and accordingly the following committees were appointed to take charge: Daniel W. Shanahan, chairman; Geo. P. Green, John Connolly, Thomas Burns, Thomas O'Donnell, Walter Hickey, Daniel Reilly, Wm. Etzell and John Barrett.

In Memory of Fr. Joyce, O. M. I.

The 12th anniversary of the death of Rev. William D. Joyce, O. M. I., former pastor of the Immaculate Conception church, was observed at that church this morning by the celebration of an anniversary mass by Rev. Mr. Tighe, O. M. I., the present pastor. There was a good sized congregation in attendance, showing the reverence for the memory of this popular clergyman, who was one of the great pioneers of the parish. The regular choir rendered the Gregorian mass, the solos being sustained by Charles P. Smith, and Mrs. Walker, who also presided at the organ.

OUR ANNUAL FEBRUARY SHIRT SALE Commences Wednesday, the 12th

Again we come before you with our February Shirt offerings, and again we state "with the most attractive value yet offered"—a statement which seems almost a fallacy in these days when everything seems to be going up in price. But we can claim much for these shirts, as they come from a big maker far away from this section. "A Shirtier," who is very desirous of seeing his product made popular in New England, made a proposition we dared not refuse, and to our delight on opening up the boxes we find them as he stated, "The best shirts you ever saw for the money."

Choose from 177 dozen Negligee Shirts, coat style with cuffs attached, or regular cut with separate cuffs. All new spring patterns of Garner's Percales, absolutely fast in sun or wash, and by far the best for wear; light or dark grounds with handsome stripings, pearl buttons, split neck bands and withal the biggest, roomiest shirt you'd want.

Only 69c Each 3 for $2.00

Every one a dollar shirt in all particulars, and so guaranteed. On sale Wednesday morning.

60,000 BOYS BECOME SCOUTS

During the Past Year—James E. West, Chief Scout, Executive, Makes Annual Report

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Proof that at least 60,000 boys joined the Boy Scouts of America in 1912 is presented by James E. West, chief scout executive, in his annual report which will be read this week to the members of the national council at the third annual meeting. It consists in the fact that 61,473 tenderfoot badges were issued in 1912, as against 47,500 in the previous year.

There are many more tenderfoots connected with the organization who have no badges and who joined in the last year. Accordingly it is estimated that the actual number of new scouts enrolled in 1912 is much greater than is indicated by the number of badges sold.

Mr. West's report shows also that in 1912, 12,897 second class badges and 2,991 patrol leaders' badges, making a total of 15,888, were sent out to the scouts in the course of the year as compared with 6,884 of the previous year. The total number of first class badges and patrol leaders' badges for 1912 amounted to 2115 as

The Crime of Waste

You've seen lots of people who, though they eat a plenty, do not grow strong or healthy.

They waste their food because they do not assimilate it.

"It is not the food we eat that keeps us alive, but what we assimilate."

H-O Oatmeal is one of the most readily assimilated of foods.

It is the one oatmeal fit to eat after only 20 minutes of cooking by you, because it is the one oatmeal first, cooked over two hours at the mill.

When you eat H-O after cooking it 20 minutes you get all the nourishment possible out of the oats. There is no waste about it.

It is likely he will never depart. One of the moral precepts is a pledge that binds him to be honest, unselfish, courteous, and to desire to help others, and to give kind aid daily. The basis of the movement is in no way military. The idea, however, is to keep the boys divided into squads so that a close scrutiny may be kept on their actions."

Scouts Know One Another

One scout can tell another scout even when not in uniform. That is proved by A. R. Hewitt, special field scout commissioner of Birmingham, Ala. "I was at a picnic last summer," he writes, "and I was asked if I thought there was a scout among a crowd of boys playing on the beach. They happened to be from the best families. I looked them over and soon was able to point out one boy. I asked him if he wasn't a scout. He immediately gave the salute. The others were not scouts. Naturally I was questioned as to how I had picked out the one boy scout from a group. My reply was, 'Watch him carefully. You will see he is more wide awake than the rest; his actions are more precise; he is more polite; he displays a readiness to help every one. His movements show training for active use; he is very observant; his eye does not miss anything in the water or on the land. Practice has made it secure to be wholly alive.'"

What the Boy Scouts Are Doing

The Boy Scouts of America in Longport, Indiana, under the direction of Scout Commissioner L. O. Wetzel, sent out Christmas packages to 300 poor children. These packages contained candy, toys, clothes and other things to delight the boys and girls.

In Greenville, Ind.

The Boy Scouts of Troop No. 2, in Greenville, Ind., went on a bear hunt recently as to how they had picked out the one boy scout from a group. My reply was, 'Watch him carefully. You will see he is more wide awake than the rest; his actions are more precise; he is more polite; he displays a readiness to help every one. His movements show training for active use; he is very observant; his eye does not miss anything in the water or on the land. Practice has made it secure to be wholly alive.'"

Other Scout News

The Boy Scouts of America in Greenville, Pa., have started a movement in their town for the establishment of the M. C. A. They have appealed to the newspapers to start the circulation, and have made calls on the men and women in the town in regard to the project they have joined, and the value of having such an institution and having a building where people of all kinds could meet.

Seventy Boy Scouts of Oklahoma City, led by Scoutmaster L. E. McDonald, explored the hills and ravines west of the city for traces of the old Chisholm trail, and Trade Post. On a hike of 16 miles they picked out the location of the old road. They found arrow heads, remains of an old bridge, buffalo bones and other things along the trail.

Mrs. Katherine B. Tippetts, St. Petersburg, Fla., organized a troop of scouts and got a scoutmaster interested in the work. E. A. Wood, who owns a large country estate, gave the boy scouts permission to use part of it for camping and hiking.

BASEBALL MEN MEET

Big Leaguers Out Strong

in New York

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Baseball men continued to arrive here today for the final gathering of the big leagues before the opening of the 1913 playing season. The schedule meeting of the American league, set for this morning, promised to be brief and productive of little except routine business. This afternoon was reserved for a meeting of the national committee—the supreme court of baseball—but it was said that complaints of only a minor character were to be disposed of.

The National league schedule meeting will not be held until tomorrow, but there were meetings on for this afternoon, including the International league and the Eastern association, formerly the Connecticut league.

There have been reports to the effect that several big trades would be negotiated during the American league meeting, the object being to strengthen the Highlanders. Frank Chance has several deals pending, any one of which may be put through while the club-owners are in this city. The new leader of the Highlanders arrives here today.

NOTED SUFFRAGETTE ILL.

Dr. Mary Walker in Critical Condition as Result of a Fall a Week Ago—She is 81 Years Old

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—Dr. Mary Walker, the noted woman suffragette, is critically ill at a hospital here from nervous shock caused by a fall a week ago. Dr. Walker is 81 years old. It did not become known generally that Dr. Walker was in a hospital until last night when she failed to keep an engagement to lecture. The aged woman says that her arrest a short time ago for wearing male attire was indirectly responsible for her fall as she says she strained herself in climbing into a patrol wagon.

FOUR OCCUPANTS INJURED—ONE MAY NOT RECOVER

Two Plunged Under Car—Companions, After Regaining Consciousness, Extricated Themselves Under Machine

BOSTON, Feb. 10.—Four men were seriously injured early yesterday morning, shortly after 1 o'clock, when a big touring car plunged down a 16-foot embankment at the junction of Everett avenue and the Revere beach parkway in Everett, burying two of the occupants beneath it when it turned turtle.

Gilman McFarlane, living at the Lincoln apartments on West Baltimore street, Lynn, is at the hospital with concussion of the brain, a cut over the right eye, his right ear drum broken and injuries to his back, and is thought to be dying.

Pinned Under Car

Of the other three men Forest Sloper of 20 School street, Lynn, who was pinned under the wrecked machine with McFarlane, sustained a deep cut over his right eye and injuries to the back. Alfred B. Harrington of 217 Highland street, Lynn, a bad shaking up, and Lincoln L. Robbins of 885, who was driving the car, is confined to his bed with injuries to his back and his face is badly cut and swollen.

Robbins and Harrington were hurled into the air and lay stunned for fully

PERPETUAL MOTION

We believe that we come the nearest to winning of any one, who has contested for the honor of solving this difficult problem. Our sales of bread have so increased within the past few months that the making of it appears to be one continuous operation with a seemingly unceasing end. There's a reason, and, Fleischmann's yeast and King Arthur flour compose it.

Five minutes. Then they managed to lift the heavy auto and drag their injured companions from beneath the machine.

Suffering intense pain and greatly weakened, the two men, together with Sloper, who had partially recovered, carried McFarlane for over a quarter of a mile to the Washington avenue car barns in Chelsea. Here they telephoned for a taxicab and were taken to Lynn.

When they arrived at the office of Dr. W. L. Martin, McFarlane was thought to be dead, but after being treated he was put to bed and about 6 o'clock in the morning he had improved enough to be taken to his home.

Dr. Martin dressed the injuries of the other men and they were sent home. Autoists had been to the motor boat show in Boston and were returning home, when Robbins, who was

Ernest Cutler Price. The majority of fans would never notice this name, but when it is linked with Jack Dillon, the "Hoosier" middleweight, everybody recognizes it. Dillon's next appearance in this vicinity will be against Bill McKinnon at Thornton, R. I., next Monday night. McKinnon is already at the prescribed weight, which calls for 155 pounds at 5 o'clock.

New Orleans promoters are trying to bring about a meeting between Al Wamsburg, the ex-national amateur lightweight champion, who won the title in this city, and Ray Branson, the Indianapolis boxer who aspires to welterweight honors. Jimmy McForrest has assumed the management of Wamsburg.

Eddie Flynn. The Lynn lightweight is very anxious to meet Johnny Duhan, the Brooklyn boxer. Duhan and a lightweight, which the matchmaker of the Lowell A. C. will select shortly, will furnish the Washington's birthday attraction.

The showing of Bowers in the distance events Saturday night is only what has been predicted for him through this column. Bowers went out and ran a well timed race in the 1000 yd. race and finished the event apparently spent. When the call for the mile came and the Lowell boy lined up for the start the comment of some of the athletic followers present was that he could not recuperate in the time that elapsed between the two events. They, however, had not taken into consideration the barrel chest that Bowers possesses or did not realize its power. A runner with a chest like his is blessed with tremendous staying-up qualities. Bowers also has a good pair of legs upon which to build an athletic record. If this boy be specialized by a good distance coach and gets his stride lengthened out they would be very few distance performers getting away from him, be they schoolboys or not!

Just take a look at the Fairmount bowling team's scores in Saturday's match! Five men bowling 300 or over isn't a feat that is seen very often. The total, 1324, stands as a high mark for the season thus far.

"Ed" Cawley came into his own Saturday night in the dual meet with Commerce High. "Ed" put of 41 feet 2 1/2 inches in his first try. Any means for with the proper coaching this shooter can beat 45 feet with the lead pill.

The members of the press, or better perhaps a few sporting writers, for lack of other material, are again agitating the investigation of Paul Withington by the A. A. U.

The matter is a recent news value because of the notoriety of the Thorpe case. Some journals have compared the situations of the two famous athletes. True, both are "all round" men; Thorpe, the more a general, in his track and field events. Withington, remarkable in his versatility. Here the similarity of the two cases ceases.

Thorpe did not realize what Corinthian sport demanded. Withington cannot claim such excuse, if indeed he needs one. From boyhood the latter has been studied in the meaning of the word amateur. He has known from the first that an amateur is a lover of sport, one who plays the game for its own attraction. Any question as to whether he has overstepped the amateur code touches the public and the sporting world, as a violation of ethics more than the Thorpe matter.

The A. A. U. is an organization originally intended to promote amateur sport. As such it deserved commendation. So long as it codified rules, kept record tables and unified competition it did valued work. Of late it has extended beyond this field.

At the present time, James Sullivan is the personification of the A. A. U. Under present rulings no man is to be permitted to compete in an A. A. U. contest without contributing to the exchequer of Mr. Sullivan and his associates. Should an athlete compete in public without this formality, or should he compete in events which have not received the A. A. U. sanction, he is regarded as unclean. Then he is blacklisted. All true sportsmen, all real athletes, know that legislation and official edict cannot make an amateur other than he is. The real test of sport resolves itself to this: Is the athlete competed in sport for financial reasons, or in conjunction with money seekers, has he played or taught the game for a monetary reward?

It is said that Mr. Sullivan's interest in the A. A. U. is monetary. Indeed some have been stating that the Thorpe case has proved of distinct financial benefit to one of Sullivan's personal friends. Certainly there has been great dissatisfaction with Mr. Sullivan's official conduct.

I have had the pleasure of knowing Mr. Withington. I know his record. An all America football player, a crack swimmer, a champion wrestler, member of victorious Harvard crews, a thorough lover of the game, he stands for achievement in those sports that test the mettle of the man.

Because he wrestled in an event that did not acknowledge the A. A. U. right to demand homage, is he a professional? If so are not all college events professional games? (The A. A. U. has not been able to control the intercollegiate field. College athletes as such do not subscribe to the theory of Mr. Sullivan's divine right.) Because Mr. Withington draws a salary from the Harvard Athletic association, is he a professional? No, he is a professional man more than Mr. Sullivan. True it is, Mr. Withington does teach athletics at Harvard and elsewhere. But whether he teaches or not, he does not make a difference in his salary. That salary is dependent on his bookkeeping, not on the breadth of his shoulders. Were more men actuated by Paul's feeling, true sportsmanship would flourish. In the present controversy my hat is off to a man I am proud to know, a splendid teammate, a generous opponent, to Paul Withington.

THOMAS AND MCLOSKEY

To Appear in the Main Bout Friday

Joe Thomas, the local middle-weight, is still considered by many critics to be a worthy contender for the title, left vacant by the late Stanley Keich. True, the latter defeated Thomas, but who has defeated Joe Thomas since? Next Friday night Thomas and Bink McCloskey will meet at the Lowell Social and Athletic club in a 12-round bout, and every assurance is given that the contest will be a fast one. McCloskey's European triumphs have earned him enviable attention among the American middle-weights. McCloskey is confident that he will win and is training with the one object in view. As Thomas takes the best of care of himself, he is not allowing anything to bother him, but plays along in his daily training stunts wearing a confident smile.

Thomas will do his training during the remainder of the week at the C. Y. M. I. gymnasium on Suffolk street. He will be assisted in his workouts by an efficient corps of "seconds." Joe expects to win and will then take a trip west, where he has offers to meet some of the present middleweights. He had a bout arranged with Tony Sullivan of Lawrence, but the latter decided to come to terms. Joe made several concessions, but as Sullivan would not agree the bout was called off. As Joe has beaten practically all the middleweights in this section of the country with the exception of McCloskey, whom he will meet Friday night for the first time, he feels that he will be obliged to go west. Jack Boyle, who has met Ray Wood, Eddie Flynn, Young Jasper, and numerous other clever highweights in the semi-final this week, against Bill Corrigan of Cambridge. The latter is going fast at the present time and this number will surely be a hummer. Young Daly of Manchester will meet Young Morgan of Manchester, who dropped Kid Dunn at last week's meeting. In the other preliminary Gardner Brooks will meet Young Crow.

DIAMOND NOTES

Eddie Plank. The Athletics' star southpaw, has not signed his 1913 contract yet, and it is feared that the great pitcher will make good his threat to retire from the game. Manager Conner Mack admitted last night that he was not sure Plank would be with the White Elephants when they left for San Antonio, Tex., on Feb. 24.

President Charles W. Murphy of the Chicago National league club announced yesterday that he had insured the lives of Manager John J. Evers and Catcher James Archer and Roger Bresnahan for $50,000 each. "I don't think I could replace either of the three players for $50,000 and as a business proposition I decided to insure their lives for $150,000 for my own protection," said Murphy.

Now that Howard Camnitz has signed with the Pirates, Marty O'Leary and Hendrix are the only Pittsburgh pitchers who can be considered as holdouts.

Charles ("Chick") Fraser, a former member of the Chicago National league baseball team, has signed a contract to manage the Pittsfield, Mass. club of the Eastern association.

Fred Clarke of Pittsburgh used to be considered the best left-handed southpaw in the land against southpaw pitchers.

Because of the ill health of Secretary John H. Farrell of the National association the office of an assistant is to be created and filled at once. It is said that Secretary Farrell is no longer physically able to care for his work and because of his long service it is planned to relieve him of much of his tedious work.

Dick Hoblitzel, the able first baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, has signed a two-year contract with the Cincinnati club.

President Johnson of the American league has presented Bill Dingen with $200 as winner of the prize offered last spring for the umpire who could show the least time average for games won during the season. Dingen umpired 155 games, the average time of the contests being one hour and 55 minutes. Frank O'Loughlin, who officiated in 142 games, was second, with an average of one hour and 57 minutes. The other six umpires had exactly the same average, their time being one hour and 55 minutes.

Manager Evers of the Chicago Cubs, who arranged an exhibition game with Syracuse for the benefit of Mrs. James Doyle widow of the late Jimmy Doyle, third baseman of the Cubs, who played with the Cubs (New York Times) last year, has made a two-year deal with the team for the 1913 season after one year of good service as third baseman of the Chicago Cubs.

According to a Los Angeles despatch, infielder Arthur Shaffer of the Giants, last week turned down a second contract sent him by the New York club, with this statement: "I have positively decided to get out of the game. McGraw has not enough money in my present plans. I have had enough of the game and think that I will tour Europe this year." Shaffer would have been the regular shortstop of the Giants next year if he had accepted the terms of McGraw.

Captain Bill Sweeney of the Boston Braves has been in professional baseball for nine years and has always been a pretty fair stickler. Yet in all that time he has never been hit by a home run. Sweeney's faculty has always been in driving the ball just out of reach of the infielders.

Ban Johnson, president of the American league, does not approve of the statement recently made by Harry Herrmann, manager of the Cincinnati Reds and chairman of the national commission, to the effect that the supreme body of baseball is about to demand a showdown from the officers of the Amateur Athletic union with a view to ascertaining why college students, during vacations, are not allowed to play professional baseball, since they are otherwise paid for their play. He declared he was not in favor of the course outlined by Herrmann, in fact, that he would be opposed to the commission taking any action at all in the matter. Johnson further said that he, as president of the American league, had personally protected a number of college men from faint of professionalism by refusing to promulgate their signed contracts until after they had been graduated.

Frank Chance left Los Angeles yesterday for New York to take charge of the New York American league play for their spring training trip to Bermuda. Chance had little to say regarding the prospect of New York in the coming race. The players are all new to him in a way. "From what I can learn of the individual players we will start off with a bunch of good class, but with some weak spots that must be strengthened," he said. "I will know what my plans of reorganization will be until after I return from Bermuda. I have no plans of a definite nature, nor have I any deals or contracts to make. I will have a good pitching staff to start with and if Chance wants to play second base I probably will try my old position at first again."

TOMMY MURPHY OF BROOKLYN, THE ORIGINAL HARD LUCK FIGHTER

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11.—Tommy Murphy, Brooklyn lightweight, is the original hard luck kid. When he has a match with a good man the good man usually gets sick just in time to call the match off or else he is laid up himself. Now it's Joe Mandot, the crack southern fighter, who has the grip and will not be able to meet Tommy in Frisco Feb. 22. Jim Coffroth, the Pacific coast promoter, is anxious to have Ad Wolfast, the ex-champion, meet Murphy. The latter is willing, but Adolph wants $10,000 and expenses.

MANY GOOD GAMES AND SCORES

Bowlers Were Active Saturday Night—Interesting Contests on All the Local Alleys

There were a large number of games bowled on the local alleys Saturday night and numerous good scores were the result. The Fairmounts in the Y. M. C. I. league put up the highest team total of 1324. The Oakdale was completely outclassed in this contest. In the Brunswick league the Calvary Baptist team defeated that of the Immaculate Conception by the score of 1364 to 1226. Perrin of the winners was high man with 290.

The Washingtons were the victors in their six-man match with the Braves at the Y. M. C. I. gym by the score of 1513 to 1492 in a close game. McLean was high with a total of 307. The Vibrators won their game from the High Cores in the Heinze Electric league by 83 pins.

A bowling team representing the Saco-Lowell shops of this city went to Manchester Saturday and took the Amoskeag team into camp by the score of 1480 to 1111 in a six-man match. The Vibrators of Lowell was high with 232.

The Walnuts handed out a defeat to the Chestnuts in their game by the narrow margin of 16 pins. Humphries of the losers had the high total of 238.

The Netherwood team was an easy winner in their game with the Nichols bowling team, taking all three strings and the total by the score of 1181 to 1052.

The Remons outbowed Donahue's Pats by over 100 pins in their match Saturday night and won the total by the score of 1245 to 1103.

The scores for the various games: Fairmounts: Gillis, 309; Scully, 304; McCaffrey, 300; Stowell, 219; Mulligan, 302. Total, 1534.

LOWELL HIGH WON TRACK MEET

Defeated the Commerce High, 64 to 17—Bowers' Work a Feature

The High school track team won their dual meet Saturday night with Commerce High of Boston at the Police street annex by the overwhelming score of 64 to 17. The boys from Boston scored but two first places and were outclassed after the meet got well under way.

Smith, the leader of the visitors, is a sterling performer and if there had been a few more men of his calibre the meet would not have ended the way it did. Smith won the dash and looked to be the winner of the high jump but refused to fire himself by jumping off the tie between himself and a teammate. In the three hundred yard dash the Boston boy was in the lead after rounding the second bank but threw a shoe and was forced to retire. Lowell was very lucky in this event for all three places were won by them after Smith met with his mishap.

Bowers, the distance king of the High school athletes, was the star of the meet along with Captain Bailey. Bowers won both the 1000 yard mile and the Lowell leader captured the 200 yard dash and the hurdle event as well as taking three points in the 30 yard dash. Both boys showed marked improvement over their work of last week.

Cawley was another feature of the meet with his heave of 41 feet and 3 1/2 inches in the weight event. His best put was blocked by an iron girder, but the mark that was allowed to stay is the best that has been seen in the two meets held this year.

The summary of the various events is as follows:
30 yards dash: First heat won by Bailey, Lowell; McDonald, Boston, second. Second heat won by Douglas, Lowell; Spaulding, Lowell, second. Third heat won by Hersey, Boston; Carter, Lowell, second. Fourth heat won by Trull, Lowell; Libbee, Lowell, second. First heat of semi-finals won by Bailey, Lowell; McDonald, Boston, second. Second heat of semi-finals won by Smith, Boston; Carter, Lowell, second. Final heat won by Smith, Boston; Carter, Lowell, second; Bailey, Boston; Carter, Lowell, second; Bailey, Boston; Carter, Lowell, second.

1000 yards run: Won by Bowers, Lowell; Beck, Boston, second; Safford, Lowell, third. Time: 2 min., 43 sec.
Running high jump: Won by Smith, Boston; Davis, Boston, second; Chase and Dutton of Lowell tied for third. Height: 5 feet, 4 inches.
200 yards dash: Won by Bailey, Lowell; Haggerty, Lowell, second; Trull, Lowell, third. Time: 41-43 sec.

600 yards run: Won by Spaulding, Lowell; DeLorme, Lowell, second; Burrows, Boston, third. Time: 1 min., 34 sec.
Shot put: Won by Cawley, Lowell; Sturtevant, Lowell, second; Gill, Lowell, third. Distance: 41 feet, 9 1/2 inches.

INSTALLING 300 NEW LOOMS

Business Good at Tremont and Suffolk Mills—Other Interesting Mill News

Business at the Tremont & Suffolk mills is reported good, and all the help is kept busy. Three hundred new Draper looms which were purchased some time ago have arrived and are being installed in the No. 5 department of the plant, which means that as soon as they are ready to start, more help will be needed.

Business Poor
The month of January was, as a whole, a very poor one, so far as the cotton yarn market is concerned, and the past week was no exception. Practically no new business was placed, and only a limited amount of buying of the hand-to-mouth order was reported. So far as prices go, they are just about what they have been the past three or four weeks. Although there still continue to be sales reported at a cent or two under the market.

The buyers are not yet showing any inclination to place their orders even at such concessions as have been offered them, believing, as they do, that by holding off they will be able to get their yarns much cheaper in the not far distant future. In the event that they are not, then they are content to buy from hand to mouth.

New Condensers
At the mills of the Bigelow Carpet company in this city, 20 new Barker condensers, manufactured by the James Barker company of Philadelphia, have recently been installed.

New Patents
Among the new patents granted at Washington are the following to Lowell residents:

Spindle support for spinning, twisting and the machine, Nos. 1,047,187, 1,047,188 and 1,047,189. George W. Farnham.
Bleaching apparatus. No. 1,044,185. Eugene D. Jefferson.

Persons
John Vaughn, formerly with the Camden Woolen Company of Camden, Me., has accepted the position of overseer of carding at the Faulkner manufacturing company in North Billerica. Henry Pendergast has accepted the position of second hand of carding at the Middlesex company.

Mr. Bromley has recently accepted a position as second hand at the Beaver Brook mills, Collinsville.

J. H. Lawler, formerly with the Middlesex company is now overseer of finishing at the Stirling mills.

Dividend Declared
The Merrimack manufacturing company has declared a regular semi-annual dividend of two and one-half per cent. on preferred stock, payable March 1.

Annual Meeting
The National Association of Cotton Manufacturers will hold their annual spring meeting April 23 and 24, in Boston. It is understood that the Textile Exhibitors Association whose meetings have usually been held at the same place, will not have an exhibition this spring.

Of Interest to Loomfixers
The strike of loomfixers still continues at the Pequea mills of John P. Wood, in Philadelphia, and at the various Aberfoyle mills in Chester, Pa., of which company John P. Wood is vice-president. While the loomfixers merely ask a definite wage of $20 per week, it is stated that the Aberfoyle is paying strike breakers $18 per week plus $7 per week for board and lodging to each man who stays seven weeks. At the Pequea mills the strike has been dragging along since last August. At least fifty mills in Philadelphia are paying the $20 per week flat, and at the Folwell Brothers & Co.'s Collingwood mills they not only pay this rate of wages, but they have a machinist to do expert work upon the looms. This is the company of which Nathan P. Folwell is president, and he not only pays his loomfixers $20 per week for every week in the year, but he never lays them off, gives them four weeks' pay if sick, and each one has a week's vacation without loss of wages. The Saxonia Dress Goods mill, of which Joseph Kaufmann is president, and other manufacturers in Philadelphia, pursue the same course.

Before discussing this subject further it should be explained that much higher requirements are demanded of loomfixers in Philadelphia and vicinity than in some other sections of the country. The loomfixer often hires the weavers of his section. He inspects the cloth and his efforts are so fully enlisted in the efficiency of the mills that the work of the weavers is greatly improved thereby.

Atlantic Mills to be Sold
The Atlantic cotton mills, of Lawrence, Mass., of which Frank E. Dunbar of this city is president, have a heavy indebtedness, and a reorganization of some kind has become necessary. For some time, it has been generally understood that the Pacific Amory, Browne & Co., who have been selling agents for the Atlantic mills, have, until recently, held a large block of Atlantic stock, and this, together with that owned by the estate of the late Arthur Amory, amounts to something over 50 per cent. of the total stock.

This majority interest has been purchased through the Beacon Trust Company for $12.50 per share, and has been taken over for the Pacific mills. The last balance sheet of the Atlantic cotton mills shows a net debt of something like $300,000, and an analysis of the annual statements makes it evident that more working capital must have been obtained in some way, had the present management decided to continue operations.

Assessed at $307,000.
The Atlantic has 3000 looms, nearly 78,000 ring spindles and 25,000 mule spindles, and as a going concern is assessed for over $307,000. The Beacon Trust Company officially informed the board of directors of the Atlantic cotton mills last Monday, that they had bought a majority of the capital stock at $12.50 per share, and were willing to purchase all or any part of the remaining shares at the same price, provided it be delivered on or before Feb. 15, 1913.

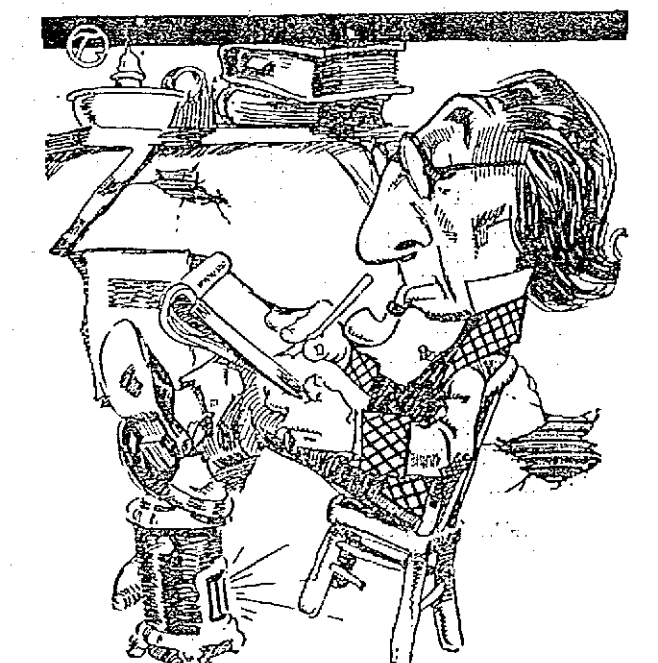

There has been considerable difficulty in arriving at any terms agreeable to both the Beacon Trust company, client and the directors of the Atlantic cotton mills, and the Atlantic cotton mills directors refused to accept the first proposition made by the Beacon Trust company, which did not embody the above clause regarding the sale at public auction. A circular, dated February 1, has now been sent out to the stockholders of the Atlantic cotton mills, a copy of which we print below:

Boston, Mass., Feb. 3, 1913.
To the Stockholders of the Atlantic Cotton Mills:
We have received and transmit herewith copy of an offer from Beacon Trust company. Valuing the plant at $500,000, we believe that $12.50 per share is a fair price for this stock. The terms of the offer of the Beacon Trust company are such that if the plant at public auction brings a greater amount than $500,000, stockholders selling their stock will get the benefit of the higher price. We, therefore, shall ourselves accept the offer of the Beacon Trust company, and recommend its acceptance by the other stockholders.

Yours very truly,
Frank E. Dunbar,
Grafton St. E. Abbott,
James Lawrence,
William F. Wharton,
Amory Elliot,
Walter Hunnewell,
being all the directors of Atlantic cotton mills.

Nothing Doing on N. H. Senator
CONCORD, N. H., Feb. 10.—Out of 427 members of the New Hampshire legislature seven appeared at the state house this noon to ballot for United States senator. Each named a different candidate and there was no choice.

THE NEEDFUL ONE
Should poets cease their tender lays
To warble, write, I mean—
They might be missed in many ways,
Yet cause no anguish keen.

The populace would not grieve them,
Nor cry out in dismay,
As it does when the useful bard
Doth cease his lay.

FOR THE GOOD WEATHER

WASHINGTON HOPES FOR INAUGURATION OF WILSON

GRANDSTAND IN FRONT OF CAPITOL
© 1913 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—"What will the weather be?" is the question that is interesting all Washington these days. Rapid progress is being made on the various grand stands that will be erected for the inauguration. The largest stand will be in front of the capitol, where the new president will take the oath of office. Mr. Wilson has been quoted as saying that his inaugural speech will be short, and if the weather is bad it will be still further curtailed and will be extremely brief.

MRS. CLEVELAND WEDS

Wife of Ex-President Marries Again

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 10.—Mrs. Grover Cleveland and Thomas Jux Preston, Jr., were married at 10:30 o'clock by President John Grier Hibben of Princeton university in Prospect, the executive residence of the university.

No preliminary announcement had been made of the marriage and the utmost simplicity was observed in the ceremony.

Course at Y. W. C. A.
The educational committee of the Y. W. C. A. has arranged a course of programs for six Tuesday evenings, to come every other week, beginning Feb. 18. There will be no charge to members, but a few choice tickets may be obtained for men or other non-members.

The program as arranged is as follows:
Feb. 18—Hon. Samuel Powers of Boston, ex-congressman, noted lawyer and platform orator, "Some Famous Men Whom I Have Known."

March 4—Pianola-piano and victrola recited by Mr. Heywood and Mr. Hyzer.

March 18—Mr. H. E. Duncan of Waltham, stereopticon lecturer on "A Pocket Watch."

April 1—Rev. Willard Scott, D. D., after-dinner speaker and humorist, "The Enchantment of the Near Future."

April 15—Mr. James A. Burns of Boston, Ocean Greyhound and Foreign Travel, illustrated with stereopticon slides.

April 29—Mr. Cy Warman, noted author, traveler and lecturer, "Canada," illustrated by moving pictures, with a few colored lantern slides.

Some of these lectures will be held in Kittery hall, others will of necessity be carried on in a larger auditorium.

One of the social events of the year will be the Colonial reception held at the Young Women's Christian Association tomorrow afternoon and evening, when the guests will be Mrs. John Thompson, a member of the northeastern field committee, and president of the Portland, Me. association, and Mrs. Edith Terry Bremer of New York city, who is national immigration secretary.

Both women are familiar with many phases of association activity and will be heard with interest both in the afternoon and evening. In the evening the entertainment, "On Plymouth Rock," will be presented by boys and girls of the Varnum school.

WEDNESDAY LINCOLN DAY

Exercises Will be Held in Public Schools

Lincoln day, Wednesday, Feb. 12, will, as usual, be appropriately observed in the public schools. Gov. Foss has issued a proclamation in which he recommends the observance of the day by the people with appropriate exercises in the public schools and otherwise. He says that exercises should be held and the day properly observed in order to perpetuate in the commonwealth the memory of the public service and private virtues of Abraham Lincoln.

The following is from the proclamation: "I earnestly commend to the young people of Massachusetts the high ideals which animated the great president throughout his public service; his complete freedom from selfishness and self-interest; his deep understanding of human nature; his broad sympathies and his unflinching devotion to the public good." Copies of the proclamation have been sent to all the grammar schools.

Gov. Foss believes that the attention of the students in the school should be directed to the character and conscience of Lincoln on Lincoln day with appropriate exercises; to the end that the example of his life may continue as an inspiration to the young people upon whom the future of our commonwealth depends.

ENGLISH WOMEN TOOK MISS PANKHURST'S PICTURE TO LLOYD-GEORGE

LONDON, Feb. 15.—While most of the militant suffragettes in England are not of the working class, the "votes for women" movement has many supporters among those who labor for their existence. A delegation of working women recently detailed to see Lloyd-George and present their demand for suffrage to him took along with them a large portrait of Miss Christabel Pankhurst. They said that they believed the picture of the handsome young woman would serve as an inspiration, and they hoped that it would favorably impress the chancellor of the exchequer, who is favorable to the cause, but is censured by some of the women because his efforts in their behalf have not been particularly successful.

Wife. Father-in-law in turn took an axe to defend himself from the knife, but the defendant was by that time thoroughly aroused and even an army could not stop him. With the axe and knife, he drove the other occupants of the house out of doors and for a time held the house against them. Such was the story of his mother-in-law on the witness stand this morning. The judge found it best to place the man under bonds of $100 to keep the peace and in addition to this he imposed a fine of $5 for Sunday drunk.

Larceny of Suit Case
James R. Williams was brought into the police court to answer to a charge of the larceny of a suit case containing a variety of articles, including four waists, handkerchiefs, towels and a razor, the property of a George H. Stark. According to the testimony of the complainant, Mr. Stark, he went to a lodging house in Lee street and had two suit cases when he arrived there. He was shown to his room and left the suit cases there for about 15 minutes while with the landlord he went down stairs to hunt up a store. On returning, he found but one of the suit cases in the room where he had left it. Before he had gone down stairs, he said, he had noticed another man who had greeted him and asked him if he was going to live there. A Merrimack street pawnbroker testified that on Saturday night the man had come into his place and pawned the suit case for $1, and Officer McLoughlin told the court the circumstances of the man's arrest. The suit case and contents, with the exception of some stolen articles which were missing, were exhibited in court and identified by the owner. Williams was found guilty and sentenced to serve five months in the house of correction.

Neglected His Children
Not guilty was the plea of William M. Mitchell to a complaint, charging him with neglecting to provide proper support for his minor children between November 5 last and Feb. 6. He was found guilty and placed on probation being ordered by the court to pay the probation officer $4 weekly for his children.

Had No License
Three men were arraigned in court this morning on complaints alleging that they have been conducting shops without a license. They were Morris Schulerman, Harry Levy and Jacob Gillman. The police have begun a crusade against offenders of this kind, for it has of late been the means of disposing of a great amount of stolen goods and it is believed that the proprietors of these second hand stores are failing to report the sales of goods at their places. Levy was in but a few days ago on a similar charge and was fined $20, after which he entered an appeal to the higher court. The cases of Levy and Gillman were continued to Feb. 19, while Schulerman was held for trial on next Friday.

Drunken Offenders
Joseph J. Burke received a sentence of four months in jail and this was suspended for six months; Frank W. Douglas created quite a sensation by his actions in Middlesex street last night until taken in charge by Officers Clark and Sheridan. He was on probation before and in court this morning, this was revoked and the sentence of four months in jail was affirmed. Peter Russek was given a suspended sentence of four months in jail upon the request of his wife Freda Russek, who a short time ago tried to commit suicide by jumping from the Centralville bridge, and who ran away from the state farm yesterday after having been sentenced to a term there, without a license. His trial was continued until tomorrow and in the meantime he will be permitted to shake the dust of Lowell from his shoes. Edmund Teller was continued to Feb. 13; Clarence F. Draglin was fined $5.

CHELMSFORD
The Baptist boys' club held a meeting on Saturday evening in the King's Daughters room in the Central Baptist church. The meeting was in charge of Rev. and Mrs. Charles Ellis, and their two sons, Arthur and Charles, who furnished games and a light lunch.

The entertainment consisted of graphophone selections from Raymond Dutton's machine after which Mr. Charles Ellis, Jr., furnished a very instructive as well as enjoyable time with his reflectoscope, showing on a white screen many pictures of foreign countries.

The officers are William Burg, president; Alton Brown, vice president; Edward Dryden, treasurer; and Arthur Ellis, secretary. The next meeting will be at the King's Daughters room in charge of Messrs. Gerald Kennedy, Edward Dryden and Harry Russell.

The progressives in town held a meeting a few days ago in the banquet hall of the Chelmsford grange. The chairman, Mr. William H. Hall addressed the audience.

Mr. and Mrs. Hillage are rejoicing over the birth of a baby son.

Messrs. Lewis Lovering, Henry Nickles, Harold Corson, Harry Parkhurst, "Hank" and George Chapman assisted by a few others are getting together young men enough to have a young gentlemen's sleigh-ride party. An oyster supper will be served in the Chelmsford grange hall at midnight.

It is said that Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fay, who are in Cuba with Mr. William Grover, will be in town next spring. At the last heard from, Mrs. Fay was reported in better health.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

To Open New Building With a Banquet

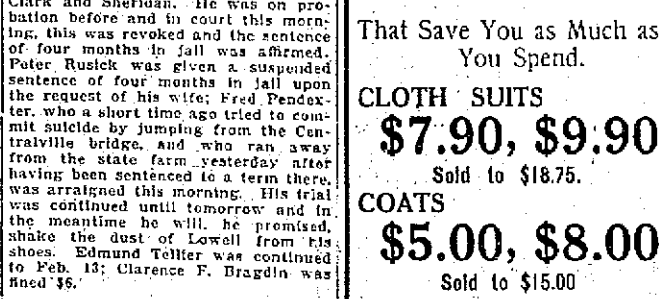

There was a very large meeting of the Knights of Columbus yesterday afternoon, held for the special purpose of arranging for the opening of the new building in Anne street. It was decided after much discussion to open it with a banquet for members and their friends and to hold a grand ball in Associate hall the same week. Among those who spoke were Albert E. O'Hair, John H. Murphy, John H. McNabb and David Gerow. There were over 300 members present.

Cruiser Denver at Mexico
WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Secretary Knox at the end of today's special cabinet meeting said it had been decided to hold the cruiser Denver at Acapulco, Mexico, instead of sending her to Salvador, as had been planned. Other naval movements were discussed, the secretary said, but none decided upon.

SENATOR CULLOM IS ILL

Confined to His Home With Severe Cold

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Shelby M. PLAYFUL WITH KNIFE

Continued

Wife. Father-in-law in turn took an axe to defend himself from the knife, but the defendant was by that time thoroughly aroused and even an army could not stop him. With the axe and knife, he drove the other occupants of the house out of doors and for a time held the house against them. Such was the story of his mother-in-law on the witness stand this morning. The judge found it best to place the man under bonds of $100 to keep the peace and in addition to this he imposed a fine of $5 for Sunday drunk.

Larceny of Suit Case
James R. Williams was brought into the police court to answer to a charge of the larceny of a suit case containing a variety of articles, including four waists, handkerchiefs, towels and a razor, the property of a George H. Stark. According to the testimony of the complainant, Mr. Stark, he went to a lodging house in Lee street and had two suit cases when he arrived there. He was shown to his room and left the suit cases there for about 15 minutes while with the landlord he went down stairs to hunt up a store. On returning, he found but one of the suit cases in the room where he had left it. Before he had gone down stairs, he said, he had noticed another man who had greeted him and asked him if he was going to live there. A Merrimack street pawnbroker testified that on Saturday night the man had come into his place and pawned the suit case for $1, and Officer McLoughlin told the court the circumstances of the man's arrest. The suit case and contents, with the exception of some stolen articles which were missing, were exhibited in court and identified by the owner. Williams was found guilty and sentenced to serve five months in the house of correction.

Neglected His Children
Not guilty was the plea of William M. Mitchell to a complaint, charging him with neglecting to provide proper support for his minor children between November 5 last and Feb. 6. He was found guilty and placed on probation being ordered by the court to pay the probation officer $4 weekly for his children.

Had No License
Three men were arraigned in court this morning on complaints alleging that they have been conducting shops without a license. They were Morris Schulerman, Harry Levy and Jacob Gillman. The police have begun a crusade against offenders of this kind, for it has of late been the means of disposing of a great amount of stolen goods and it is believed that the proprietors of these second hand stores are failing to report the sales of goods at their places. Levy was in but a few days ago on a similar charge and was fined $20, after which he entered an appeal to the higher court. The cases of Levy and Gillman were continued to Feb. 19, while Schulerman was held for trial on next Friday.

Drunken Offenders
Joseph J. Burke received a sentence of four months in jail and this was suspended for six months; Frank W. Douglas created quite a sensation by his actions in Middlesex street last night until taken in charge by Officers Clark and Sheridan. He was on probation before and in court this morning, this was revoked and the sentence of four months in jail was affirmed. Peter Russek was given a suspended sentence of four months in jail upon the request of his wife Freda Russek, who a short time ago tried to commit suicide by jumping from the Centralville bridge, and who ran away from the state farm yesterday after having been sentenced to a term there, without a license. His trial was continued until tomorrow and in the meantime he will be permitted to shake the dust of Lowell from his shoes. Edmund Teller was continued to Feb. 13; Clarence F. Draglin was fined $5.

DEATH OF THOMAS LANE
As Result of Burning Accident on Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Lane of 511 High Street have the deep sympathy of their many friends on the death of their only child, Thomas, yesterday morning, as a result of falling into a tub of hot water on Saturday.

This a terrible blow to the parents who within a year lost their only child of the latter dying but seven weeks ago.

Little Thomas had just recovered from scarlet fever and was playing about the floor when walking backward while his mother turned aside, he fell into a pan of scalding water. The shock, rather than the actual burns, resulted in death.

He was three years old, a bright and pretty child and the delight of his parents. Mrs. Lane, the child's mother, is sorely grief-stricken and can scarcely realize that her darling boy has been so suddenly snatched from her arms.

Yet she is strong in the faith that she will meet her three lost children in a brighter land where sorrow is unknown.

That there she will know his voice and the greetings of his eyes and the countless cherubs that rejoice in the garden of Paradise.

Escaped his life's alarms, The only path he trod, Is that which leads from his mother's arms.

AMUSEMENT NOTES
Opera House
A complete production in every respect is promised when the curtain rises on the first act of "A Woman's Way" at the Opera House tonight. The members of the company have been rehearsing for the past ten days under the personal direction of Lester Longman and he feels that in introducing his players to local theatergoers, that the performance will be up to the standard set in other cities.

Many prominent people of the city have signified their intention of being present for the opening, and Mr. Julius Kahn is making a special trip from New York, so that he may be present at the inaugural of the new stock company.

Communications tomorrow the daily matinees will be given and no better play could have been selected than "A Woman's Way" to attract ladies to these matinee performances. Many new ideas will be presented at the matinees that are calculated to appeal to ladies and children.

Handsome gowned ladies, good-looking, well dressed men, beautiful scenery and a play brimming with good situations and brilliant comedy is promised as the offering tonight. What more can be desired?

NO RESUMPTION OF FIGHTING MONTENEGRINS LOST 2500 AND THE A BIG DELEGATION OF TEACHERS

In Mexico City—Reported That Pres. Madero Has Resigned Presidency

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Feb. 10.—The night passed quietly in Mexico City and seven o'clock this morning saw no resumption of the fighting that yesterday, resulted in the supposed flight of President Madero and the success of Gen. Felix Diaz, the insurrectionist's leader.

Diaz has made no new move and the general situation this morning remains much as it was last night. When the

CAPT. SCOTT AND CREW PERISHED

Were Overwhelmed by Blizzard on Return Journey From the South Pole

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Capt. Robert F. Scott, the British Antarctic explorer, and an unknown number of his companions perished in a terrible blizzard on the ice and snow of the Antarctic continent while on their return from the South pole. They had reached their goal on Jan. 18, 1912, about a month after Capt. Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian had planted the flag of his country there. They then turned back toward the base they had formed on their outward journey, but were overtaken, overwhelmed and destroyed by the storm. The news of the death of the explorer brought back to civilization by the captain of the Terra Nova, the vessel which took Scott and his expedition to the south and went again to the icy seas to fetch them back after the accomplishment of the task they had set themselves.

Only a few brief bulletins were sent from the New Zealand port of Oamaru by the captain of the Terra Nova, who related simply the fate of the party and then proceeded with his vessel for Lyttelton, which he expects to reach on Thursday. The records of Scott's attempt of the pole and his confirmation of Amundsen's discovery of it were recovered with Scott and his companions' bodies.

The disaster came as an utter surprise to London and cast a gloom over the community which has been unquenchably since the death of King Edward. Such a tragic outcome of a polar expedition has not occurred since the disappearance in the northern seas of Prof. Andr  , the Swedish explorer, with his two companions. They disappeared in 1901 in the north lands and were never heard of since.

Nothing is known yet about the exact manner in which Capt. Scott and his companions met their death. Scott was considered the finest type of the British naval officer and the public here was highly expectant of his success. While his achievement in attaining the pole fills Britons with pride, a feeling of disappointment was caused by the fact that Amundsen reached his goal before the Englishman.

It is believed here that the disaster was not so great as was gathered from the first reports and that besides Scott and his crew others who engaged with him in the final dash lost their lives. These are supposed to be Mr. E. A. Wilson, chief of the scientific staff, Capt. Oates of the Inuitish Dragoon, Lieut. Bowers of the Royal Indian Marine, the commissariat officer, and Petty Officers Evans of the British royal navy.

Mrs. Scott sailed on Feb. 5

"The efficiency of Peary and Amundsen and the great speed which they were able to attain was due to the fact that they were experienced handlers of dogs and always depended on the dogs to do their sledding. In the event that any member of the party was disabled by accident or scurvy, which had already occurred in one of the supporting parties, the other members would be seriously handicapped by the absence of dogs. As Americans we are all proud to claim kinship with Scott, whose name will always go down as one of the most heroic and dauntless of English explorers and we rejoice that the ambition of his life was realized before the end."

"Horrible" Said Amundsen

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 10.—"Horrible; horrible; I can hardly believe it," said Captain Roald Amundsen today, after he had received from the Associated Press news of the disaster of Captain Scott and his party. The captain said he was too dazed to speak, but finally said:

"It is hard to believe this. There must be some horrible mistake. It seems incredible that such a large party should perish in this way. They must have been near to their base of supplies and it is also hard to understand how the weather could have been so severe as to cause the death of all of them."

"Correct" was Amundsen's comment when he was told of Scott's discovery of the Norwegian flag left by Amundsen. He gave full credit to the report that Scott had found the pole. He said he was not personally acquainted with Scott, but had never seen him, but referred to him as a fine brave man.

Terra Nova Sailed June 1, 1910

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The Terra Nova sailed on June 1, 1910, for New Zealand and the South pole and a few days later Capt. Scott took on board Captain Robert F. Scott, H. N.

TURKS 4000 IN BATTLE

Bardayoli Hill at Scutari Captured by Montenegrins—Attack on Tarabosch in Progress

CETTINJE, Montenegro, Feb. 10.—The capture of Bardanjoli hill at Scutari by the Montenegrins cost the victors 2500 men killed and wounded. The Turks left nearly 4000 men killed and wounded on the field of battle. This heavy price paid by both victors and the defenders at Bardanjoli was made known in messages received here today from the front. A Montenegrin attack on the heights of Tarabosch which dominate Scutari on the west has been going on for three days.

TURKISH DEAD AND WOUNDED WERE LIVING OVER

BATTLEFIELD

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Feb. 10.—The rout on Saturday of the Turkish army at Bulair at the neck of the peninsula of Gallipoli is laid here to have been complete. They are reported to have suffered enormous losses. The field of battle was littered with flags, abandoned field guns and machine guns and rifles dropped in their flight by the panic stricken Ottoman troops.

The Turkish dead and wounded were lying everywhere. Twenty officers were among the dead.

The Bulgarian losses are given out as five officers and 412 men wounded while two officers were killed. The Bulgarians war office says:

"The number of men killed among the Bulgarians is not yet known but it appears to have been significant."

TURKISH FORTRESS CAPTURED AFTER SEVERAL HOURS OF HARD FIGHTING

PODGORITZA, Montenegro, Feb. 10.—The Montenegrin army besieging the Turkish fortress of Scutari carried the great Bardanjoli hill by assault this morning after several hours of severe fighting. The infantrymen on several occasions came into such close quarters that hand to hand fighting was general along the line.

Bardanjoli hill dominates Scutari from the eastern side and the Montenegrins are mounting siege guns on the heights to bombard the city.

Fighting has gone on since early morning all around the city. The Turkish defenders disputing the ground against the besiegers with fierce determination and courage.

TURKISH CRUISER RE-APPEARED AT CONSTANTINOPLE

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 10.—The Turkish cruiser Hamidieh, which evaded the Greek fleet in the Aegean sea some weeks ago and passed through the Suez canal, reappeared here today, having arrived from the Red sea at midnight. She proceeded immediately toward the Aegean sea with all her lights out.

SAYS SUIT IS STILL ON ANNUAL WINTER REUNION

Son of Mrs. Eddy to Of O. C. A. of the Textile Continue Fight School at Methuen

LEAD, S. D., Feb. 10.—That he has not and will not withdraw his suit to contest the validity of the residuary clause of the will of his mother, Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, the Christian Science leader, was the statement made yesterday by George W. Glover of this city.

Mr. Glover was emphatic in his declaration. He said that at no time has he authorized in any way his attorney to abandon the contest for his portion of the big estate left by the noted woman, and said that at this time he was investigating report from Boston to the effect that he had dropped litigation.

Mr. Glover further declared that if he learned the case had been dismissed on advice of his attorneys, other steps would be taken to press the suit. He maintains he still will get a portion of the estate and that he is prepared to fight for what he terms his rights, harder than ever.

Postal Money Order Business Drops

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—International postal money order business decreased nearly $12,000,000 during the past year. The decrease was due almost wholly, according to postal authorities, to the operation in this country of the postal savings system. In the two years preceding the establishment of the system international money order business increased at the rate of $107,000,000 a year.

To be at the State House Friday to Favor Bill for Pensioning the Teachers

Lowell will be well represented at the hearing before the legislative committee on education at the state house next Friday evening, Feb. 14. The proposal to be discussed is an act, drawn by the committee on legislation of the Teachers' Federation, providing for the retirement of Massachusetts women teachers who have reached the age of 60 and men teachers who have reached the age of 65 on pensions of not less than $300 and not more than $600 a year.

There are about 350 school teachers connected with the public schools of Lowell and it was stated today that at least one-half that number would attend the hearing. The Lowell school teachers, however, are not suffragettes and will not "march on Beacon hill," as was stated in a Boston morning paper. The teachers have a very legitimate matter to consider and they are going about it in a very dignified way.

There are two bills having to do with the same subject, one prepared by the board of education and the other by the Massachusetts Teachers' Federation. The one prepared by the state board of education is said to be the result of the most careful study and while it differs somewhat radically in places with the bill prepared by the Massachusetts Teachers' Federation, the board's bill applies only to teachers engaged after July 1, 1914 and that does not appeal to the teachers of the present day. An attempt has been made to harmonize the bills and Dr. Snedden has gone so far as to say that he will have the bill on which the hearing will be given next Friday evening.

The officers of the Massachusetts Teachers' Federation are: Ernest Makechute of West Somerville, president; Belle F. Batchelder of Lowell and Harry H. Smalley of Fall River, vice presidents; Frank L. Whipple of Lynn, treasurer; H. W. Poor of Reading, secretary.

LITTLE GIRL BURNED TO DEATH

Martha Sheppard Was Horribly Burned While Playing With Matches

Martha Sheppard, aged 5 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sheppard of 75 French street was fatally burned this morning about 10:15 while playing with matches in the kitchen of her home.

The story told by the child's mother is, that she and the child were alone in the house at the time the accident happened. The child was playing on the floor and while the mother was busy working, the little girl picked up some matches and carried them to the stove. The matches were lighted and immediately the clothes of the child were ablaze. Mrs. Sheppard called for assistance, but by the time relief came the girl's clothes were completely burned and she was terribly burned about the head and body. Officer Whitt Murphy was early on the scene and rendered all the aid possible, but it required but a brief space of time to burn the child's clothing and hair.

The ambulance was called and the child was taken to St. John's hospital where she died shortly before 3 o'clock this afternoon.

INCREASE TO POLICEMEN

Money May be Voted by Municipal Board

CARPENTERS ARE ALSO OUT FOR INCREASE

Commissioner Cummings Unable to Decide—Mr. Brown Sends Circular With Regard to Unpaid Bills

It seems to be pretty well understood that the city council will allow the mayor $10,000 to cover the increase granted the policemen some time ago. The mayor shouldered the responsibility of the increase as he had the right to do under the charter, but it's a pretty good bet that he would not have done it unless he had some assurance that he would be granted the necessary appropriation.

The fact that the policemen were granted the increase without a vote of the city council has set the carpenters and painters in the lands and buildings department a-thinking. They asked Commissioner Cummings for an increase and he told them that he could not act in the matter without the approval of the municipal council. "I may have the authority to make the advance in wages asked for," said Mr. Cummings, "but I would have to know first of all that the municipal council would sustain my action by giving me sufficient money to cover the increase whatever it might be. I certainly would not want to draw upon another appropriation for the purpose of increasing wages."

Meeting Tomorrow Afternoon

The municipal council will meet tomorrow afternoon for the approval of the transaction of other business. It was stated today that the council would proceed to ballot for a member of the board of health, but the statement did not come from any of the commissioners. The council may at its meeting tomorrow tackle the appropriations.

200 SLAIN IN MEXICAN REVOLT

Gen. Diaz Freed by Mutineers—
Gen. Reyes Killed—Streets
Strewn With Bodies

TWO YEARS OF CIVIL WAR IN MEXICO

November, 1910—Francisco Madero heads rebellion against rule of Porfirio Diaz, Mexico's "iron dictator" for years.

April, 1911—Madero's revolution so successful Diaz resigns and flees unexpectedly to Europe. Francisco de La Bana, vice-president, takes office under provisional appointment.

November, 1911—Madero elected by national vote, took office as president of Mexico.

December, 1911—Gen. Pascual Orozco, Madero's lieutenant, revolts. Leads insurrection in northern Mexico.

February, 1912—Vasquez Revolutionists under Gen. Geronimo Trevino rout government forces at Juarez and proclaim Trevino president.

March, 1912—Uprising at Jimenez under Generals Salzar and Blanquet.

May, 1912—Rebel forces under Emilio Gomez establish provisional government at Juarez, after driving out government troops.

June, 1912—Gen. Orozco leads insurrectos in Chihuahua.

July, 1912—Yaqui uprising under rebel leaders, Generals Giuseppe Garibaldi and Emilio Campa.

September, 1912—Gen. Sanchez heads uprising at Ozuanga.

October and November, 1912—Widespread Yaqui uprisings in provinces of Serrera and Chihuahua.

December, 1912—Zapatistas fighting government troops within 25 miles of Mexico City. Yaqui uprisings continue.

February 9, 1913—Revolt of army in Mexico City. 200 slain. Released Gen. Diaz from prison; march under his banner and capture Mexican capital.

ed police, Chapultepec cadets and a small detachment of volunteers. He appeared at the head of this force a mile from the national palace riding a big gray horse. By his side rode Gen. Ilueria, hero of the campaign against Orozco and one of the generals whom the public generally had suspected of being disloyal.

Madero Avoids Bullets

Several blocks from the palace one of Madero's aides attempted to dismount the president, and placing his hand on the horse's bridge, half turned the animal from the line. Madero protested vigorously and continued to lead the advance until the shooting began. When Gen. Ilueria succeeded in persuading him to enter a building in a side street.

This building, by a coincidence, was the same in which Gen. Reyes took refuge during his campaign for the presidency, 18 months ago, against a

GEN. MADERO

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 10.—The army rose in revolt in Mexico City yesterday, took possession of the public buildings, shot down federal adherents in the streets, released Gen. Felix Diaz, the leader of the Vera Cruz revolt, from prison and, falling into line under his banner, practically captured the Mexican capital.

Francisco Madero, president of the republic, and the members of his cabinet took refuge in the national palace, where they were besieged, but with some loyal troops at their back, succeeded in defending the palace from the assaults of the revolutionists.

Madero's family has taken refuge in the Japanese legation, and last night the president made a flight, desperate in its effort, against what appears to be enormous odds, for retention of his power.

Gen. Diaz, who is the nephew of the deposed president, Porfirio Diaz, is now at the head of a majority of the capital troops, including most of the artillery and is in possession of the arsenal in the city and the powder works nearby.

Madero is relying on the loyalty of Gen. Blanquet, who has been summoned from Toluca, 10 miles distant; but Blanquet has only a thousand men under his command, and the rebels are confident of defeating him, should he refuse to join in the movement of revolt.

Four Bloody Clashes
The day was marked by four separate engagements, the most sanguinary of which took place in front of the national palace, but the most important was that which terminated in the formal surrender of the troops in the artillery barracks.

It is believed that not less than 200 persons were killed in the fighting. Among the number was Gen. Bernardo Reyes, a strong adherent of Porfirio Diaz, and an ex-secretary of war. The mutinous troops were led by the students of the military school in a suburb. They marched to the prison to which Gen. Felix Diaz had been transferred for safe-keeping and released him.

Gen. Reyes was also freed from Santiago military prison, there being no resistance in either quarter.

To the army of the mutineers quickly came portions of the first cavalry, 24th cavalry and 20th infantry. Gen. Manuel Mondragon, retired, was in command, but gave way to Gen. Diaz and Reyes. At 8:30 o'clock the first encounter with the loyal troops occurred in front of the national palace, and Gen. Reyes, whose long record as an army officer was broken little more than a year ago by a farcical revolt, was dead. He was killed instantly by a bullet through the head.

Many fell in this engagement, and among the scores of bodies, which strewn the streets were those of minor officers, women and boys of the lower classes, and members of the great crowd of spectators which had gathered at the firing of the first shot.

Gen. Lauro Villar, post commander of the capital, who remained loyal was among those slightly wounded. The minister of war, Gen. Garcia Pena, received a minor injury of the head. At the first call to arms President Madero took command of a force of approximately 1000, consisting of mount-mob of Madero supporters who attempted to stone him.

The revolt, in its unexpectedness, was such as to stupefy the populace, the lower elements apparently not knowing for whom to cheer. This is particularly given as the reason for the lack of pillaging and looting.

The attack on the national palace found the government not altogether unprepared. In the interim between the release of Gen. Diaz and Gen. Reyes from prison, Gustavo Madero, brother of the president, and Gov. Garza of the federal district learned of the plans of the rebels. The minister of war and Gen. Villar made hasty preparations to guard the palace against attack.

Riding at the head of their troops, Gen. Diaz and Reyes approached from the east into the Zocalo, the big square in front of the palace. Gen. Reyes appeared for the first time in many months in the uniform of a general, but Diaz was clothed in the ordinary

Challenge Starts Firing

A halt of the mutinous forces was made when Gen. Villar, appearing at the door of the palace, raised his hand and challenged them. His answer was an order on the part of the rebels to begin firing.

Quickly the invading forces assumed positions around the square, which soon was clouded with the smoke from their rifles. Immediately from the palace came an answering fire. The defenders of the palace were using rifles and machine guns.

From the west could be seen advancing the force headed by President Madero. As it approached the rebels retired into a side street. Thirty minutes later street fighting began in the neighborhood, but lasted only a short time. Neither side appeared ready to press its advantage, but just before noon Gen. Diaz led his command, numbering 1000, on a wide detour, in an effort to reach the arsenal.

When the fighting in the Zocalo ceased, a number of the Red and White Cross engaged in the work of picking up the dead and succoring the wounded. The Plaza, an area of four city blocks, was strewn with the bodies of men and horses. Within the palace there were few victims, but Col. Morales, one of the most loyal of Madero's adherents, was killed.

Stories of Mutiny

Gen. Gregorio Ruiz, a retired officer; two captains and three lieutenants were executed in the patio of the national palace. It is officially reported that this was by order of the government, but another story is that they were killed by a detachment of their own men because they opposed their joining in the revolt. Added to this is the report that these mutinous troops were overpowered and disarmed.

The Red and White Cross ambulances carried the wounded to provisional hospitals, where investigation showed there were almost as many victims among civilians as among the soldiers. Outside of the fighting between the two opposing sides there was little disorder and last night the streets were patrolled by the rebel troops.

During the day only one mob assembled. It attacked the building of El Pais, the only independent morning newspaper printed in Spanish. The building was partially burned.

Gen. Mondragon, who led the mutineers in their first attacks, was at one time prominently identified with the artillery corps. The first rising occurred among the soldiers of the artillery branch of the army. It was they, led by students, who fired the fusillade at the prisoner guards and liberated the two rebel leaders.

Diaz succeeded in capturing the arsenal after a strong resistance by the federals. A large number of rurales and mounted police then over to his cause. Later an artillery company from Tacubaya with a dozen field guns rode into the arsenal grounds shouting for Diaz. It is reported that revolutionary movements have begun in other places, and the Zapatistas are said to be fighting a short distance south of the capital.

SPOKE ABOUT LINCOLN

Sermon by Rev. E. H. Newcomb

Rev. Edward H. Newcomb, pastor of the First Congregational church of this city, delivered a most interesting sermon last evening, taking for his subject, "Lincoln the Man Who Loved His Enemies." The sermon was a feature of the observance of the birthday of Lincoln and a large congregation was present to appreciate it.

It was on the quality by which the great Lincoln is said to have loved even those who were his enemies that the preacher laid particular emphasis. In part his address was the following:

"There have been no teachings of Jesus Christ. There were wise men before his time and there have been many times since, yet none of them has reached to his magnificent height. His teachings were deep, yet they were simple. In the 5th chapter, 44th verse of the gospel of St. Matthew we find the words 'Love your enemies.'"

"Sometimes we find it very hard to do this yet you know that it is not impossible. Christ set the example. And in Abraham Lincoln we have a Christ-like man. In order that we may appreciate just what it means by loving our enemies we may accept the designation which the gospels put on it. Such enemies are those who 'curse, hate, spitefully use and persecute you. Our enemies are not always bad or vicious men, but they are those who have a grudge against us.'"

Rev. Mr. Newcomb spoke at considerable length, dealing with the great principles by which the martyred president was guided in the great struggle for the emancipation of the slaves and the preservation of the Union. Lincoln was compared to Washington, Dwight L. Moody.

The fellow drew a revolver and, holding it in both hands, fired a shot into Willis' abdomen. The player made his escape. Willis died before an ambulance could reach the scene.

Made solely of parched and granulated wheat combined with a special product of wheat flour and barley malt. This special product added to the parched wheat gives a deliciously sweet, nutty flavor to the food, and increases the food value.

DR. ARNOLD LORAND

Physician to the Baths, Carlsbad, Austria

In his recently published book, "Health Through Rational Diet," from the press of the F. A. Davis Co., Philadelphia, says:

As a breakfast food another variety of the healthful cereals which are much used in would be advantageous. Grape-Nuts, in which America would be advantageous. Grape-Nuts, in which the floury substance has been dextrinized by long baking and thus rendered digestible and easy of assimilation, is eaten with cream and would be a useful addition to our usual breakfast.

The recommendation of this eminent European authority to the wealthiest health seekers in the world (those who frequent the famous baths of Carlsbad) is especially interesting to Americans.

Grape-Nuts

is sold at grocers almost everywhere in America for 15c the pkg.

While Grape-Nuts may be a "health luxury" in Europe, this sturdy health-giving food is within the reach of practically every American at trifling cost.

In thousands of families Grape-Nuts and cream is the regular breakfast dish of wide-awake, go-ahead people.

Rich in the brain-making, body-building elements of prime wheat and malted barley, this food has won for itself at home and abroad the title of "The King of Breakfast Foods."

THE VESPER COUNTRY CLUB TOBOGGAN NOW IN GOOD CONDITION—WINTER CARNIVAL PLANNED

A dinner was served at the Vesper Country club Saturday night for the members and their guests, at which 110 plates were laid. The club's usual exquisite taste in such matters was carried out at this affair and the dinner was entertained during the repast by the Boston Ideal Mandolin and Banjo quartet. Their selections were numerous and brought forth much favorable comment from the guests and members. Mr. Charles B. Pettis gave a number of very clever impersonations in his own peculiar and inimitable style. It was a very jolly party which ended its way homeward across the swinging bridge at a late hour.

Winter Carnival
The Vesper Country club's winter carnival is an event of the near future if the present weather conditions prevail. The backward and uncertain weather, thus far, has delayed the carnival up to now, and the members are so afraid of being disappointed by the loss of what snow we have that plans are now being made for the big annual mid-winter event. Next Wednesday has been announced as the date, but in case of bad weather, an indefinite postponement will be made.

The toboggan slide and skating rink have been put in the finest condition, and although there is hardly enough snow for snow shoeing, sledding is considered feasible on Tappan Island. The toboggan slide, in undoubtedly the most popular of the out-door amusements at the Vesper Country club, both the drop and slide are unequalled in this vicinity for speed and safety, the two main requisites. The slides to the slide are high enough to prevent the toboggan from skipping over the edge, a fault which has caused so much injury on various other toboggan slides. The drop, if anything, is better protected than the slide and is built in the most approved style of the experts of Canada. The home of this exhilarating sport. The weather now is cold enough to assure a freezing of water, which is poured over both drop and slide to decrease the friction between the toboggans and the slide. The illumination of the toboggan slide in the evening is very brilliant, high power electric lights being strung out at various points along the route followed by the sleds.

After the outdoor sports dinner will be served at the club house for all those participating in the carnival. After dinner dancing and what will be the program for the evening.

removed from the medium in which he was submerged, after you have torn away from the throat anything of a constricting nature, in a collar, the logical thing to do in the first instance is to remove the water from the lungs. You may accomplish this in a number of ways. If the subject be a boy or girl or an adult of slight build lay him or her measuring their whole length with face downward upon the ground. Place one foot on either side of the body on a line with the abdomen, grasp him or her around the middle in such a way that your hands may clasp. Lift the patient well up against your thighs, allowing the head and limbs to hang down, shake the body up and down several times. This position and movement will force the water out of the lungs. If the subject be a woman, open the waist at the back in the mid-line and with your knife cut through the corset lacing, loosen the skirts from around the waist and let no sense of false modesty deter you. Remember that the prime instinct of man is the preservation of life, whether it be his own or that of his fellow. Now turn your patient upon his or her back, perform artificial respiration and keep it up until you begin to think that it is up some more bearing in mind that the movements continued sometimes over a period of two hours have finally been successful.

The second method of emptying the lungs of water consists in laying the patient, face downward on an overturned barrel in such a way that the head and arms are on one side and the legs on the other, grasp the ankles and work him to and fro over the barrel.

Strangulation
Strangulation is that form of death from asphyxia in which the air passage is occluded either by the constriction produced by a cord or band of some kind around the neck, without suspension of the body, or by the employment of pressure with the fingers. Death results usually from the combined effect of asphyxia and the arrest of the circulation in the head caused by the compression of the large blood vessels in the neck.

In some countries this is the method by which criminals are executed. A garrote, a steel collar tightened by a screw causes death upon this principle of strangulation. In Turkey and some of the eastern countries strangulation by the bow string is the common method of execution. In strangulation there is a rapid and insidious development of unconsciousness which makes it impossible for even the strongest to help themselves. A handkerchief, a ribbon, a piece of twine or strip of clothing may be used. Remember the Mattie Kackett case, for whose murder a woman was tried and acquitted a short time ago. Death in this instance was caused by a handkerchief which had been used to tie the victim's neck.

If you had been on the scene when she was discovered along the roadside if you would have been quick to detect you would have torn the clothing from around the neck and upper chest in the process of your observation as to whether or not breath or life had ceased.

In this process you would have discovered and cut the constricting cord and performed artificial respiration. Pressure on the windpipe, if it results in death, due not to asphyxia but to compression of the great vessels in the neck, which arrests the circulation in the brain, such a case is criminal may do this in such a way as to leave no marks. Such a case has recently been before the criminal court in New York.

Suffocation is that form of death from asphyxia in which air is prevented from entering the lungs, not by constriction, nor by submergence in water, but by some mechanical cause which may operate in one of three following ways: First, externally, by blocking the mouth or nostrils. This is commonly called smothering. It is frequently used to destroy newborn children. Overlying is caused by some part of the person of the parent covering the mouth or nostrils of the babe, so as to produce suffocation. An infant may be suffocated by the bed clothes accidentally covering the mouth and nostrils. Second, internally, by blocking the throat, larynx and trachea. Third, by mechanical pressure on the chest, such as occurs in great crowds of people. Your contact will be particularly with the third type. It is a very common cause of death in air spaces just as soon as you can an air artificial respiration.

Death by illuminating gas is really not a case of asphyxia, but is due to direct poisoning by carbon monoxide, which is a constituent of the gas. The blood of the normal person passes through the lungs and gives up the economy of the body and takes up in their stead the oxygen of the air. This process is called oxidation and is done in accordance with the physical law of the interchange of gases, into which law we will not go. When a person inhales carbon monoxide, however, the carbon monoxide of the gas combines to form a rather stable compound with the blood, which combination is with difficulty broken up. The blood, therefore, does not readily change this gas for oxygen. The consequence of this is that when a person continues to breathe illuminating gas, death ensues as a result of the inability of the blood to carry off the waste of the body, the inability of the tissue to get the necessary oxygen, and the direct poisoning influence of this noxious gas. If you find a person suffering from illuminating gas poisoning, get him or her into a room where you can close to a window. Open wide the windows. Direct some one to shut off the gas and open the window and get him or her out of the room as fast as you can. If the patient is unconscious and the breathing is slow or has stopped, do artificial respiration and as soon as the patient regains consciousness give him or her a drink of whiskey or hot strong coffee.

Let me emphasize again what I have already said. It is not our intention by this series of conferences to shape you into physicians. Even if you should retain all that has been said to you you would then have but enough knowledge to enable you to render first aid. Let your first thought be, therefore, in any emergency, to get a physician called and summoned and then do what you can until he arrives.

Brazil Makes Tariff Concessions
WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Tariff concessions and reductions have been made by Brazil on a number of products from the United States as a result of diplomatic representations made by the state department through the state embassy at Rio Janeiro.

Ambassador Morgan in reporting them says that hydraulic rams, formerly subject to a duty of 50 per cent, are to be admitted under the new classification provided for 1913 budget just approved by the Brazilian congress on payment of 15 per cent duty. Fuel oil, he reports, has been placed on the free list, when it is imported in steamship companies, railroads or industrial enterprises using steam as motive power. American oil companies sought the aid of the state department, it was announced, in obtaining better tariff treatment; and the tariff changes are expected to stimulate the sale of fuel oil throughout Brazil. Reductions were made also on school furniture and on welded fencing, including accompanying posts for farmers and stockraisers.

FIREMEN SAVED CORPSES

Men Invaded Dissecting Room of University

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—A number of firemen are today recovering from shock sustained from the blaze in the laboratory of George Washington university medical school yesterday in attempts to save a number of persons reported overcome by the smoke on an upper floor. The firemen fought their way through the flames and the dense smoke and were rescuing the supposed victims when it was discovered they were cadavers and that the rescuers had invaded the dissecting room of the institution. The damage to the university buildings was small.

MATRIMONIAL

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the rectory of the immaculate Conception church, Feb. 4th, when Mr. Thomas Neville and Miss Beatrice Bates, two popular young people of this city, were united in marriage, by the Rev. Fr. Fliche. The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Bernard Moran, while the bridesmaid was Miss Jessie Neville. The reception was held at the home of the bride, 253 East Merrimack street and supper was served to a large number of guests. Mr. and Mrs. Neville were the recipients of many beautiful and costly gifts. Mr. Inerney's orchestra furnished music during the evening.

Burkes Held Meeting

The Burkes held their regular meeting Sunday afternoon at their rooms in the Union Bank building. President Mahoney called the meeting to order at 3 p. m. and considered the minutes, transacted. Four applications were received and the following new members were initiated: William Ryne, Philip Tumulty, James O'Dea, William McGilchey, George Graves, John Dean and Patrick McCuskey. The tournament committee reported that a contest would be held Feb. 20 1913, with the Y. M. C. I. The Burkes have never been defeated in a like contest and almost every organization in Lowell has acknowledged defeat at the Burkes' hands. The dance committee reported that all arrangements had been completed for the coming party. The members have had their photographs taken and have made a large group photo which will be exhibited in one of the down stores in a few days. Vice-President James H. Farrell was unanimously elected to represent the society as aid to the chief marshal of the St. Patrick's day parade.

STONED BY STREET MOB

Japanese Premier Attacked

TOKIO, Japan, Feb. 10.—Prince Taro Katsura, premier and minister of foreign affairs of Japan, was stoned today by a street mob after he had offered his resignation together with that of the members of his cabinet to the emperor. Several newspaper offices were attacked by the crowds, who attempted to set fire to the buildings. There were many riots in various parts of the city, in the course of which a number of policemen and civilians were injured. The excitement continues.

CAR AND WAGON COLLIDE

Two Men Were Thrown to the Ground

A peculiar accident took place, last Saturday night near Sprague's bridge, North Billerica, about 6.30 o'clock when a team driven by two foreigners was struck by an electric car in charge of Conductor Arthur Clancy and Motorman Philip O'Brien. Both men were thrown from the wagon but neither was seriously injured.

It is said that the men were driving in the direction of North Billerica without a light attached to the team. Coming to a bad place in the road they drove on the car track in front of the speeding car and in spite of Motorman O'Brien's efforts to stop the car the team was struck and both men were thrown to the ground. The wagon contained one-half ton of coal and this was spread over the road. The horse and the two forward wheels were separated from the rest of the wagon and the frightened horse continued on his way and was found shortly after about a mile up the road. Neither of the men spoke English and it was impossible for the conductor to get any information regarding their identity. Passengers complimented Motorman O'Brien for bringing the car to a stop so quickly.

OFFICIAL VISIT

Of Three Policemen to "Speak-East" Place—Search Brought to Light Three Cases of Beer

On Sunday afternoon Sergt. Duncan, Inspector Grady and Patrolman Tsauras of the local police department applied at the home of Benjamin D. George, 193 Charles street, and secured evidence, it is said, that will cause the latter to be arraigned on a charge of illegal sale of liquor. According to the story, the three officers had no difficulty in purchasing beer at the place. They then made themselves known and upon searching the place brought to light three cases of beer.

SKATING COST LIFE

P. Elverson Bancroft, 87-Year-Old Woburn Man, Succumbs to Injuries Received on Ice.

WOBURN, Feb. 10.—In an attempt to maintain his record as a skater, covering a period of 80 consecutive winters, P. Elverson Bancroft, of this city, aged 87, fell upon the ice near the Middlesex Canal bed, off Wyman street, Jan. 15th, and fractured his high thigh. He lay upon the ice 20 minutes before his plight was discovered. From this injury and the shock and exposure he never rallied, his death occurring yesterday afternoon at 3.15 at his home, 12 Franklin street.

MET SATURDAY NIGHT

Evening Star Rebekah Lodge Held an Interesting Session—Costume Party Planned for Feb. 22

Evening Star Rebekah lodge held a meeting Saturday night and Sister Ella G. Spaulding was the presiding officer. Arrangements were made for the holding of a food sale in March. At the close of the business session a novel conundrum social was held and the prize winners were the following: Miss Ida Samuels, first, and Miss Florence Howell, second. At the next meeting the feature will be a colonial costume party, for the date of the meeting is also Washington's birthday. Some tableaux will be presented and each member is expected to attend in costume.

ON DEATH OF MOTORMAN

Inquest Held by Judge Pickman Today

Two inquests were held in the second session room of the police court this morning and were presided over by Judge John J. Pickman. The first was in the death of William J. Taylor, the motorman of the Christian hill car which recently jumped the track at the corner of Beech and Third streets, and killed the motorman, injuring several others. The other inquest was in regard to the death of an infant male child born to Nellie Casoy in a house in Chestnut street on Jan. 27. The case was brought to light by Medical Examiner J. V. Melgus. The girl applied for lodging at this house on the morning in question and later the landlady saw her with the child in her arms. It had evidently died from the want of neglect attendance at the birth.

High Cost of Living

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The high cost of living, judging from figures issued today by the department of agriculture, apparently is solving itself as the result of lower prices for agricultural products. The department announces that on Feb. 1 the prices paid for staple crops averaged nearly 20 per cent lower than on the same date last year, six per cent lower than in 1911 and nearly 10 per cent below those paid in February, 1910. This decline was made in spite of the fact that the prices increased 15 per cent, between the first of the year and the first of the present month. Corn, wheat, potatoes, eggs, together with a number of other commodities are lower, although chickens are about the same as a year ago. The increase extends to all meats, each kind commanding higher prices. The prices of staple vegetables, however, have fallen.

THE SO-CALLED PARISIEN FRENCH

Interesting Article From the Pen of Andre A. Cote—Some of the Teachers Criticized

The following interesting paper on "Parisien French" from the pen of Andre A. Cote of Fitchburg, secretary general of the French American Volunteer Brigade of New England, was read at a recent meeting of the board of directors of the brigade, and was the cause of much comment. The same was sent to this paper for publication.

Sometime ago a local paper printed an interview with a certain French artist directly from Paris, and the writer gave a comparison of the so-called "Parisien French" and the French spoken in Canada and this country. The writer told of how he could hardly be understood by the Parisian, while he himself had considerable difficulty in conversing with the said artist. In the article written by Mr. Cote are a few interesting facts which go to show that there is no difference with the French spoken in Paris and that spoken in Canada or the United States. The article follows:

To the Editor of The Sun:
I beg the honor of your hospitable columns to treat a question of some interest to the French Canadian community, and to those who do not know even the elements of French, many students have been placed in a very ridiculous position, on many occasions, when expressing their opinions on French as they know it. It seems to be the idea that the French they have heard about is entirely different from the French as spoken in Canada and in the United States, by the Franco-Americans; that they speak a "patois" or dialect, which they cannot understand, they knowing the "Parisien."

I agree with them to a certain point; in that their knowledge of French being extremely limited, they are not able to differentiate from French-Canadian the queer jargon these pupils utter which must be a foreign language never imported from Paris.

The French Canadians understand French when spoken correctly, no matter if the speaker comes from Paris, Marseilles, Algiers, Madagascar, New Orleans, Montreal and even Cochon, China.

The origin of this very false idea seems to have been created by certain teachers and tutors, wanting to impress on the American English speaking people the "extreme exclusiveness" of their language, this to the detriment of their pupils and the amusement of others.

This belief exists, but it should not be entirely wrong and ridiculous. The French Canadians speak French in the same manner that their ancestors spoke when they landed on this continent, 300 years ago. They have heroically fought to preserve it as a most precious treasure; they have succeeded. And today the province of Quebec can still be called the Nouvelle France.

To those who pretend to know the language on the ground that they looked over a few books for a year or two, I will say drive away from your mind this false idea. Study French if you should, but study it well enough to master it. It will be a credit to you. A man who masters two languages is worth double. But please leave the Parisian alone!

If French is taught in our public schools under such principles, it is vainly taught. How can a student derive favorable result from his studies if he cannot practice or make use of what he learns? And were he to travel, his poor "Parisien French" would not help him enough to read his "Baedeker."

The following quotations which have appeared in the Fall River News dated Feb. 21, 1911, are from the pen of one of these "connoisseurs" who has studied French in the public schools and from private teachers:

"The Fall River high schools among the subjects of its curriculum presents French. It appears commonly in the second of the course, and runs for the balance of the three years if the pupil desires to follow it so far. Without discussing the matter who let the language drop, it is worth inquiring how many ever make any use of their French. Very few, I dare say, to judge by the exceeding large number of my friends who are carrying around in their brains the elements of several languages, modern and ancient, but all dead as far as any use goes."

"And yet Fall River is, perhaps, the place of the whole country where one would expect French to have the greatest use. An immense proportion of the city's population speaks the language. But in the fact that they speak it in the Canadian accent or dialect, lies the failure of our high school French. I do not see just how a school which prepares for colleges and other schools could teach Canadian French or any other accent but the Parisian. And yet it has to be owned that here is great waste. The real idea of education would be to teach every American in Fall River Canadian French as we teach every French child English. There would be a money value to the learners when they had grown up and there would be an immense satisfaction in being at least a 'smart' as our French friends, who can rattle off both languages in a fashion to make one envious."

"I have repeatedly tried my scholars French on the local population with utter failure. Should an accomplished speaker of the Canadian language take the hint and begin a class, he ought to be met half way by a large number of Americans who wonder from time to time of what mortal use their school French has been, is, or ever will be."

It is a very sad example, one of many, showing the pitiful ignorance of its writer. The boldness of his stupid statements displays perfectly well the broadness of his ignorance. He has tried to teach scholars French on the local population with utter failure. It is really too bad, but he alone is to be pitied. I wonder what effects his efforts had on the French population of Fall River? Aurea habent, et non audient."

A few days after, A. F. Maurice, a learned and well known citizen of that city, wrote the following to the News: To Chat and Comment.

"As an always interested reader of Chat and Comment column, will you kindly permit me to make a few observations in respect to an article which appeared in that column on Feb. 21?"

"Admitting the general excellence of your contributions, you are evidently well informed in respect to what you call 'the Canadian language' and the Parisian accent. The truth is that there is neither a Canadian language nor a Parisian accent. If by the latter, I mean a standard of French found only in Paris. The Canadians speak French and not a patois. Those among them who are educated speak pure French and with more uniformity than it is spoken in France."

"The ignorant Canadians of Canada speak their language as ignorant people everywhere speak their mother tongue, well or badly, according to what their circumstances in life have been, but the most ignorant among them would have no trouble in understanding the most cultured, or even the most pompous Frenchman, though he were a member of the French academy. If he took care not to speak over their heads, of subjects of which they were ignorant."

"In respect to the Parisian accent the writer scarcely understood it in France in the same manner as it is here. 'The educated French speak alike everywhere in France, in Belgium and in Canada and as a cultured Frenchman once observed in the way Parisians speak, it is a departure from the usual correct way of speaking French.'"

"Would one go to London for a standard of English pronunciation? If we ought all to learn to speak cockney."

"The relation between the so-called Canadian French and the French of France is similar to the relation which exists between the American English and the English spoken in England; but it is to be noted that as public instruction is more general in the United States than it is in Canada, as also, the English spoken in America approaches a little nearer to correct English than does the ordinary speech of Canadians to correct French."

If English is spoken with more uniformity in America than it is in England, our Lancashire friends from England undoubtedly speak English, but one must admit that their English has its peculiarities. The same is true in respect to the language spoken by the uneducated Canadian."

"I think that the above statements will be confirmed by every educated Canadian in Fall River."

"I suggest that you, inquirer of the article from Mr. Maurice is that of an intelligent scholar, a master of the language, who had occasion to speak it. His remarks should be pasted in the textbooks of many teachers and would be scholars. It would be of great benefit to them."

"A very amusing incident happened lately: It is worth mention: A young French pupil of a high school desiring to take a two-year course of French instead of one year, asked her teacher if she could. She was answered in the negative. So the young pupil told the teacher that her father (who has a very good knowledge of the two languages) would teach her French during her second year at home."

"The teacher seemed to be horrified. 'My dear girl,' said she, 'that is impossible; we have taught you, last year, the "Parisien French" and your father, who is a Canadian, cannot teach you that language. "The teacher was right. That girl's father did not know "Parisien," but I am sure he can teach French to that same teacher, although he was born in Nova Scotia, and has never been in Paris."

It seems singular that learned persons show such ignorance. How can the French Canadians speak a "patois" or a Canadian language, when such "patois" is unknown in Canada? But a "patois" is to be found in all the provinces of France, in Bretagne, the Basses-Pyrenees, in l'Auvergne, and the center of France."

Of course a few words, a few expressions, have been adopted to meet with the requirements of the land and climate; these to be sooner or later accepted by the French academy; but as a whole, the language after centuries is still spoken with great purity; to the surprise and admiration of many visitors and lecturers from Europe."

Ferdinand Brunetiere of the French academy has openly expressed his pleasure to find the remarkable uniformity of the language, as spoken in Canada. He has discovered many expressions still in use from the century of Louis XIV., which are, unfortunately, lost to the French."

Another important fact which seems to be ignored is that the books used in the schools of Canada, and in the parochial schools of United States, for the teaching of French, mostly all come from France, and these books are not printed in "Parisien" or "Canadian," but very plainly in French. The grammar of the French academy is used and it is not a "Parisien"

BREAKS A COLD, OPENS NOSTRILS.

Pape's Cold Compound Cures Colds and Grippe in a Few Hours—Contains No Quinine

The most severe cold will be broken, and all grippe misery ended after taking a dose of Pape's Cold Compound every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken.

You will distinctly feel all the disagreeable symptoms leaving after the very first dose.

The most miserable headache, dizziness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, running of the nose, sore throat, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness, rheumatism and other distressing ailments are quickly and easily vanquished.

Take this wonderful Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is nothing else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist can supply—containing no quinine—being every home-accept no substitute. Tastes nice—acts gently.

grammar. The works of our writers have been in many cases published and printed in Europe. Some of these works have been crowned by the French academy; the authors of the works have studied in the schools and colleges of Canada. French is taught in our parochial schools by Canadian and European teachers. Ask these teachers to explain to you the difference between the French as taught in the schools of Europe and of Canada. The answer will be, "On both continents French is taught as French should be."

By the way, the expression "Parisien French" is very indefinite. What is meant? A writer who has visited Paris said, "There are as many Parisian languages in Paris as there are districts."

It is the language of the boulevard, it is that of Montmartre, of the Quartier Latin, of the Faubourg St. Germain, of the Balgones, of the Termes, of the Villette, of La Roquette, of Neuilly, of Montreuil, etc., etc. So a student of "Parisien" has a very large field of exercise. And it is not after a season of six months in Paris, or the memorizing of a few sentences from a guide book, that will give him enough knowledge of the language as to pose as a "connoisseur." If one of these students (I also mean the teachers) doubts the facts I have laid before him, I advise him to seek a reference work of the public library, and ask for a volume of the "Annuaire de la Societe Royale du Canada," French section. This valuable collection contains essays, poems and literary works of Canadian authors. Let them try their knowledge by reading those articles. If they cannot understand them, they do not know what French is.

What would one of our American English-speaking friends say if he heard a French-Canadian mastering the language well; that he is speaking the "Londonian English" or would laugh, and with reason. English is English, when well spoken, and so is French.

I will close with a quotation from a writer on the same subject: "Let us say that 'Parisien French' is a myth, which exists in the minds of certain ignorant parvenus who cross the seas every year, and who know about as much about French as the average high school student. French is French when spoken correctly whether the person using the language be an inhabitant of Paris, Marseilles, Brussels, Montreal, Quebec (or even Lowell)."

"We grant that there may be slight differences in the accent or in the pronunciation, and admit that the pronunciation is slightly different to that of the Parisians. What of it? How different in accent is the language used by the average merchant to that of our British countrymen? How different that of the Virginian from that of the Yankee? How would we smile to hear one thoroughbred American carry back with him the English of the British metropolis, and how at Harvard they would laugh to hear us speak of the "Plough" or "Whig" cause."

This ridiculous belief, whose cause is only found in ignorance, will, I hope, disappear, resulting in the enlightenment of the students of French, and adding much to their credit. "A chacun le sien." I am, Mr. Editor, Yours very truly,

Andre A. Cote.

MORE WINDOWS SMASHED

Suffragettes Raided West End in London

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Militant suffragettes today raided the West End district known as "Piccadilly." Pieces of lead and hard clay balls were thrown through the windows of the Carlton, the Reform and other political and social clubs in Pall Mall. Windows were broken also at the residences of Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, a relative by marriage of King George.

HEADACHE?—IT'S YOUR LIVER

Too Many People Take Headache Powders When a Liver Tonic is Needed

Try Olive Tablets—The Substitute for Calomel

Anyone who takes Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets the moment he suspects his liver or bowels, will never have headache.

There is no necessity, when you take Olive Tablets, of following them up with nasty, sickening, griping salts or castor oil, as you should after taking calomel.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel or any other metallic drug; they are purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, sugar-coated, easy to take, and never gripe or cause weakness.

Thousands of people take one every night at bedtime just to prevent disorder of the liver, constipation, bad breath, pimples, headache, etc.

Dr. Edwards, calomel's old enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with liver and bowel troubles.

Try them for a week. Take one each night. Every Olive Tablet has a movement all its own. 10c and 25c per box.

THE SEMI-ANNUAL LOCKHART MILL END SALE

Our store was turned into a mighty throbbing city of habitation last Friday and Saturday. THE LOCKHART MILL END SALE has a secret spring that always penetrates about every home in this city. Other stores try to ferret it out, but the best they can do is to guess how it is managed, for no matter what hour, day, month or year we announce it, the results are always greater. The truest view this writer can give you of the Immensity of Friday and Saturday's crowds and volume of business will be considered an exaggeration by our contemporaries. While we know that one-half of the real truth has not been told, need we remind our friends and customers that now is the time to plant and sow? We want everybody to learn to profit by this sale. Don't stand still! Come here Today and Tuesday for these values. We have many more to offer.

"CASCARETS" FOR A SICK, SOUR STOMACH.

SLUGGISH BOWELS CAUSE GASES, SOURNESS AND FOOD FERMENTATION

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means a disordered stomach, which cannot be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any.

Try Cascarets; they immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels. Then your stomach troubles are ended. A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

During the Past Year—James E. West, Chief Scout, Executive, Makes Annual Report

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Proof that at least 60,000 boys joined the Boy Scouts of America in 1912 is presented by James E. West, chief scout executive, in his annual report which will be read this week to the members of the national council at the third annual meeting. It consists in the fact that 61,472 tenderfoot badges were issued in 1912 as against 47,506 in the previous year.

There are many more tenderfoots enrolled with the organization who have no badges and who joined in the last year. Accordingly it is estimated that the actual number of new scouts enrolled in 1912 is much greater than is indicated by the number of badges sold.

Mr. West's report shows also that in 1912, 12,822 second class badges and 2,591 patrol leaders' badges, making a total of 15,413, were sent out to the scouts in the course of the year as compared with 63% of the previous year. The total number of first class badges and patrol leaders' badges for 1912 amounted to 2115 as compared with 2677 in the previous year.

In the year 1912, 29 boys in the United States became Eagle scouts and their names are enrolled in the national headquarters of the Boy Scouts of America. To become an Eagle scout, a boy must show special aptitude. He must go through the different degrees of tenderfoot, second class and first class scouts. The tests for these degrees require alertness, skill in the training of the body and the mind, good character and ambition. The boy must qualify as having a certain amount of knowledge in 21 different activities.

A Boy Scout Diary

One of the novelties being sent out from the national headquarters of the Boy Scouts of America is a boy scout diary compiled by S. A. Moffat, national field scout commissioner. In addition to providing a place for the scout to write daily something about his scouting activities, it gives the calls of different wild animals and birds, the explanation of different hand signals, the Morse and Myer codes, international code flags, Indian signs and blazes, deaf and dumb alphabet, Mariner's compass, knots and a certain amount of woodcraft and birdcraft. It is the thing that every boy scout wants.

Boy Scouts Misunderstood

S. A. Moffat, national field scout commissioner of the Boy Scouts of America, who at present is in the west organizing local councils and explaining to scout masters and men the aims of scout activities, is having splendid success. "The work there has been difficult because," as Mr. Moffat writes, "the boy scout movement has been misunderstood by the better class of people. As a result my efforts last week practically amounted to a personal struggle with each individual, but we succeeded in getting just the men we want."

Reunion and Anniversary Hikes

Reunion hikes will be taken this week by the boy scouts of America. Scouts who went camping together last summer will make it a point to have a reunion this week in celebration of the third anniversary of the organization. They will start on a hike into the woods for a day of scouting. In the northern states of course it is too cold now to camp out and only a few troops have log cabins or huts in the woods where they can stay over night. The scouts, however, will get together and talk over the fun they had in camp last summer. They will make it a point also to get together and be in on Lincoln's birthday, February 12th, and give the scout salute.

Business Men Boost Boy Scouts

A. L. Farnsworth, vice-president of the Southwestern Telegraph and Telephone company of Dallas, Texas, has been a zealous worker on behalf of the Boy Scouts of America. He believes that the scout movement is valuable in building good citizens. "The object of the movement," he says, "is to take the boy while he thinks he is having a good time, and when he really is, and teach him valuable lessons on various subjects; and also to instill in him a code of morals from which it is likely he will never depart. One of the moral precepts is a pledge that binds him to be honest, unselfish, courteous and to desire to help others and do some kind act daily. The basis of the movement is in no way militaristic, the idea, however, is to keep the boys divided into squads so that a close scrutiny may be kept on their actions."

Scouts Keep One Another

One scout can tell another scout even when not in uniform. That is proved by A. R. Hewitt, special field scout commissioner of Birmingham, Ala. "I was at a school recess last summer," he writes, "and I was asked if I thought there was a scout among a crowd of boys playing on the beach. They happened to be from the best families I know and I was sure I was able to point out one boy. I asked him if he wasn't a scout. He immediately gave the salute. The others were not scouts. Naturally I was questioned as to how I had picked out the one boy scout from a group. My reply was, 'Watch him carefully. You will see he is more widely awake than the rest; his actions are more precise, his manner more polite; he displays a readiness to help every one. His movements show training for active use; he is very observant, his eye doesn't miss anything in the water or on the land. Practice has made it secure to be wholly alive.'"

What the Boy Scouts Are Doing

The Boy Scouts of America in Logansport, Indiana, under the direction of Scout Commissioner L. O. Wetzel, sent out Christmas packages to 500 poor children. These packages contained children's toys, clothes and other things to delight the boys and girls.

In Greenville, Ind.

The Boy Scouts of Troop No. 2, in Greenville, Ind., went on a bear hunt recently. They hiked for many miles, but they did not catch a bear.

Other Scout News

The Boy Scouts of America in Greenville, Pa., have started a movement in their town for the establishment of the Y. M. C. A. They have appeared to the newspapers to start the institution, and have made calls on the men and women in the town in regard to the project they have joined, and the value of having such an institution, and having a building where people of all kinds could meet.

Seventy Boy Scouts of Oklahoma City, led by Scout Commissioner L. L. McDonald, explored the hills and ravines west of the city for traces of the old Cherokee trail. On a hike of 15 miles they worked out the location of the old trail. They found arrow heads, remains of an old bridge, buffalo bones and other things along the trail.

Mrs. Katherine B. Tippetts, St. Petersburg, Fla., organized a troop of scouts and scout masters interested in the work. F. A. Wood, who owns a large country estate, gave the boy scouts permission to use part of it for camping and hiking.

BASEBALL MEN MEET

Big Leaguers Out Strong

in New York

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Baseball men continued to arrive here today for the final gathering of the big leagues before the opening of the 1913 playing season. The schedule meeting of the American league, set for this morning, promised to be brief and productive of little except routine business. This afternoon was reserved for a meeting of the national committee—the supreme court of baseball—but it was said that complaints of only a minor character were to be disposed of.

The National league schedule meeting will not be held until tomorrow, but there were meetings on for this afternoon, including the International league and the Eastern association, formerly the Connecticut league.

There have been reports to the effect that several big trades would be negotiated during the American league meeting, the object being to strengthen the Highlanders. Frank Chance has several deals pending, any one of which may be put through while the club-owners are in this city. The new leader of the Highlanders arrives here today.

NOTED SUFFRAGETTE ILL

Dr. Mary Walker in Critical Condition

as Result of a Fall a Week Ago—She is 81 Years Old

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—Dr. Mary Walker, the noted woman suffragette, is critically ill at a hospital here from nervous shock caused by a fall a week ago. Dr. Walker is 81 years old. It did not become known generally that Dr. Walker was in a hospital until last night when she failed to keep an engagement to lecture. The aged woman says that her arrest a short time ago for wearing male attire was indirectly responsible for her fall as she says she strained herself in climbing into a patrol wagon.

Card of Thanks

For the great kindness shown us during our sad bereavement in the death of our father, John H. Fagan, and for the many beautiful floral tributes, we take this opportunity of expressing our deepest gratitude and profound thanks.

AUTO TURNED TURTLE

Machine Plunged Down

10-Foot Embankment

FOUR OCCUPANTS INJURED—ONE MAY NOT RECOVER

Two Plunged Under Car—Companions, After Regaining Consciousness, Extricated Themselves Under Machine

BOSTON, Feb. 10.—Four men were seriously injured early yesterday morning, shortly after 1 o'clock, when a big touring car plunged down a 10-foot embankment at the junction of Everett avenue and the Revere beach parkway in Everett, burying two of the occupants beneath it when it turned turtle.

Edman McFarlane, living at the Lincoln apartments on West Baltimore street, Lynn, is at his home with concussion of the brain, a cut over the right eye, his right ear drum broken and injuries to his back, and is thought to be dying.

Plunged Under Car

Of the other three men Forest Sloper of 20 School street, Lynn, who was pinned under the wrecked machine with McFarlane, sustained a deep cut over his right eye and injuries to the back. Alfred B. Harrington of 217 Lynnfield street, Lynn, had shaking up and Lincoln D. Robbins of Saugus, who was driving the car, is confined to his bed with injuries to his back and his face is badly cut and swollen.

Robbins and Harrington were hurled into the air and lay stunned for fully five minutes. Then they managed to lift the heavy car and drag their injured companions from beneath the machine.

Suffering intense pain and greatly weakened, the two men, together with Sloper, who had partially recovered, carried McFarlane for over a quarter of a mile to the Washington avenue garage in Chelsea. Here they telephoned for a taxicab and were taken to Lynn.

When they arrived at the office of Dr. W. L. Martin McFarlane was thought to be dead, but after being treated he was put to bed and about 5 o'clock in the morning he had improved enough to be taken to his home.

The other men and they were sent home.

The autoists had been to the motor boat show in Boston and were returning home, when Robbins, who was driving, made the turn into the parkway and the auto shot over the sidewalk and through a fence into the ditch.

Robbins is owner of the Oxford garage in Lynn and his companions were employees. The wrecked auto was left in the ditch.

PERPETUAL MOTION

We believe that we come the nearest to winning of any one, who has contested for the honor of solving this difficult problem. Our sales of bread have so increased within the past few months that the making of it appears to be one continuous operation with a seemingly unceasing end. There's a reason, and, Fleischmann's yeast and King Arthur flour compose it.

The Crime of Waste

You've seen lots of people who, though they eat a plenty, do not grow strong or healthy.

They waste their food because they do not assimilate it.

"It is not the food we eat that keeps us alive, but what we assimilate."

H-O Oatmeal is one of the most readily assimilated of foods.

It is the one oatmeal fit to eat after only 20 minutes of cooking by you, because it is the one oatmeal first cooked over two hours at the mill.

When you eat H-O after cooking it 20 minutes you get all the nourishment possible out of the oats. There is no waste about it.

The Crime of Waste

You've seen lots of people who, though they eat a plenty, do not grow strong or healthy.

They waste their food because they do not assimilate it.

"It is not the food we eat that keeps us alive, but what we assimilate."

H-O Oatmeal is one of the most readily assimilated of foods.

It is the one oatmeal fit to eat after only 20 minutes of cooking by you, because it is the one oatmeal first cooked over two hours at the mill.

When you eat H-O after cooking it 20 minutes you get all the nourishment possible out of the oats. There is no waste about it.

Ernest Cutler Price. The majority of fans would never notice this name, but when it is linked with Jack Dillon, the "Hoosier" middleweight, everybody recognizes it. Dillon's next appearance in this vicinity will be against Bill McKeon at the Thornton, the next Monday night. McKeon is already at the prescribed weight, which calls for 155 pounds at 2 o'clock.

New Orleans promoters are trying to bring about a meeting between Al Wamsburg, the ex-national amateur lightweight champion, who won his title in this city, and Ray Brownson, the Indianapolis boxer who aspires to welterweight honors. Jimmy McFarrell has assumed the management of Wamsburg.

Eddie Flynn, the Lynn lightweight is very anxious to meet Johnny Dolan, the Brooklyn boxer. Dolan and a lightweight, which the matchmaker of the Lowell A. C. will select shortly, will furnish the Washington's birthday attraction.

The showing of Bowers in the distance events Saturday night is only what he has been credited for him through this column. Bowers went out and ran a well timed race in the 1000 yd. race and finished the event apparently spent. When the Lowell boys lined up for the start the comment of some of the athletic followers present was that he could not recapture in the time that elapsed between the two events. They, however, had not taken into consideration the barrel chest that Bowers possesses or did not realize his power. A runner with a chest like his is blessed with tremendous staying-up qualities. Bowers also has a good pair of legs upon which to build an athletic career. If this boy is specialized by a good distance coach and gets his stride lengthened out there would be very few distance performers getting away from him, be they schoolboys or not.

Just take a look at the Fairmount bowling team's score in Saturday's match. Five men bowling 300 or over isn't a feat that is seen very often. The total, 1531, stands as a high mark for the season thus far.

"Ed" Cawley came into his own Saturday night in the dual meet with Commerce High. Out of 41 feet 9 1/2 inches is not his limit by any means for with the proper coaching this shotputter can beat 45 feet with the lead pill.

The members of the press, or better perhaps a few sporting writers, for lack of other means of expression, are rating the investigation of Paul Whittington by the A. A. U.

The matter is of present news value because of the notoriety of the Thorpe case. Some journals have compared the situations of the two famous athletes. True, both are "all round" men; Thorpe, the more wonderful in track and field events; Whittington remarkable in his versatility. The similarity of the two cases ceases.

Thorpe did not realize what Corinthian sport demanded. Whittington cannot claim such excuse, if indeed he needs one. From boyhood the latter has been studied in the meaning of the word amateur. He has known from the first that an amateur is a lover of sport, one who plays the game for its own attraction. Any question as to whether he has overstepped the amateur code touches the public and the sporting world, as a violation of ethics more than the Thorpe matter.

The A. A. U. is an organization originally intended to promote amateur sport. As such it deserved commendation. So long as it codified rules, kept record tables and united competition it did valued work. Of late it has extended beyond this field.

At the present time, James Sullivan is the personification of the A. A. U. Under present rulings no man is to be permitted to compete in an A. A. U. contest without contributing to the exchequer of Mr. Sullivan and his associates. Should an athlete compete in public without this formality, or should he compete in events, which have not received the A. A. U. sanction, he is regarded as unclean. Then he is blacklisted. All true sportsmen, all real amateurs, know that legislation and official edict cannot make an amateur of a man who is not. The real test of sport resolves itself to this: Has the athlete competed in sport for financial reasons, or in conjunction with money seekers; has he played or taught the game for a monetary reward?

It is said that Mr. Sullivan's interest in the A. A. U. is monetary. Indeed some have boldly stated that the Thorpe case has proved of distinct financial benefit to one of Sullivan's personal friends. Certainly there has been great dissatisfaction with Mr. Sullivan's official conduct.

I have had the pleasure of knowing Mr. Whittington. I know his record. An all America football player, a crack swimmer, a champion wrestler, a member of victorious Harvard crews, a thorough lover of the game, he stands for achievement in those sports that test the mettle of the man.

Because he wrestled in an event that did not acknowledge the A. A. U. right to demand homage, is he a professional? If so, are not all college events professional games? (The A. A. U. has not been able to control the intercollegiate field. College athletes as such do not subscribe to the theory of Mr. Sullivan's divine right.) Because Mr. Whittington draws a salary from the Harvard Athletic association for keeping books is he a professional any more than Mr. Sullivan? True it is. Mr. Whittington does teach athletics at Harvard and elsewhere. But whether he teaches athletics or not makes no difference in his salary. That salary is dependent on his bookkeeping on the breadth of his shoulders. Were more men actuated by Paul's feeling, the inability to keep away from clean sport, true sportsmen would be abundant. The present controversy my hat is off to a man I am proud to know, a splendid teammate, a generous opponent, to Paul Whittington.

to manage the Pittsfield, Mass. club of the Eastern association.

Fred Clarke of Pittsburgh used to be considered the best left-handed batsman in the land against southpaw pitchers.

Because of the ill health of Secretary John H. Farrell of the National association the only one of an assistant is to be created and filled at once. It is said that Secretary Farrell is no longer physically able to care for his work, and because of his long service it is planned to relieve him of much of his tedious work.

Dick Hoblitzel, the able first baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, has signed a two-year contract with the Cincinnati club.

President Johnson of the American League has presented Bill Evers with $200 as winner of the prize offered last spring for the umpire who could show the least time average for games won during the season. Dineen umpired 152 games, the average time of the contests being one hour and 55 minutes. Frank O'Loughlin, who officiated in 142 games, was second, with a time average of one hour and 57 minutes. The other six umpires had exactly the same average, their time being one hour and 55 minutes.

Manager Evers of the Chicago Cubs has arranged an exhibition game with Syracuse for the benefit of Jim Doyle, third baseman of the Cubs, who played with the Utica (New York State League) team for two years and died last season after the opening of the 1912 season after one year of good service as third baseman of the Chicago Cubs.

According to a Los Angeles despatch, infielder Arthur Shafer of the Giants last week turned down a second contract offer from the New York club with this statement: "I have positively decided to get out of the game. McGraw has not enough money in his treasury to tempt me to leave. I have had enough of the game and think that I will tour Europe this year." Shafer would have been the regular shortstop of the Giants had it not been for the acceptance of the McGraw.

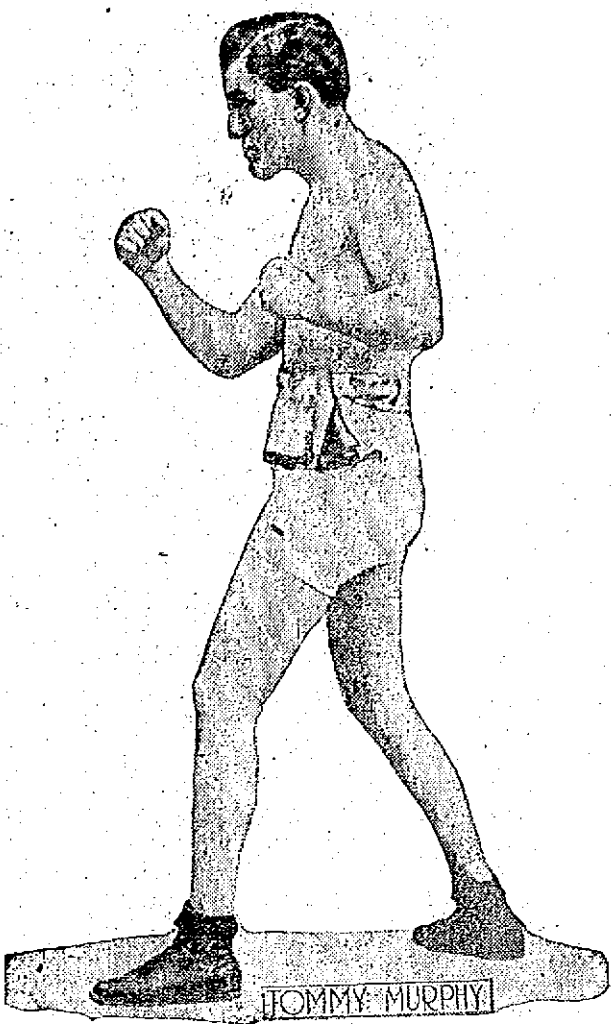

Captain Bill Sweeney of the Boston Braves has been in professional baseball for nine years and has always been a pretty fair stickler. Yet in all that time William has made six home runs. Sweeney faculty has always been in driving the ball just out of reach of the infielders.

Han Johnson, president of the American League, does not approve of the statement recently made by Garry Hermann, president of the Cincinnati Reds, and chairman of the national commission, to the effect that the supreme body of baseball is about to demand a showdown from the officers of the Amateur Athletic union, with a view to ascertaining why college students, during vacations, are not allowed to play professional baseball, since they do other work for money. Johnson declared that he was in favor of the course outlined by Hermann, in fact, that he would be opposed to the commission taking any action at all in the matter. Han further said that he, as president of the American League, had personally protected a number of college men from taint of professionalism by refusing to promulgate their signed contracts until after they had been graduated.

Frank Chance left Los Angeles yesterday for New York to take charge of the New York American League players on their spring training trip to Bermuda. Chance had little to say regarding the prospects of New York in the near future. The players are all new to him in a way. "From what I can learn of the individual players I will start off with a bunch of good class, but with some weak spots that must be strengthened," he said. "I will not know what my plans of reorganization will be until after I return from Bermuda. I have no plans of a definite nature, nor have I any deals or trade in mind. We will have a good coaching staff to start with and if Chance wants to play second base I probably will try my old position at first again."

Charles ("Chick") Fraser, a former member of the Chicago National League baseball team, has signed a contract

TOMMY MURPHY OF BROOKLYN, THE ORIGINAL HARD LUCK FIGHTER

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11.—Tommy Murphy, Brooklyn lightweight, is the original hard luck kid. When he has a match with a good man the good man usually gets sick just in time to call the match off or else he is laid up himself. Now it is Joe Mandot, the crack southern fighter, who has the grip and will not be able to meet Tommy in Frisco Feb. 22. Jim Coffroth, the Pacific coast promoter, is anxious to have Ad Wolfast, the ex-champion, meet Murphy. The latter is willing, but Adolph wants $10,000 and expenses.

Mr. Coffroth would undoubtedly comply with the mild request of the ex-champ if the authorities would allow him to manufacture his own currency. Murphy's hardest luck was in not being able to get a match with Wolgast when Ad was champion. Murphy had something on Wolgast. He could whip him, and Wolgast knew it. He met Murphy in a six round bout in Pittsburgh a few weeks before the fight with Nelson that gave Wolgast the title. Murphy knocked him down and whipped him thoroughly. And to this day Wolgast has avoided him.

MANY GOOD GAMES AND SCORES

Bowlers Were Active Saturday Night—Interesting Contests on All the Local Alleys

There were a large number of games bowled on the local alleys Saturday night and numerous good scores were the result. The Fairmounts in the U. S. C. I. league put up the highest team total of 1531. The Oklades were completely outclassed in this contest. In the Baraca league the Calvary Baptist team defeated that of the Imperial Baptist by the score of 1364 to 1248. Perrin of the winners was high man with 290.

The Washingtons were the victors in their six-man match with the Braves at the U. S. C. I. gym by the score of 1512 to 1492 in a close game. McEhan was high with a total of 300.

The Vibrators won their game from the High Cores in the Heinze Electric league by 53 pins.

A bowling team representing the Saco-Lowell shops of this city went to Manchester Saturday and took the Amoskag team into camp by the score of 1450 to 1411 in a six-man match. Phillips of Lowell was high with 293.

The Walnuts handed out a defeat to the Chestnuts in their game by the narrow margin of 16 pins. Humphries of the losers had the high total of 295.

The Netherwood team was an easy winner in their game with the Nichols bowling team, taking all three strings and the total by the score of 1181 to 1052.

The Remonas outbowed Donahue's Pats by over 100 pins in their match Saturday night and won the totals by the score of 1245 to 1102.

The scores for the various games: Fairmounts: Gillis, 300; Scully, 304; McCarthy, 300; Stowell, 310; Mulligan, 292. Total, 1531.

LOWELL HIGH WON TRACK MEET

Defeated the Commerce

High, 64 to 17—Bowers'

Work a Feature

The High school track team won their dual meet Saturday night with Commerce High of Boston at the Vale street annex by the overwhelming score of 64 to 17. The boys from Boston scored but two first places and were outclassed after the meet got well under way.

Smith, the leader of the victors, is a sterling performer and if there had been a few more men of his calibre the meet would not have ended the way it did. Smith won the dash and looked to be the winner of the high jump but refused to tire himself by jumping off the tie between himself and a teammate. In the three hundred yard dash the Boston boy was in the lead after rounding the second bank but threw a shoe and was forced to retire. Lowell was very lucky in this event for all three places were won by them after Smith met with his mishap.

Bowers, the distance king of the High school athletes, was the star of the meet along with Captain Bailey. Bowers won both the 1000 yard run the mile while the Lowell leader captured the 300 yard dash and the hurdle event as well as taking three points in the 30 yard dash. Both boys showed marked improvement over their work of last week.

Cawley was another feature of the meet with his heave of 41 feet and 9 1/2 inches in the weight event. His heave was blocked by an iron girder, but the mark that was allowed to stay is the best that has been seen in the two meets held this year.

The summary of the various events is as follows:

30 yards dash: First heat won by Bailey, Lowell; McDonnell, Boston, second. Second heat won by Douglas, Lowell; Spaulding, Lowell, second. Third heat won by Hersey, Boston; Carter, Lowell, second. Fourth heat won by Trull, Lowell; Libbee, Lowell, second. First heat of semi-finals won by Smith, Boston; Carter, Lowell, second. Final heat won by Smith, Boston; Carter, Lowell, second. Final heat won by Smith, Boston; Carter, Lowell, second.

100 yards run: Won by Bowers, Lowell; Beck, Boston, second; Safford, Lowell, third. Time: 2 min., 43 sec.

Running high jump: Won by Smith, Boston; Davis, Boston, second; Chase and Dutton of Lowell tied for third. Height: 5 feet, 4 inches.

300 yards dash: Won by Bailey, Lowell; Haggerty, Lowell, second; Trull, Lowell, third. Time: 41 4/5 sec.

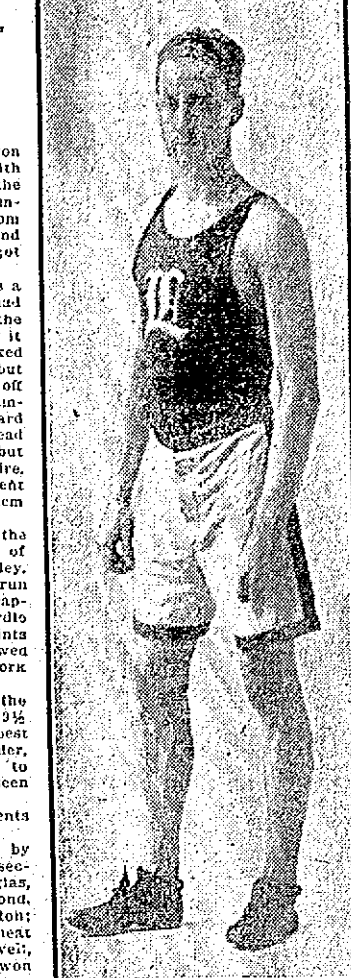

600 yards run: Won by Spaulding, Lowell; DeLorme, Lowell, second; Burrows, Boston, third. Time: 1 min., 34 sec.

Shot put: Won by Cawley, Lowell; Sturtevant, Lowell, second; Gill, Lowell, third. Distance: 41 feet, 9 1/2 inches.

1200 yards relay team race: Won by Lowell.

Score: Lowell, 64; Boston, 17.

A team race between the midlets of the Commerce school and Lowell High resulted in a win for the Boston babes. The Highland school relay team won an exciting race from the Bartlett school team.

THOMAS AND MCLOSKEY

To Appear in the Main

Bout Friday

Joe Thomas, the local middleweight, is still considered by many critics to be a worthy contender for the title, left vacant by the late Stanley Ketchel. True, the latter defeated Thomas, but who has defeated Joe Thomas since? Next Friday night Thomas and Blink McCloskey will meet at the Lowell Social and Athletic Club in a 12-round bout, and every assurance is given that the contest will be a fast one. McCloskey's European triumphs have earned him enviable attention among the American middleweights. McCloskey is confident that he will win and is training with the one object in view. As Thomas takes the best of care of himself, he is not losing anything to better him, but is putting in his daily training stunts wearing a content smile.

Thomas will do his training during the remainder of the week at the C. Y. M. L. gymnasium on Suffolk street. He will be assisted in his workouts by an efficient corps of "seconds." Joe expects to win and will then take a trip west, where he has offers to meet some of the present middleweights. He had a bout arranged with Tony Sullivan of Lawrence, but the latter boy refused to come in terms. As Sullivan would not agree the bout was called off. As Joe has beaten practically all the middleweights in this section of the country with the exception of McCloskey, whom he will meet Friday night for the first time, he feels that he will be obliged to go west. Jack Boyle, who has met Bay Wood, Eddie Flynn, Young Jasper, and numerous other clever lightweight will appear in the semi-final this week, against Bill Corrigan of Cambridge. The latter is going fast at the present time and this number will surely be a hummer. Young Daly of Lawrence will meet Young Morgan of Manchester, who dropped Kid Duan at last week's meeting. In the other preliminary Gardner Brooks will meet Young Crow.

Eddie Flynn, the Athletics' star southpaw, has not signed his 1913 contract yet, and it is feared that the great pitcher will make good his threat to retire from the game. Manager Condon has admitted that night that he was not sure Flynn would be with the White Elephants when they left for San Antonio, Tex., on Feb. 21.

President Johnson of the American League, does not approve of the statement recently made by Garry Hermann, president of the Cincinnati Reds, and chairman of the national commission, to the effect that the supreme body of baseball is about to demand a showdown from the officers of the Amateur Athletic union, with a view to ascertaining why college students, during vacations, are not allowed to play professional baseball, since they do other work for money. Johnson declared that he was in favor of the course outlined by Hermann, in fact, that he would be opposed to the commission taking any action at all in the matter. Han further said that he, as president of the American League, had personally protected a number of college men from taint of professionalism by refusing to promulgate their signed contracts until after they had been graduated.

Frank Chance left Los Angeles yesterday for New York to take charge of the New York American League players on their spring training trip to Bermuda. Chance had little to say regarding the prospects of New York in the near future. The players are all new to him in a way. "From what I can learn of the individual players I will start off with a bunch of good class, but with some weak spots that must be strengthened," he said. "I will not know what my plans of reorganization will be until after I return from Bermuda. I have no plans of a definite nature, nor have I any deals or trade in mind. We will have a good coaching staff to start with and if Chance wants to play second base I probably will try my old position at first again."

Charles ("Chick") Fraser, a former member of the Chicago National League baseball team, has signed a contract to manage the Pittsfield, Mass. club of the Eastern association.

Fred Clarke of Pittsburgh used to be considered the best left-handed batsman in the land against southpaw pitchers.

Because of the ill health of Secretary John H. Farrell of the National association the only one of an assistant is to be created and filled at once. It is said that Secretary Farrell is no longer physically able to care for his work, and because of his long service it is planned to relieve him of much of his tedious work.

Dick Hoblitzel, the able first baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, has signed a two-year contract with the Cincinnati club.

President Johnson of the American League has presented Bill Evers with $200 as winner of the prize offered last spring for the umpire who could show the least time average for games won during the season. Dineen umpired 152 games, the average time of the contests being one hour and 55 minutes. Frank O'Loughlin, who officiated in 142 games, was second, with a time average of one hour and 57 minutes. The other six umpires had exactly the same average, their time being one hour and 55 minutes.

Manager Evers of the Chicago Cubs has arranged an exhibition game with Syracuse for the benefit of Jim Doyle, third baseman of the Cubs, who played with the Utica (New York State League) team for two years and died last season after the opening of the 1912 season after one year of good service as third baseman of the Chicago Cubs.

According to a Los Angeles despatch, infielder Arthur Shafer of the Giants last week turned down a second contract offer from the New York club with this statement: "I have positively decided to get out of the game. McGraw has not enough money in his treasury to tempt me to leave. I have had enough of the game and think that I will tour Europe this year." Shafer would have been the regular shortstop of the Giants had it not been for the acceptance of the McGraw.

Captain Bill Sweeney of the Boston Braves has been in professional baseball for nine years and has always been a pretty fair stickler. Yet in all that time William has made six home runs. Sweeney faculty has always been in driving the ball just out of reach of the infielders.

Han Johnson, president of the American League, does not approve of the statement recently made by Garry Hermann, president of the Cincinnati Reds, and chairman of the national commission, to the effect that the supreme body of baseball is about to demand a showdown from the officers of the Amateur Athletic union, with a view to ascertaining why college students, during vacations, are not allowed to play professional baseball, since they do other work for money. PLAYFUL WITH KNIFE AND AXE

Among the most important cases which were brought before Judge Knight in the police court this morning was that of Louis Gantle, charged with drunkenness and assault. The story of an affair which was staged at the home of Gantle, on Saturday night, was told through the medium of an interpreter, was quite a sensation. The mother-in-law and father-in-law of the prisoner were present and the former was the first to offer testimony on the witness stand. She said that when the party had demanded his wife's services on last Saturday night, she had refused, he picked up an axe and expressed his intention of making a general cleanup of the premises. Her husband, she said, then came to her assistance and the son-in-law then picked up a knife to use on the father of his wife. The father-in-law then took the case to defend himself from the knife but the defendant was by that time thoroughly aroused and even an army could not stop him. With the axe and knife, he drove the other occupants of the house out of doors and for a time held the house against the sun. It was the story of his mother-in-law on the witness stand this morning. The judge found it best to place the man under bonds of $100 to keep the peace and in addition to this he imposed a fine of $5 for Sunday drunk.

Larceny of Suit Case

James S. Williams was brought into the police court to answer to a charge of the larceny of a suit case containing a variety of articles, including four wallets, handkerchiefs, towels and a razor. The property of George H. Stark. According to the testimony of the complainant, Mr. Stark, he went to a lodging house in Lee street and had two suit cases when he arrived there. He was shown to his room and left the suit cases there for about 15 minutes while with the landlady. When he went down to the stove. On returning he found but one of the suit cases in the room where he had left it. Before he had gone down stairs, he said, he had noticed another man who had greeted him and asked him if he was going to live there. A Martin street passerby testified that on Saturday night the man had come into his place and pawned the suit case for $1, and Officer McCleughan told the court the circumstances of the man's arrest. The suit case and contents, with the exception of some articles, were missing. Williams was found guilty and sentenced to serve five months in the house of correction.

Accused His Children

Not guilty was the plea of William M. Mitchell to a complaint, charging him with neglecting to provide proper support for his minor children between November 8 last and Feb. 6. He was found guilty and placed on probation being ordered by the court to pay the probation officer $4 weekly for his children.

Had No License

Three men were arraigned in court this morning on complaints alleging that they have been conducting shops without a license. They were Morris Schuchman, Harry Levy and Jacob Gilman. The police have begun a campaign against offenders of this kind, for it has of late been the means of disposing of a great amount of stolen goods, and it is believed that the proprietors of these second hand stores

If You Suffer From Hemorrhoids or Piles

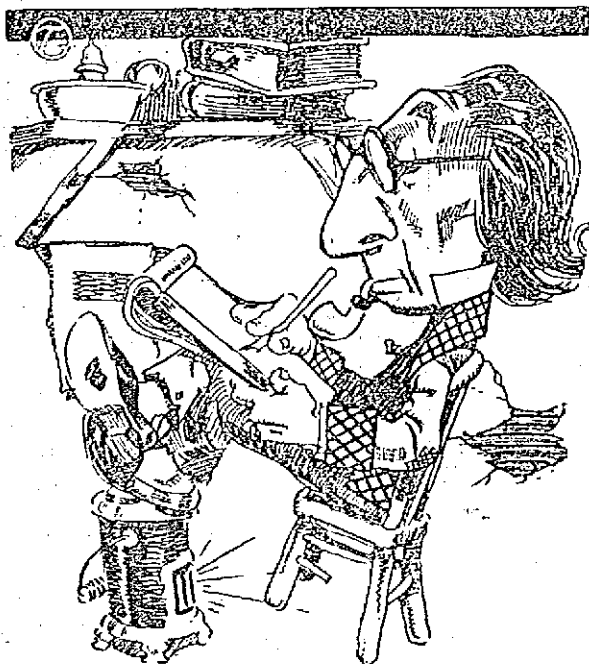

You should read a treatise on this prevalent ailment, issued by the English Pharmacy Laboratories, Inc., 1531 Broadway, New York.

Over 1500 druggists in the New England states sell "E-H-T" (English Hemorrhoid Treatment) and have the free distribution of a pamphlet, which tells one how to diagnose one's own case and treat one's self at home.

"E-H-T" remedies are the field of action. There are suppositories for internal use, an ointment for external application and constitutional tablets, which insure success to the local treatment.

A complete "E-H-T" treatment (3 remedies) retails at $1.50 for regular size box. Single remedies can be obtained at 50 cents each.

NEW FRENCH AMERICAN ORPHANAGE NOW COMPLETED AND EQUIPMENT BEST IN NEW ENGLAND

VIEW OF THE NEW ADDITION TO THE FRENCH AMERICAN ORPHANAGE

The addition to the French American orphanage in Pawtucket street was to be opened today, but on account of the building not being quite finished, this was postponed until next Monday. On Tuesday, a week from tomorrow, the first mass will be celebrated in the cozy little chapel of the institution, the celebrant to be the pastor of the parish. The blessing of the new edifice will not take place until after Easter, and Cardinal O'Connor has been invited to officiate at this ceremony, but it is not certain that he will be able to come.

With the opening of the new addition a home will be provided for 300 children, 150 boys and as many girls, which will mean about double the number taken care of at the present time.

With this new building the little French speaking orphans of this city will have one of the finest homes in the country. The edifice is a most modern one and is equipped with all the latest improvements.

The new structure consists of a building 145,000 feet, four stories and basement, and an ell three stories high, 35,000 feet, and is constructed of brick. The estimated cost of the building as filed at the office of public buildings at city hall was $50,000, but with the few changes that were made in the interior of the edifice, it is presumed that the cost will reach nearly $70,000, although the pastor of the parish, when seen by the writer this morning, stated that he did not know just how much the addition will cost.

The main building was erected in the rear of the former home of Frederick Ayer, the first property purchased for an orphanage and is a fine addition to the structure. It has four stories with basement and the latter is used for kitchen purposes, produce cellar, pantry, toilet and bath.

The kitchen is about the best equipped in the city, and probably the best in the state. All cooking apparatus was supplied by the Lowell Gas Light Corp. and is the best on the market. It consists of a four-section polish

ON WILD GOOSE CHASE

Doctors Called Out in Middle of the Night

A number of doctors, perhaps 30 in all, were called out of bed a few nights ago and summoned to different parts of the city to attend to persons alleged to be in a dying condition. It is stated that at least twelve of the doctors responded to the calls received by them only to find that they had been called out of their cozy beds for no purpose. Most of the calls took the doctors to the outskirts of the city and they are pursuing a rigid investigation.

It was stated this forenoon that the bogus calls had been traced to the office of a local physician and before prosecuting in the regular way the doctors who were made the butt of the alleged joke will send an agent to examine the "joker" and will probably have him sent to Danvers rather than to the police station. "I think we have located the right officer," said one of the doctors this forenoon, "and we intend to pursue our inquiry. It does not seem possible that a man in his proper senses or right mind would do such a trick, and if he is insane he ought to be sent away."

13 ACCUSED OF MURDER

Were Put on Trial at Hackensack, N. J.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Feb. 10.—Thirteen men accused of the murder of Capt. Crow and Detective Clarence Mallory were put on trial here today. On Dec. 11 a gang of about 100 armed men, led by a man named Shadyside, swept down the street of the village, attacking the guards and killing Crow and Mallory. The men accused are all Italians, few of whom can speak English. One of the attorneys for the defense was Louis Mucel, who was associate counsel for Eter and Giovannitti at Salem, Mass.

Walsh Too Ill to Testify

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—George G. Henry of New York, member of Salomon & Co. bankers, was indicted by the federal grand jury today for contempt of a congressional committee for refusing to tell the house money trust investigating committee the names of 24 bank officers who participated with him in a syndicate operation in California petroleum stock. A bench warrant for his arrest was issued.

Optim Cases Postponed
NEW BEDFORD, Feb. 10.—The cases of Edward C. Whitney, charged with being engaged in the trade of opium, and of Henry White, charged with conspiring in the illicit transportation of opium, were postponed until Tuesday morning and neither defendant was arraigned today before U. S. Commissioner Goodspeed. The federal inspectors, who made the arrests were unable to be in attendance at a hearing today and asked postponement.

MRS. CLEVELAND WEDS

Wife of Ex-President Married Again

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 10.—Mrs. Grover Cleveland and Thomas Jex Preston, Jr. were married at 10:30 o'clock by President John Grier Hibben of Princeton university in Prospect, the executive residence of the university.

No preliminary announcement had been made of the marriage and the utmost simplicity was observed in the ceremony.

Course of Y. W. C. A.
The educational committee of the Y. W. C. A. has arranged a course of programs for six Tuesday evenings, to come every other week, beginning Feb. 18. There will be no charge to members, but a few course tickets may be obtained for men or other non-members.

The program as arranged is as follows:
Feb. 15—Hon. Samuel Powers of Boston, ex-congressman, noted lawyer and platform orator, "Some Famous Men Whom I Have Known."

March 4—Pianola-piano and victrola recital by Mr. Heywood and Mr. Hyzer.
March 11—Mr. H. E. Duncan of Waltham, stereopticon lecture on "A Pocket Watch."

April 1—Rev. Willard Scott, D. D., after-dinner speaker and humorist, "The Enchantment of the Near Future."

April 15—Mr. James A. Burns of Boston, "Ocean Grounds and Foreign Travel." Illustrated with stereopticon slides.

April 22—Mr. Cy Warman, noted author, traveler and lecturer, "Canada," illustrated by moving pictures, with a few colored lantern slides.

Some of these lectures will be held in Kilson hall, others will of necessity be carried on in a large auditorium.

One of the social events of the year will be the Colonial reception held at the Young Women's Christian Association tomorrow afternoon and evening. The guests will be Mrs. John Thompson, a member of the northeastern field committee, and president of the Portland, Me. association, and Mrs. Edith Terry Bremer of New York city, who is national immigration secretary. Both women are familiar with many phases of association activity and will be heard with interest both in the afternoon and evening.

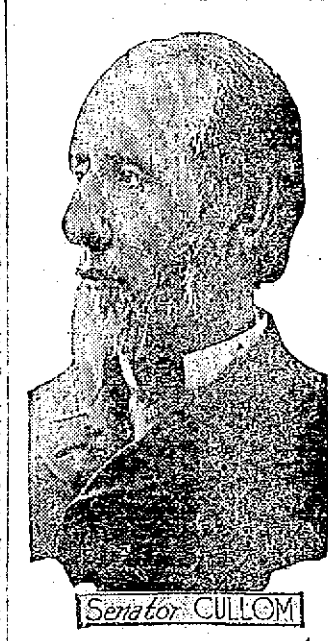

In the evening the entertainment, "H-mouth Rock," will be presented by boys and girls of the Varnum school.

Y.M.C.A. WEEKLY SESSION

Held at Headquarters Yesterday Morning

The regular weekly meeting of the Young Men's Catholic Institute was held yesterday morning at 11 o'clock with President James Gilligan in the chair. At the opening, the names of John J. Berry and D. R. O'Brien were proposed for membership in the club.

The committee on the Night-before-lent social and dance reported, through its chairman, Mr. O'Neill, that the affair had been one of record success and as a result the fund in the treasury was considerably augmented. A vote of thanks was extended to the officers and members of the various committees who labored for the success of the event.

Mr. Clark read the report of the committee on tournaments with other societies and he brought out the fact that the Father Mathew Temperance Institute of North Billerica will send a bowling team to compete with the Y. M. C. A. team on next Thursday evening. A lively contest is expected. This tournament committee is also getting in touch with other organizations for games of cards, pool, billiards and bowling and already they have arranged quite a schedule. More than usual interest is manifest in these competitions by the members.

The matter of parading on March 17 was left in charge of another committee who will submit their report at the meeting on next Sunday.

DOWN TO BUSINESS
Champ Clark Gets After Members of House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Speaker Champ Clark shook his gavel at the members of the house today and told them they must get down to business in the few remaining days of the session. When the house went into session there were less than a dozen members on the floor.

"The chair does not believe," Speaker Clark said, "that members realize the serious condition of things in the house. We are near the end of the session and there are still half of the appropriation bills on the book. The chair does not want to see those bills go over to the extraordinary session and does not believe the members do. The chair does not want to ask himself up as a boss but the only way for us to get this work done is for members to stay in their places on the floor of the house."

The fortifications bill, the second supply measure to go through both houses, was finally passed today. The executive, legislative and judicial bill is the only other measure sent to the president.

ADMIRAL PEARY
Talks on the Tragic Death of Captain Scott and His Crew—Capt. Amundsen Paid Tribute to Scott

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Admiral Robert Peary, the discoverer of the North pole, when informed of the tragic death of Scott and his companions, said:

"The news comes to me as a terrible shock. Mrs. Scott and the wives and relatives of the brave men who perished with Captain Scott, and the whole British nation have my deepest, sincerest and most heartfelt sympathy and condolence."

Admiral Peary at present is recovering from a surgical operation. Captain Roald Amundsen, who led in the race to the pole against Capt. Scott and other competitors, paid a glowing tribute to Scott in his address recently made here before the National Geographic society on receiving the society's gold medal commemorating his achievements. Amundsen then said that a friendly rivalry had existed between Scott and himself but that they always had in mind the best interests of science and research in which both were engaged. He felt that the two British explorers—Shackleton and Scott—had done much to assist him by preliminary research in the antarctic regions and had blazed the way for his discovery he ultimately made.

Thomas Talbot Conclave
The regular meeting of Thomas Talbot Conclave No. 125, Knights Shroveton of the Forest, of the Foresters of America was held at Liberty hall on Princeton street yesterday, and was very largely attended. Four applications were received and turned over to the proper committee. The six knights voted to attend the banquet tendered by Gen. Hanks conclave of Waltham, at Waltham, on February 23rd. Sir Knight John Barrett was elected secretary of the convention committee which will be held in this city in August. It was voted that the six knights would take part in the class initiation to be held by the Foresters of America, the last Sunday in March. Remarks were made on the good of the order by Sir Knights McDonald, Kelly, McDonald and Whelton. After the meeting many of the knights adjourned to the home of the past commander, Sir Knight Whelton, where a buffet lunch was served.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

To Open New Building With a Banquet

There was a very large meeting of the Knights of Columbus yesterday afternoon, held for the special purpose of arranging for the opening of the new building in Anna street. It was decided after much discussion to open it with a banquet for members and their friends and to hold a grand ball in Associate hall the same week. Among those who spoke were Albert E. O'Hair, John H. Murphy, John H. MacSabb and David Gerow. There were over 300 members present.

Cruiser Denver at Mexico
WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Secretary Knox at the end of today's special cabinet meeting said it had been decided to hold the cruiser Denver at Acapulco, Mexico, instead of sending her to Salvador, as had been planned. Other naval movements were discussed, the secretary said, but none decided upon.

DEATH OF THOMAS LANE
As Result of Burning Accident on Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Lane of 511 High street have the deep sympathy of their many friends on the death of their only child, Thomas, yesterday morning, as a result of falling into a pan of hot water on Saturday.

This a terrible blow to the parents who, within a year lost twins, one of the latter dying but seven weeks ago. The little Thomas had just recovered from scarlet fever and was playing about the floor when walking backward while his mother turned aside, he fell into a pan of scalding water. The shock, rather than the actual burns, resulted in death.

He was three years old, a bright and pretty child and the delight of his parents. Mrs. Lane, the child's mother, is sorely grief-stricken and can scarcely realize that her darling boy has been so suddenly snatched from her arms.

Yet she is strong in the faith that she will meet her three lost children in a brighter land where sorrow is unknown.

That there she will know his voice and the greetings of his eyes. And the countless cherubs that rejoice in the garden of Paradise.

Escaped he this life's alarms, The only child who has just recovered, Is that which leads from his mother's arms, Into the arms of God.

AMUSEMENT NOTES
Opera House
A complete production in every respect is promised when the curtain rises on the first act of "A Woman's Way" at the Opera House tonight. The members of the company have been rehearsing for the past ten days under the personal direction of Lester Longman and he feels that in introducing his players to local theatregoers, the performance will be up to the standard set in other cities.

Many prominent people of the city have signified their intention of being present for the opening, and Mr. Julius Cahn is making a special trip from New York, so that he may be present at the inaugural of the new stock company.

Commencing tomorrow the daily matinees will be given and no better play could have been selected than "A Woman's Way" to attract ladies to these matinee performances. Many new ideas will be presented at the matinees that are calculated to appeal to ladies and children.

Randomly selected ladies, good-looking, well-dressed men, beautiful scenery, and a play brimming with good situations and brilliant comedy is promised as the offering tonight. What more can be desired?

THREE MURDERERS PUT TO DEATH

Joseph Garfalo, Geo. Bishop and Donato Cardello Executed at Sing Sing Prison Today

OSSINING, N. Y., Feb. 10.—Three murderers were put to death in the electric chair at the Sing Sing prison just before daylight today. Two of them murdered women. All three went to the chair with firm steps and as they passed from the cell house to the death chamber called back to those who remained awaiting their end. The executions passed off without incident. Two of those who died left statements repudiating charges they had made implicating others. The first man to die was Joseph Garfalo, a huge Italian. He killed his wife with an axe when she threatened to divorce him.

DELAY TRIAL OF R. R. PRESIDENTS

Tentative Pleas of Not Guilty to Indictments Made Pleas of Record Today

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—The tentative pleas of not guilty to indictments charging them with violation of the criminal clause of the Sherman anti-trust law were made the pleas of record today by counsel for Charles F. Mellen, president of the New Haven road and Edison J. Chamberlain, president of the Grand Trunk railroad of Canada. No date for their trial was set.

Judge Mayer, in the federal court, who heard the pleas, set down for argument on Thursday next a motion made by counsel for Chamberlain for the appointment of a commission to take the testimony in England of Alfred Smithers chairman of the Grand Trunk board and other English directors of the road.

San Salvador, Feb. 10.—Dr. Manuel E. Aranao, president of the republic of Salvador, who was wounded by the bullets of an assassin on February 4th, died yesterday.

Don Carlos Melendez will succeed to the office of chief executive.

Aranao was attacked and shot last Tuesday night by several men, one of them, a Guatemalan named Virgilio Mulatillo, was arrested.

Mulatillo in a confession declared that the plot to assassinate President Aranao had been conceived in Guatemala City.

Third Trial of Snead

VERNON, Tex., Feb. 10.—J. T. Snead was called to stand trial for his life a third time for killings growing out of the elopement of his wife about a year ago with Al Boyce, Jr. Twice Snead was tried on the charge of murdering A. G. Boyce, the first trial resulting in the disagreement of the jury and the second in acquittal. The case called today was the shooting of the younger Boyce, which occurred after Mrs. Snead had been brought back to Texas from Manitoba.

Chance for Promotion

A police examination of patrolmen for promotion to sergeant will be held in the old council chamber at city hall, February 27, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon.

The examination will be open to all men who have been in the force one year or more as policemen and the eligible list established by this examination names will be certified to fill one vacancy and others to occur.

Application blanks can be obtained at the office of James H. Carmichael, 53 Central street.

Women Helped to Elect Men

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Following a banner inscribed "Women Helped Elect These Men" members of congress from those states on the suffrage will march in the inaugural parade March 3. An Unusual Golf Situation

An unusual golf situation developed in Great Britain the other day. A pond had overflowed and a ball from the tee striking the water floated out of the pond proper through a well defined channel into the overflow. The player said he had a right to lift.

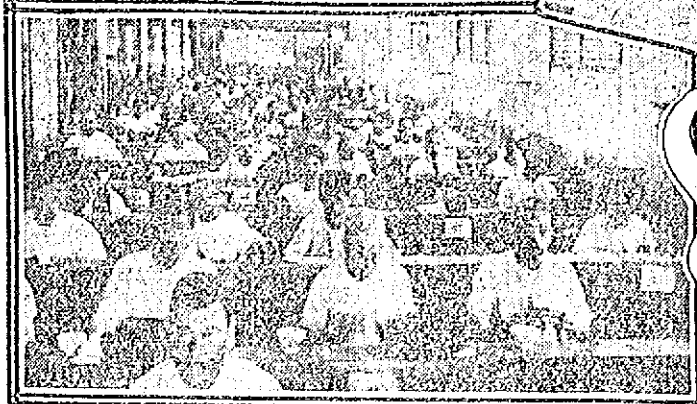

A light float had been used off the tee, but on the drop with the green only a short distance away, the float ball on the market was used.

The question was whether the ball in the overflow was in casual water and whether the player had the right to change the character of the ball in the dropping. An unofficial decision was that the overflow should be considered part of the hole and that rule 37 permitted any kind of ball to be dropped. The definite decision is taken as indicating too close a connection between the pond and the overflow for the latter to be classed as casual.

Another case was this: B has played four strokes and his ball lies on the lip of the hole. A has played three strokes and his ball lies on the lip of the hole. A has played three strokes and his ball lies on the lip of the hole. A has played three strokes and his ball lies on the lip of the hole.

The official St. Andrews decision was that the conditions under which a player may knock a ball which lies on the lip of the hole are stated in rule 33 (3), second paragraph. The conditions did not exist in the case mentioned. A must therefore be held to have "stopped" the ball—see rule 18—and to have lost the hole. Rule 33 cannot be applied, as B was not "left with a stroke for the hole."

The Here and There of CUBA'S TOBACCO INDUSTRY

A Room in One of the Large Cigar Factories in Havana

THE word "tobacco" is Indian and is derived from the name of an island in the Lesser Antilles called Tabago, where the plant grows in wild profusion. The first mention of its use in history occurs in the diary kept by Christopher Columbus on the first voyage. Under the date of Tuesday, November 6, 1492, Columbus relates how two men he had sent into an inland district, which is now Oriente Province of Cuba, in the course of their reconnaissance met men and women "smoking herbs." Later it was discovered that aboriginal Indians whom the Spanish found inhabiting the islands of the West Indies used tobacco in their religious ceremonies. Its smoke was the incense with which the priests accompanied their prayers to the gods. It was also learned that they sometimes sprinkled the heads of their idols with snuff or powdered tobacco. The medicine men stupefied themselves with this herb when they consulted oracles in divination, and by it they cured the sick in medical practice. The process of inhaling the smoke through the nostrils is mentioned in several accounts of their ceremonies and according to one authority special tables covered with lighted tobacco were placed before their idols.

Las Casas when he came to write in his history of the Indies, using for his authority the diary of Columbus, explains how the Indians smoked a sort of rude cigar which they made and called "Tabaco"—a name still used in Cuba. "I knew," Las Casas adds, "Spaniards who smoked, and when they were reproved for it and told that it was a vice said they could not leave it off. I do not know what pleasure or profit they got out of it." It seems singular that this "vice" originating with the Indians should prove one of the richest sources of revenue for the island through the fondness of the civilized world for the use of this same plant.

The plant is extremely delicate, being sensitive to cold or heat, to drought or rain, and even to the direction of the winds. From October, when the plants are usually taken from the seed beds and transplanted, until March, when the cutting or harvesting begins, is an anxious period of constant watchfulness and care to the grower. Even after the tobacco is cut and is hanging on the poles in the drying barn in the first curing process the danger is not entirely past. During this time the leaves change from a vivid green to different shades of brown. These colors are carefully sorted and packed into separate bales before the crop is shipped to the factories in Havana—famous throughout the world for the incomparable cigars which they turn out.

The tobacco is kept in a well-ventilated warehouse near the factory until it is needed, and during this time curing continues—usually about two years. When the leaf tobacco is received in the factory the bales are opened up and the leaf sprayed with clean, pure water; then it is repacked in the bales (the leaves being spread out for several hours until the leaves become pliant so each one can be opened without tearing or breaking. It is then selected and graded according to its strength, size, color, etc. After this selecting, the leaf intended to be used as fillers is placed in barrels with ample openings at the sides and top for ventilation, evaporation and further curing. This process takes from two to six weeks, according to the different grades of leaf, and is watched daily by experts. When the leaf is entirely ripe it is sent to the factory to be rolled into cigars. As fast as they are rolled they are passed to the foreman or inspector of the factory, who carefully examines each cigar, after which they are placed in the "escarpiates" or seasoned cedar bins. All "rejections" are packed separately and sold as such. The acceptable cigars remain in these bins until orders are received from the shipping department, when they are passed to the selectors, who in separate rooms at polished tables under a north light assort the cigars into various colors and shades (about thirty), rejecting any one imperfectly made. Afterward they are sent to the label girls, who put a band around each cigar. It costs one Havana firm alone nearly a quarter of a million dollars a year for cigar bands. After "banding" the cigars are put up in lots of twenty-five, fifty and one hundred and placed in boxes ready to be shipped throughout the world. The factories of Havana employ thousands of persons—one alone giving work to three thousand cigar makers. The rooms where these men work are especially interesting, for rolling a cigar properly requires no little skill. In this room are men who as boys served a long apprenticeship to learn the rudiments and fundamentals of cigar making and who have steadily improved and gained in skill in making the same size and shape cigar all the time. A number of the workers have made the same type of cigar every working day for twenty years. Some of these men are really artists in their work. The cigar maker is given his filler and wrappers

(the former weighed and the latter counted) and under his expert hands the material is made to assume one of the hundred shapes in which Havana cigars are put on the market. His only tool is a sharp cigar maker's knife, with which he trims the wrapper to meet his requirements, and he selects by his eye and his cultivated sense of touch just enough material to make the cigar exactly the proper length, and, more difficult still, the right amount to preserve the absolutely uniform thickness of the particular size on which he is working. Since the color and texture of wrapper leaves cannot be controlled by the grower to any appreciable extent, it is impossible to supply the modern demand for light color wrappers—a demand based entirely upon the erroneous idea that the color of the wrapper is an index of the strength of the cigar. While it is true to a limited extent that the color of the wrapper affects the strength, representing as it does only a small part of the whole cigar, it is only reasonable to state that this factor is of minor importance, the real strength depending upon the class of tobacco used in the filler. If, for example, a cigar carrying the bleed intended for the United States market, where heavy-bodied cigars are not in demand, should be given a dark wrapper the strength would not be noticeably affected, although so great is the power of suggestion that the cigar would not sell, consequently, as far as possible, the cigars shipped to the United States have light colored wrappers.

Where They Make Cigarettes by Machinery

A Field of Tobacco

The workmen of each factory organize and elect a president, secretary and treasurer. A reader is employed to read aloud to the men several hours each day. This "entertainer's" salary is from thirty to sixty dollars per week, the amount being collected by the treasurer from the workmen—usually fifteen cents from each man. The reader must be a man of intelligence, as he is often called upon to make comments and explanations on certain articles in the newspapers for a part of each day is spent in listening to the news of the day. One of the most popular "readers" fills a place on the editorial staff of a local paper when he is not engaged at the factory. A prominent member of the Cuban Senate is said to have been a factory reader only a few years ago. Books, too, are read, and these are selected by the men by vote. Don Quixote is a prime favorite, and in one factory Quo Vadis was highly appreciated. Reading aloud several hours a day is a strain on the throat and frequently the reader must rest for several days, during which time he employs a substitute. This institution, strange as it may seem to American eyes, works well for both employer and employee. The Spanish race invariably illustrates their conversation by a free use of their hands, and as cigar making is a work of the hand and not of the brain it becomes monotonous unless there is something to employ the mind. Naturally the men would talk, make gestures with their hands, and few cigars would be made. The reader gives the workmen something to occupy his mind, and the work goes on in almost absolute silence, except for the voice of the reader. The workmen in this manner become well informed on current events and on some of the best literature of the day. The idea originated with Saturnino Martinez, a poet about twenty-seven years ago. In one instance the owners of a factory decided to discontinue it, and there was almost a riot among the workmen until the old custom was revived.

The cigarette factories, too, are interesting from the fact that hundreds of girls make their living in the manufacture of the millions of Cuban cigarettes consumed each year. These workers vary from children of twelve to women of fifty. Some of them are exceedingly pretty, although there are a few who bear any resemblance to Carmen as she is pictured by our operatic stars. Others are slovenly and are incessant smokers. The tobacco used for cigarettes is stored on the top floor of the factory, and its odor is so strong that the visitor can only remain in the rooms there for a few moments. Several floors are given over to the different processes of cigarette making. The machine has practically superseded hand labor, although certain branches of the trade still demand hand-made cigarettes. Nearly all the work in these factories is done by women, who roll, tip and pack the cigarettes. They usually come to work in their gayest clothes, especially during the carnival season. The Queen of Havana's Carnival is always from these workers, being selected by popular vote of the cigarette girls of the city.

The whole process of cigar and cigarette making from the growth of the tobacco until it comes out a finished product is interesting anywhere, but especially so in Cuba on account of its vastness and the great number of men employed in the industry.

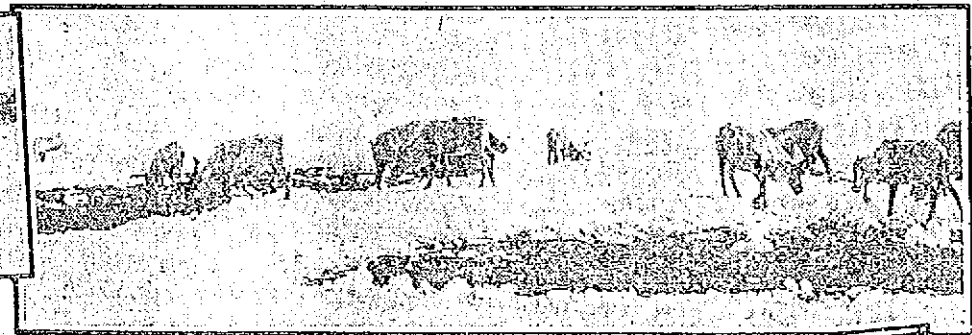

UNCLE SAM'S REINDEER

Herd of Reindeer

Four Alaskan Beauties

Reindeer for Hauling Mail

ONLY a few Esquimes have been brought to the United States but in reality they are among the most interesting people on our continent. These who have not had much contact with the whites still remain honest, truthful and simple. The way the whalers and gold seekers in the extreme north have treated them is a blot on our civilization. A few men who have labored among them have tried to better the condition of these who have been deprived of the fish they needed for food and the game that they ate and skins they used for clothing, dwellings and boats. Until the advent of the white man they never lacked for supplies of this nature but after he came with his superior weapons these poor people began to suffer for necessities. It was on this account the reindeer were introduced into the far north and their story makes interesting reading. They have not only been a blessing to the Esquimes but they are about the only foreign animal that we have domesticated with success. Camels were a failure in the great American desert but the Bureau of Education—for the reindeer industry is under this part of the government—has made a success of the reindeer industry.

Dr. Sheldon Jackson, who worked for many years among the natives around the Arctic Circle, was the first to suggest that they might be benefited by supplying them with reindeer; and on the whole, his policy was far reaching and wise. It took him some time to convince people that the moose on which the wild Alaskan reindeer lived was the same that nourished the Siberian animals, but after a while friends raised over two thousand dollars to import some reindeer to this country. Even with this money difficulties arose for the Siberians did not care to sell and as they had no use for each it was necessary to supply articles to use for barter. Then, he and a companion were obliged to coast over fifteen hundred miles along Siberia and to stop at many villages before they could obtain animals. They returned with sixteen, all that they could buy, for the Siberians were afraid that if they sold to Alaska they would no longer be able to exchange deer skins in exchange for oil.

The success in getting sixteen animals encouraged Congress to appropriate several thousand dollars for an industrial reindeer school near Bering Strait. Siberian herders were imported to show the natives how to care for and raise the animals and later a colony of Lapps were brought over from Northern Europe. It took some time, however, to convince people that the reindeer were adapted to our extreme north, though as a matter of fact, we have a vast area of tundra and moss adapted to these animals' sustenance, and those who have been instrumental in bringing reindeer have often suggested that it would be a profitable business for some capitalist. The flesh is excellent and much like venison and the hides are well adapted to many purposes.

This importation of Lappers was an original and daring venture. A whole ship was chartered for them when they came over and there was a miscellaneous assortment of Lapp men and women, reindeer, dogs, queer clothing and thousands of bags of moss for fodder. Uncle Sam received a delegation that attracted attention everywhere for the men were dressed in great fur coats with red borders, their trousers were of fur, four cornered red hats covered their heads and their moccasins were tipped with red fannel. The women wore in addition many rings and bracelets, but lacked the huge knives which the masculine element deemed necessary. Unfortunately, the reindeer died after crossing our continent but this was not surprising for they had a long voyage to New York, another hard trip across the United States and a journey of several days by water after they reached Seattle. The Lapps, however, were so much impressed with the trip and our country that they decided to remain.

In the meanwhile the few reindeer that we had were carefully tended and had increased. They had also taken part in some notable expeditions for rescue, the most daring of which was the saving of some starving sailors who were caught in the ice near Bering Strait. Eight whaling ships were imprisoned and four hundred seamen were without food, nor was there any prospect of help until the ice moved in the spring. No boats could get near nor could provisions be taken aboard. The reindeer were not near but were the only possible means of help so the government sent a revenue cutter as far as it could go, landed men, dog teams and reindeer and after three months the whaler was reached and the men rescued. All this was accomplished in the dead of an Arctic winter and through a country which was never before traveled by white men.

This rescue alone was enough to convince us that we ought to obtain more deer. And the Lieutenant of the revenue cutter who did such good work in the case of the imprisoned whaler was sent to Siberia to obtain a larger deer than we possessed. With men under him as assistants he landed on the Siberian shore, went into the interior, bartered, and after enduring many hardships came back with two hundred immense animals which were enough to found the present reindeer industry. They are now used in connection with the postal service, trips around the Arctic Circle are made with them and they are useful in innumerable ways.

The color of the fur is usually seal brown and rich in appearance. It is soft, glossy and pliable. When Dr. Jackson first brought the animals the natives were obtaining skins with great difficulty, sometimes from Siberia and rarely from a wild reindeer, but today the imported animals furnish the skins for the main part of the Esquimes' "Sunday go-to-meeting" dress. Clothing, however, is only one thing these animals furnish for they solve the problem of transportation to and from stations and mining camps. It is remarkable what one of these animals averaging two hundred and fifty pounds in weight can do. It can haul immense loads over frozen snow and succeed well even on light snow. They are somewhat like oxen, sure-footed, slow and safe. Thirty miles a day is a fair average with a load resting on the shoulders.

These gentle creatures are about two years old when broken to the harness and they are often used for hauling as well as for burden bearers. They are somewhat awkward to ride as the riders feet almost touch the ground. They are often driven two abreast and the harness is of the simplest—usually a head stall, breast strap and belly band. One jerk line is used by a driver who walks by the side of the lead and sometimes several loads follow in succession, the sledges being provided with a reindeer who follows the first lead. The males do the hauling.

Horses have never been a great success in this country because of the difficulty in obtaining food for them in winter. In fact, men have been accused of turning their horses out to die of cold and starvation when the long, cold season advanced. Because of the scarcity of food supply for animals the reindeer are invaluable. They pick their own fodder by pawing the snow and they even eat the snow for water. All the herder does is to lass them to a frozen mound of earth and they take care of themselves. So far there have been three classes of reindeer stations. Government installations where herds are loaned and an equal number eventually returned, and relief herds which are stationed at suitable points for emergency purposes. But there is one great misfortune. Though they were originally brought over for the Esquimes, there is only a small per cent. owned by these natives. The Lapps and other inhabitants are more fortunate. Many seasons are given for this, one being the reluctance of the Esquimes to leave home and a harder must be with his flock far away from the villages.

The Lappers are paid to show the natives how to make sledges and harnesses and the Esquimes in turn instruct them how to make their wonderful skin boats that have no seams, and fishing tackle. They also can and do show the "Lapps" how to make dog harnesses, for the natives have the peculiar Esquimo dog for hauling. They used him before the reindeer came and still employ him for many purposes. These dogs are part wolf, they look like wolves, never bark and have the wolf nose. Their fur is so thick that they seem to enjoy lying and sleeping in the snow. These "huskies" are so strong that six or eight of them hitched together can haul a heavy load and cover many miles a day. Hitched, one after the other, they pull with fierce energy and howl in concert if they cannot get started. They have the advantage of living on fish but to do this it is necessary to have fish constitute a good share of the load.
